

FEDERAL COIN TO FIGHT FIRES UPON RAILROAD GRANT

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—Senator Chamberlain, acting upon the request of the Jackson County Forest Patrol association, has succeeded in incorporating in the conferees' report on the civil sundry bill and having accepted by the senate, an appropriation of $25,000 to enable the interior department and the forest services to protect against fire all lands in Oregon involved in the Oregon and California land grant suit.

The conferees report also accepts an increase in the appropriation for roads in Crater Lake park from $75,000 to $85,000, with an increase in salary of Superintendent Steel.

Another amendment accepted fixes salary of clerks of federal courts in Oregon and Washington at $3500 and abolishes the double fee system in the federal courts in those states.

The conferees committee also agreed to the senate amendment appropriating $15,000 for new building and equipment at the new fish hatcheries at Clackamas.

The senate amendment appropriating $12,500 for the road from Fairfax to Carbon Glacier and Moraine Park in Rainier Park was knocked out.

The conferees committee rejected an increase in the appropriation for coast survey work along the Pacific coast from $165,000 to $225,000 and also rejected the senate amendment appropriating $175,000 for two new vessels which were to have been built for coast survey work in Alaska.

The appropriation for the Alaska fisheries service was reduced from $100,000 to $50,000 and for the protection of the Alaska seal fisheries from $110,000 to $60,000.

The appropriation of $50,000 for an Alaska exhibit at the San Francisco exhibition was knocked out by the conferees committee and the senate concurred in this action. Similar action was taken on the senate amendment appropriating $50,000 for medical relief of Alaska natives.

DOWN KLAMATH TO SEA IN CANOE

(Klamath Northwestern) "Over Niagara Falls in a barrel," is an old stunt that sounds like ancient history to inhabitants of this country but it is within the limits of possibility and has been performed with success by several nerve lovers of hair raising grand stand plays. Down Klamath river in a 35 pound canoe is the latest. Joseph C. Northup, night editor for the San Francisco Chronicle, who is spending his summer vacation at Rocky Point, accompanied by Joseph O'Keefe of San Francisco, will undertake negotiating the stream from source to Pacific in a 35 pound canoe with 100 pounds of duff in the near future.

This is an undertaking that will require nerve galore and skill with a skiff. In many places it will be necessary to carry the canoe around falls and rough canyons. In other places the boat will be let down to the water by ropes from steep cliffs above in order to avoid portage work as covers as much of the long and dangerous trip as possible by water. Although no attempt has ever been made in the past to accomplish this feat and considering many deep canyons and miles of wilderness Messrs. Northup and O'Keefe have faith in their expedition. They are preparing for the trip and will start down the tumbling waterway in a short time.

Mr. Northup is now at Rocky Point enjoying the profession that made Isaac Walton famous. He is preparing a 20,000 word write-up on Klamath Lake, for an eastern sportsman's magazine which, he hopes, will give the easterners a clearer conception of what is meant by the "charms of the west."

DAKOTA STREET TO HAVE NEW SEWER

The regular meeting of the city council was held last night but because of the absence of Councilman Miles little was done. The suburban water question was not discussed. After considerable debate it was decided that a sewer would be built on Dakota street between Newtown and King streets, the people being benefited paying for the same. The question of building sidewalks along a number of side streets was brought up but the matter was put aside to be decided upon at the next regular meeting.

A committee of three was appointed to establish a water rate to be charged to the Natatorium for the use of city water.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett.

