VAST ARMIES ON MARCH (Continued from Page 1)

"In the main northern theatre of the war, the German advance appears to continue without slackening its pace. It must be indeed an over-weary army that the Germans are bringing toward the forts of Paris. They have made an effort which nearly deserves to be called superhuman. Nothing like it ever before was seen in war. "Yet we may be sure they have spent themselves in vain." LONDON, Sept. 2, 9:00 a. m.—In a dispatch from Paris, dated Sunday, August 30, the local correspondent of the Daily Mail says there is one circumstance regarding the position in which the allied armies now find themselves which may be regarded as hopeful. That is that at St. Quentin, the angle of their position, they appear to have thrust forward a threatening wedge into the enemy's center. The allies will have the benefit in the engagement that will be resumed at daybreak tomorrow (Monday), the correspondent continues, of moving on the enemy's interior lines. There is therefore, possibility that a vigorous counter attack from Laferre might succeed in cutting through the German center. "So, here is the enemy within sixty miles of Paris," the correspondent declares. "What will happen if the fortune of this battle once again goes against the allies? We may perhaps see British troops falling back with their French comrades on Paris."

flag and thirty-two guns and a quantity of supplies and made many prisoners, including a general. Force Retreat "On the south front, in the Warsaw district, all the Austrian attacks have been repelled with success. Assuming the offensive on our right wing, we forced the Austrians to retreat, capturing three cannons, ten rapid-fire guns and over one thousand prisoners. According to statements made by the latter, the Austrian losses were very heavy." A telegram received in an official quarter in London today from the chief of the Russian general staff declares that the Russian reserve in Eastern Prussia is to be regarded as purely local and due to the sudden reinforcements of the Germans (probably at Grandenz and Thorn) and the arrival of their siege guns. Russian reinforcements also immediately arrived. Koenigsbutte Next LONDON, Sept. 2, 9:40 a. m.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Rome says: "Besides advancing in East Prussia, the Russians are also invading Germany in Northern Galicia, their objective being Koenigsbutte, in Prussian Silesia, whence presumably they will march on Berlin via Breslau."

MONS ATTACK BY GERMANS, WAR'S FIERCEST FRAY

LONDON, Sept. 2, 2:47 p. m.—The Chronicle from an unnamed point in France, gives a description, obtained from officers of the great battle near Mons, on August 26. He says: "All soldiers agree that Wednesday's battle was by far the more terrible. Certainly it came at the end of several days fighting but they tell me the Germans put more strength into that day's work than perhaps any other. "An officer told me it was a terrible day. I think the Germans felt that here was an opportunity to wipe out the British force, and they brought up vast numbers of their best and freshest men. They assailed the British position not only with determination, but with what I can only justly call ferocity. "No doubt the German general staff was of the opinion that the British force could not stand before an attack by an enemy twice as strong in numbers and much stronger in artillery. It was really the first occasion in history on which a battle has taken place between a German and a British army, and I think, when we can read its story as we can that of Waterloo, it will be found that the battle, in which twice as many men were engaged as at Waterloo, deserves far higher place purely as a military achievement. "It was something really awe-inspiring, another officer said, in speaking of the same day, "to see those terrific German rushes. The attacking forces were well served, took by artillery and that has not always been the case. Generally the artillery fire of the Germans has been rather poor. fourth army corps crossed the eastern frontier of Galicia and after a series of minor encounters, in which it was everywhere victorious, drove back the Austrian forces, massed there until a general battle ensued about 30 miles east of Leuberg. After long sustained and heavy fighting at this point, the Russians captured several places where the Austrians had taken up positions fortified by field works, namely at (names deleted by censors.) Of the continued Russian advance on Lamber there are no further reports. In conclusion, the correspondent of the Times says that the information given out at headquarters in St. Petersburg indicates that the Russians, in spite of the Austrian stubborn defense, will bring victory home in this long sustained and terrible battle in which probably more than 1,000,000 men are engaged."

KING'S BLESSING FOR TROOPS WHO WOUNDED PRINCE

LONDON, Sept. 2, 10:30 a. m.—In a dispatch from Amsterdam, the local correspondent of the Central News says that the shot which ultimately resulted in the death of Prince Von Beulow, one of the German generals, was fired by a Belgian private, Rosseau, who since has been decorated by King Albert for his conduct in the battle of Haalen. Rosseau was lying badly wounded among a group of dead comrades when he saw a German officer standing beside his horse and studying a map. Picking up a rifle from beside a dead German, Rosseau fired at this officer and wounded him. The officer subsequently proved to be Prince Von Beulow. Exclaiming his hat for the German general's helmet and taking the general's horse, Rosseau made his way to the Belgian lines and was placed in a hospital at Ghent.

Cowboys of the Sky Buck Up with Dixie Queen When you're slinging rivets five hundred feet in the air, you get that old he-feeling that life is full of good stuff. There's pep and ginger in the game. "Cowboys of the sky" is what they call these keen, alert, structural iron men. And when they like to "buck up" a bit—well, they go for good, full-bodied, rich DIXIE QUEEN Plug Cut Tobacco Put DIXIE QUEEN in a pipe and it goes right to the spot with the man who knows real tobacco. Chew it and you get the limit of tobacco enjoyment. DIXIE QUEEN is made for the sturdy man who wants a natural, full-bodied smoke and satisfying, healthful chew. DIXIE QUEEN is made of pure old Burley leaf, aged three to five years. The "aging" process cannot be hurried—or DIXIE QUEEN would not be so mellow and smooth. DIXIE QUEEN never varies, is always just right, because a large reserve stock of leaf is carried to protect this famous old brand. A pipeful of DIXIE QUEEN lasts, because it is slow-burning Plug Cut. A long-time chew because the flavor's all through it. Stick DIXIE QUEEN into your overalls for a week's trial and you'll always stick to it. Sold everywhere in convenient 5c foil packages—also in 10c pouches and 50c lunch boxes. THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY
