CHANGING POLES OF EARTH TO MAKE MEDFORD GREAT

The earth rotates in its orbit about the sun at a speed of nineteen miles per second, and in its rotation about its own axis at a speed of over 1000 miles per hour at the equator, while a person standing at the poles would simply turn around once in twenty-four hours.

So if you want to be beyond the speed limits, go to the poles. But you would not be safe at the poles forever, for the earth is shifting the poles at the rate of 32 seconds of latitude each year, so that in 10,125 years from now the poles of the earth will be where the equator is now, and the equator will be where some present line of longitude intersects the poles.

It is difficult in our present knowledge to determine the exact line of recession of the poles. It may follow some direct line of longitude or it may be erratic, but for our purpose we will assume that it will follow the meridian of Greenwich, from where, by common consent, longitude is reckoned.

Then Alaska and Nome and the vast frozen tundra of the north will then be in the torrid zone and will be covered with orchards, bread fruit, bananas and oranges (real estate men take notice and get in on the ground floor).

Medford will have a climate similar to Los Angeles. The change of the poles of 90 degrees would change the speed of the man at the poles from a standstill to a speed of over 1000 miles per hour, and the change would make many changes in the topography of the earth's surface.

In fact, I claim that the Cascade mountains are now receding from their present elevation at the rate of five inches yearly, and have been doing so ever since Crater Lake mountain erupted and relieved the gas pressure that held them up. In that case, in 10,000 years from now Medford will be a seaport at the new western shore of a great plain.

BLAME FOR LYNCHING

WITH its customary venomous unfairness and its usual twisted logic, the Portland Oregonian asserts that the lynching by a mob in Baker county of a fiend that assaulted and murdered a child, is the direct result of Governor West's taking the law in his own hands last year and closing by martial law the saloons of Copperfield.

The governor acted legally and within his rights as chief executive when he declared martial law and closed up the dives of Copperfield because the local officials would not enforce the law, and the courts have so declared.

Therefore there can be no comparison between the legal action of the governor and the illegal action of the mob. The contempt for the law which exists in Baker county is due principally to the failure of local officials to enforce it.

The Oregonian never had a word of censure for the officials who refused to enforce the law or for the dividers who defied it—but columns of abuse for the executive who used the law to enforce the law.

It is not the attitude of law-enforcers like Oswald West that cause lynch law, but the attitude of carping critics like the Oregonian, who decry law enforcement, excuse its non-enforcement and sustain officials in their policy of protecting lawbreakers.

The Oregonian is more to blame than the governor for the Baker lynching.

PROSPERITY ON THE WAY

WHILE politicians and partisan newspapers are clamoring for calamity business is steadily improving all over the nation. Record crop productions in all lines have started the wheels of prosperity humming, despite the brakes applied by Wall street and big business.

Bank clearings are generally regarded as a business barometer, and these are cited by Bradstreet as "evidence of improvement in distribution trade and in collections." The total for June, 1914, was $13,812,268,991, a gain over June last year of 1.7 per cent, and over June, 1912, of 2.1 per cent.

Clearances for the first six months of 1914 total only seven-tenths of one per cent less than the largest clearances on record, and Bradstreet's remarks: "It is evident that a fractional decrease from the largest totals ever recorded in the first half of the year does not convey an impression of widespread depression, whatever may be conceded about limited speculation, unsatisfactory industrial conditions and inability to float new enterprises on a large scale."

This looks as if the cry of hard times and industrial depression was largely psychological, as President Wilson asserts.

Says Twenty-Eight-Year-Old Women Marry to Escape Loneliness

Marjorie Benton Cooke, author of "Bambie," the lively and entertaining story now running in The American Magazine, submitted to an interview by a New York newspaper woman the other day in which she said:

"The girl of eighteen marries a man because she's mad about him. The woman of 25 marries because she wants a charm. Of the two unions I believe that the second is much more likely to result in lasting happiness."

"The woman who doesn't marry till she is nearly 30 has found out what loneliness means. Or she has seen women fifty or 60 years old with no one to companion them and a black future almost upon them. She has said to herself with a shiver, 'I may be like that!' She she marries a man with whom she can be good friends and who, on his part, asks nothing more than she has to give. 'Or she doesn't find that sort of man and remains unmarried. There are conditions prescribed by some husbands which fill with disgust the economically independent woman. Once to have filled your own pocket-book with the proceeds of your own work is to have tasted blood, you know."

"The modern woman demands so much more of a husband than the woman of a generation ago. It's not merely that she wants a fair financial status, but she requires intellectual companionship and moral cleanliness."

Most Familiar Face in the World

In the "Interesting People" department of the August American Magazine appear a picture and sketch of John Bunny, the funny little fat man of the movies, whose face is familiar to people throughout the whole world.

