cause he is an honest man." Barhou a Witness. Those in the courtroom soon began to tire of M. Ceccaldi's speech and the interruptions increased, which brought from the witness the heated exclamation:

"I have the right to talk here, because they seek to keep a woman in prison." He then proceeded with a criticism of former Premier Barhou's course in reading in the chamber of deputies the documents drawn up by Victor Fabre in connection with the Rochette swindle. When M. Ceccaldi concluded, former Premier Barhou was called and defended his action in making public the Victor Fabre documents. M. Caillaux also spoke very briefly.

Letters to Be Read. Maitre Labori and Maitre Chenu then explained their ideas for and against the publication of the letters placed in Maitre Labori's charge by Mme. Gueydan. Labori returned the letters to Mme. Gueydan and asked her what her wishes were, and she replied:

"I do not care what you do. Publish them all, if you want to do so." It was thereupon decided to place three of the letters in evidence, but to read only one of them. This would be done, it was announced, after recess.

The question of the reading of the letters gave rise to another scene when court re-assembled.

Judge Albanel, who had talked over the matter with lawyers for both sides during the recess, called Mme. Gueydan to the stand and Maitre Labori at once addressed her saying:

"These letters will not be read by me, Madame, do you wish them back?"

"No."

"Well, then no one shall have them except myself. If you have heard of me being caught in a trap you are mistaken."

Maitre Labori appeared to regard Mme. Gueydan's seeming reluctance of yesterday and her impulsive consent that he should have the letters a device to place him in the position either of suppressing the letters or of reading them to the disadvantage of Mme. Caillaux. He asked her again:

"Madame, do you wish to take back these letters?"

Mme. Gueydan: "No sir."

Maitre Chenu: "Give me the letters to tear them up."

Judge Disposes of Letters. Judge Albanel disposed of the question for the time being by saying the letters would be confined provisionally to Maitre Chenu as representing Mme. Gueydan and to Maitre Labori as representative of M. and Mme. Caillaux.

The judge took occasion to announce that in accord with the terms and the attorneys, the arguments would not be finished tomorrow, nor would the court sit on Sunday.
