EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett.

In my last I omitted to state that on Wednesday evening about seven o'clock J. F. Ditsworth of Prospect drove up with his daughter, Mrs. J. L. East, and her daughter, Miss Margaret, of Medford, and his wife's son-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Russell, Miss Major Russell, Masters Donald and George Russell of North Platt, Nebraska. They have been visiting Mrs. Russell's mother and her sister, besides her step-father and family for the past two weeks. And on Friday evening after supper time Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Summerville and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bowman of Medford came up in their auto and called for supper, tired, dusty and hungry. They had left Crater Lake that day and had a little sunburn, so were detained somewhat but not too late for something to eat at the Sunnyside.

At the residence of his son, Samuel H. Harnish, August 28, 1914, Benjamin W. Harnish, aged 83 years, 8 months and 7 days. The deceased was born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, and moved to Nebraska in 1896, and after remaining there about nine years came to Eagle Point with his son with whom he has lived the most of the time for the past twenty-four years. He leaves four children. Henry is in New Mexico, Michael in Pennsylvania, Samuel H. in Eagle Point, and a daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Furry also in Pennsylvania. During the time the 83rd gentleman has been in Eagle Point he has made many friends, he was always very industrious and up to the time of his last sickness he could often be seen in his little garden. The remains were taken to the Baptist church on Sunday, August 30, and Rev. L. L. Simmons delivered a funeral discourse and then they were taken to Central Point cemetery for interment followed by a large concourse of friends and neighbors with a fine assortment of flowers. Cephus Mooman and wife of Josephine county, relatives of the deceased, came over to attend the funeral.

There was quite a number of our citizens went to Medford last Saturday to see the show.

Last Saturday instead of my going to Medford to see the big circus I started after dinner for the little town of Tolo, situated on the S. P. R. R. about four miles north of Central Point and there on the arrival of the regular passenger train met Rev. McDavis, and we went to the home of E. H. Davis, where we found him busy packing peaches, and while there the question was asked, "What will be done with all the peaches and pears, say nothing about apples in the Rogue River valley when all the trees go to bearing?" For the peach is so short lived that it has to be put up very soon after it ripens. On Sunday we held services in the school house at 11 a. m. and 8 p. h., myself preaching in the forenoon after the Sunday school session, and Rev. Davis at night. They have a very flourishing Sunday school at that point and the people seem glad to have religious services held there.

The last time that I wrote I had just got through with an account of my visit to the Blonze farm and my paper gave out so had to quit. Leaving there I went through the A. Corbin and Corbin Edjell farms or rather orchards, but did not see any of the folks except two young ladies and the children as Mr. Corbin was in Medford that day, but I saw that he had a fine prospect for fruit and had the water so arranged that he could irrigate about all of their orchard. Passing on the next place on my route, or rather off my route, was Mr. F. Loomis so I started through a wood pasture with a covered buggy and took the wrong road but kept right on for about three quarters of a mile through chapped brush over logs, etc., but finally I reached the place by leaving my rig climbing a wire fence and when I reached the home found Mr. Mann one of the "ditch walkers," and he informed me that Mr. Loomis was not at home and did not know where he was. It was then ten minutes to twelve, noon, so I retraced my steps and soon found myself at the home of Dr. Nuding where I found the doctor and his estimable wife and after putting away my horse we settled down for a visit while the good lady was preparing dinner. After dinner bidding mine host and hostess adieu I kept on from house to house meeting with varied success for the people tell me that money is very scarce but in the course of my travels I called on some friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Horton, where I did some business for the Mail Tribune. I next called on Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Hessler and gave him a receipt for a year's subscription to the Weekly Mail Tribune and while there I met Grandma Marguerite Culser, ninety three years old, and she goes all around visiting her friends on foot. More anon.

FOR SALE—Peninsula acreage, Portland. I have 200 acres of land on the Peninsula below St. Johns, in the future industrial center of Portland. For the man who can hold this land for a few years there is a fortune. For the present it is non-income bearing and I find it necessary to sell. Adjoining land is held for $100,000 per acre. I have placed the extremely low price of $300.00 per acre on this land to induce immediate sale. Would consider a good income bearing orchard of approximately the same value. In exchange, my property is clear of incumbrance, as must be any offered in exchange. Could divide into two tracts if desirable, of approximately $40,000.00 and $20,000.00 in value. Act quickly if interested. Address Owner, 610 Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Portland, Oregon. 140