When I had finished my letter to the Mail Tribune last Saturday I had just got to where I wanted to tell the readers something of my experience in riding over the country soliciting for the leading newspaper of southern Oregon and the reader will naturally say, "Why that is the Mail Tribune. Well I started out Wednesday morning and the first place that I stopped was at the Cingrade farm and found that Thomas and his wife were away from home and Charley had gone to look after the company cattle on the range so did no business there although Charley's wife was at home. From there I went to the farm of T. D. Singleton and on entering the gate met his daughter and she told me that I would find her father in the hay field, so on I went and found him raking alfalfa while his son was shocking. He had already cut and hauled over two tons of hay to the acre off of the tract and now was putting up about one and a half tons with the expectation of cutting another crop this season. While there he pointed with pride to his young orchard and assured me that he was making it pay raising grain and hay between the trees. After renewing his subscription I passed on by Mr. Hisey's fine farm, he is a paid up subscriber so did not stop to see him, but went to C. A. Prewell's farm and found he and his son hard at work hauling grain and I tell you that it did look fine. There I had to put up for dinner or else risk the displeasure of mine host so after partaking of their hospitality and giving them a receipt for a year's subscription to the Weekly Mail Tribune, I started for home. The next morning I again started and went to the farm of John Rader but as John was not at home I could do no business, passing on to the Geo. W. Steven farm I happened to find him and his family there, they had just come out from Medford in his car. Mr. S. is one of the most thoroughgoing men in that section and thanks to his push and perseverance they have a new county road opened from Eagle Point to intersect the Brownsboro-Medford road so as to accommodate quite a number of the citizens of the Antelope valley. After giving him a receipt for a year's subscription to the Weekly Mail Tribune I passed Mr. Derrick's but he was getting the paper so on I went to the beautiful home and farm of the Lewis Bros. I was greatly pleased to find Mrs. Fred T. Lewis so enthusiastic over their prospect, for although she was raised in a city and when they bought the farm of A. S. Carlton and D. Bradshaw, about 200 acres, she knew but very little of the practical workings of farm life, but now she seems to have a very correct idea of how to work a farm and handle stock. When I enquired for Mr. Lewis was told that he was out in the orchard hauling in his hay. Last year I had occasion to mention his putting in red clover in his orchard as an experiment but it has now proved a grand success for he was hauling in his second cutting, and it was a fine crop and was rushing his work so as to make room for the third crop of clover hay, mark you, that that he raised between his fruit trees. In addition to his hay, and he estimates that he will have in the neighborhood of 170 tons, he has some as fine looking grain as I have seen any where, he is planning to put most all of his land in clover. After giving him a receipt for a year's subscription to the Daily Mail Tribune, I next went to the Walsh farm owned by Mrs. Katie Walsh, her farm is situated on Antelope bottom and on the sticky land joining and is very productive. After straightening out her account with the Mail Tribune and have her pay up to date and a year in advance, for she has an abhorrence of going in debt, bidding her and her family adieu I next went through the fine farm of Senator Von der Hellen, passed on to Fred Loy's found him at home and giving him a receipt for a year's subscription to the Daily Mail Tribune, turned my course, for it was too hot to try to climb up those hills between Antelope and Dry creek and went to the home of A. W. Bradshaw, the foreman of the Commercial orchard, and found that he was away but would be home at night, so I settled down quietly for the night and had a very pleasant visit with Mrs. Bradshaw and children. In the evening he came in with a bunch of cattle he had gathered up to take to the range on the higher hills. Surely he is a busy man having charge of an orchard one and a half miles long by one mile wide with 14 men to look after and in addition to all of that he has several hundred turkeys and hundreds of hogs, in fact everything is on a large scale. In the morning after giving him a receipt for $5 on his subscription I started to look for some new subscribers as I learned that there was several families above there although several of them were taking the Mail Tribune and had paid up in advance. On my way I stopped at a house and asked the lady if she did not want to take the Mail Tribune and she told me no for said she I get to read my neighbors papers. Going on I passed a neat school house where a lady by the name of Good is teaching and as I was riding along I met a gentleman and lady and I mistrusted that he was a man that lived high on the hill and it was getting quite tropical so when we met I simply asked him if his name was—and he said yes, and in about two minutes he had a receipt for $1.50 on his subscription. Now Mr. Editor wasn't that gall to hold up a couple in that way. That finished up my successful work for that trip although I tried several others, but they put up the plea of hard times.

But before I bring this to a close I must add that we have an energetic class of people on Yankee creek and they are making some substantial improvements in the line of fencing, for they seem to be fencing in all of that country.