Following is an extract from the article: "John Bunny's face is at once his fortune and his misfortune. It has established him as one of the highest salaried actors in the world, and at the same time has made him so easily recognizable that he cannot hide. If Mr. Bunny enters a Broadway restaurant the diners stop dining long enough to wave a Chautauque salute. If he goes to a prize fight or ball game the fans stand and cheer his entrance. If he walks down the street a crowd follows and congests traffic."

"It seems scarcely necessary to state that John Bunny is the funny little fat man who falls out of airplanes and tumbles off skyscrapers in the movies, since it is estimated that more than seven million people in the United States and between fifteen and twenty million in the world attend the movies daily and most of these at some time or other have laughed at Bunny's antics. When Mr. Bunny had been acting for the films only a year and a half he went abroad to be photographed in photoplays with foreign backgrounds. His trip proved a triumphal tour from the moment he mounted the gangplank. At every station at which the boat train to London stopped the loungers recognized him immediately he stepped upon the platform. In London, whenever he walked upon the Strand or in Ludgate Circus he was given a ovation. In Paris, Berlin and St. Petersburg the cry, 'There goes Bunny!' in as many respective languages always greeted his appearance in public."

Convention Page Theater Letters from governors and others will be read. The convention will be held at the Page theater. The business meeting will be held in the forenoon of the two days. All interested in good roads are invited to attend. The general public is invited to attend the meetings in the afternoons when the addresses of the several speakers will be delivered.

The ladies of the Greater Medford club will look after the ladies in attendance, and have arranged for a breakfast on the morning of the 28th. Local Autos Wanted Automobiles will be on hand to take the visitors through the valley to take part in the invitation extended by the Commercial club and ladies of Ashland. This trip is arranged for Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The city park and Bear creek bridge will be illuminated for the occasion. Streamers of welcome and good roads pennants are displayed. A trip to the work on the highway in the Siskiyou mountains will be provided for.

The Medford-Central Point highway will be thrown open for travel on the day of the convention. Everybody, every good roads booster is invited. Remember the slogan—"Let's get out of the mud."

FELL FROM HORSE; INJURIES ARE SLIGHT P. G. Wortman of the Perrydale district, was painfully injured yesterday afternoon when he was thrown from a horse when the animal became frightened at an engine. Mr. Wortman was riding by a digging engine working on the Medford-Jacksonville road about a mile from Medford when the accident occurred. He was knocked unconscious and painfully injured about the chest where he was struck by the saddle horn. His condition is not serious according to Dr. Seeley who is attending the case.

WILLARD C. DENEFF, age 53 years, one of the best known pioneers of the Rogue River valley died at his home in Jacksonville Tuesday July 21, at 5 o'clock of consumption. Mr. Deneff had been ill for the past year and had spent several months in the northern part of the state in an effort to rid himself of the dread disease.

For forty-seven years Mr. Deneff had mined, managed and owned mines in the valley. When a boy six years of age he came to Jackson county from Germany. He was well liked and known for his honesty and integrity in business transactions.

He leaves a wife, Mrs. Hattie Deneff. Funeral services will be held from the residence in Jacksonville at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Burial will be in the Jacksonville cemetery.

REYNOLDS and Stevens, proprietors of the East Side Dairy, on Ross Lane, have purchased Wm. Muller's Jersey herd and milk route and have consolidated it with their dairy. They have also made improvements in their dairy barns, put in a modern water system and new milk cooling machinery and are better prepared than ever before to handle their increasing business. They have both wagon and auto delivery.

NO BAD FIRES RAGING; HUMBUG MOST SERIOUS

Although the forest fire danger is greatest now than for any time this year or last year, there are no bad fires burning now. Practically all fires are now under control, according to a report of the officials of the Jackson County Fire Patrol association.

The Humbug creek fire proved the most serious, burning over seven or eight square miles of territory. Little big timber was destroyed, however. The Willow Springs fire and the Foots creek fire were both hard to control.

Two new fires have just been discovered in the Bishop creek section. These are not expected to prove serious. Fires on the Tallow mountain and in the vicinity of Wellington Butte are also receiving attention.

Practically all fires so far have been outside the national forests and have been combated by the Jackson County Fire Patrol association. Through vigilant patrol of watchmen hired by the association and forest rangers, it is thought that little damage will result from fires this year.

The lack of rain has caused the woods to be in a very dry condition, so that fires start easily and are hard to control when started. Campers are warned to be especially careful. Unless new fires start or a high wind comes up to make the smoldering fires already burning to break out again, little trouble is expected this week.

CRYING FOR HELP

Lots of It in Medford But Daily Growing Less

The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed. Not one more important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble. It is often the kidney's cry for help. Read what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for overworked kidneys.

Proof of merit in the following statement: Daniel Flaten, C. St., Jacksonville, Oregon, says: "It was six or seven years ago that I used Doan's Kidney Pills, but I can't forget how much good they did me. I suffered from weakness of the kidneys and all the disorders that go with kidney complaint. I ached all over. Doan's Kidney Pills soon fixed me up in good shape."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Flaten had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
