TSING TAU, Aug. 29.—Six Japanese warships may be seen every day from the Tsing Tau fortifications, cruising back and forth beyond the range of the German guns. Only men clad in khaki are permitted to show themselves on the fortifications. White clothing is barred because it is conspicuous. The Germans are continuing with energy their preparations against attack by land. Mines are being placed and provided with electrical connections and guns are being brought into position. The Germans assert that every day allowed them for preparation means that they will be able to inflict casualties on the Japanese of not less than 1000 men. You Get the Best There is when you smoke Gov. Johnson cigars and patronize home industry.

LOUVAIN WIPED OUT

(Continued from Page 1) town on fire, and many people are said to have perished in the flames. The telephone service of Etain was left in the hands of a girl who stuck to her post while shells were bursting all around the telephone office and called up Verdun every fifteen minutes to give an account of what was going on. The director of posts at Verdun was listening to a message being sent by this girl when suddenly she interrupted her communication to say: "A bomb has just fallen in this office." This ended the conversation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—A defense of the German destruction of the historic Belgian town of Louvain, was contained in a wireless dispatch from the Berlin foreign office to the German embassy here today. The message says: "In consequence of a sudden attack of Belgian troops from Antwerp, the German garrison at Louvain went out to meet the enemy, leaving only one battalion of the last reserves and an army service corps.

"Thinking this was a retreat on the German troops, priests of Louvain gave the people ammunition and civilians began to shoot at unsuspecting German troops from windows in different parts of the town and wounded many. A fight lasting 24 hours took place between the German soldiers and the people of the town. Parts of the city are burning and civilians met carrying arms are killed. "A manifesto of the chief of general staff speaks of bestial cruelty on the wounded and makes the civil authorities of the town responsible for the provocation and for providing people with arms. "The leaders of the German army," the dispatch continues, protest against news of the cruelties of German warfare. German troops sometimes had to take severe measures when provoked by the people making treacherous attacks upon them or committing atrocities against the wounded. The responsibility for this method of warfare falls entirely upon the civil authorities of occupied territory who give arms to civilians and stir them up to take part in the war. The German troops never harmed people or private property without cause. The German soldiers are not incendiary or pillagers."

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY TO OPEN SEPT. 7

Classes at St. Mary's Academy will be resumed Monday, September 7. The Academic department in accordance with the modern ideal of developing each pupil conformably to natural aptitudes and with a view toward preparation for the practical, daily occupations of life, has undergone some changes and, this year, offers a wider scope for the selection of courses adapted to each one's taste and talents than ever before. Dialectic science will be taught in the manner best suited to obtaining practical results in the home; and in the science classes for girls, those departments of science, particularly of chemistry and botany, most useful to the home maker will be given special attention. The art classes too will be drawn upon in the interests of those who are to be trained in the important science and art of home-making. At the same time the primary cultural subjects cannot be neglected and Latin, English, French and German will be taught in the usual excellent manner. Special work in dramatics and oral expression has been planned and this work as well as that which pertains to home economics will be carried on in the grades in a manner which promises to bring about the closer union of home and school, so much advocated by critics of our present educational conditions; as well as to improve the already almost ideal opportunities of the grade pupil at St. Mary's. The Academic diploma admits to the St. Mary's College at Portland, Oregon, as well as to the state accredited normal schools at Maryhurst, Oswego, Oregon, and Spokane and Seattle, Wash. The music department offers lessons in piano, violin, cello and harp. The courses are based on the best modern methods and it is expected that this year's work in music will surpass even the best of the excellent work of past years. As in former years frequent musicales and recitals will be a means of stimulating interest in classic music and of giving students the composed bearing and grace of execution characteristic of convent trained pupils. In the art department continual changes and improvements mark the steps of progress. Much of the summer has been spent by those in charge in the study of the newer methods of the large art schools and a year of the best results in the history of the academy is expected. Courses in china decoration, water colors, oil painting, pen and ink and charcoal drawing are offered. For the ordinary pupil not registered in the art department outdoor sketching and designing will be interesting and well developed features of the coming year's class work for not the least important work of both music and art departments will be done in the grammar grade and academic class rooms.
