Thunder crashed and lightning flashed over the Rogue river valley Wednesday night, a rare meteorological occurrence for October in this section, following an ideal Indian summer day. A heavy rain fell most of the evening. A feature of the storm was the display of ball lightning that prevailed in the southern sky, being of extreme brilliancy, and highly spectacular zigzagging across the sky. The lightning flashes lighted up the foot hills with every flash. No damage was done by the storm.

FATE OF INDIAN IN JURY'S HANDS THIS AFTERNOON

Arguments in the trial of Thomas G. Smith in the federal court, accused of the murder of Lang River Beall, a fellow tribesman of the Klamaths, were begun this morning, and the case will be given to the jury late this afternoon. All the evidence in the case was completed at 11 o'clock this morning, when Assistant District Attorney Beckman opened for the government.

The defendant took the stand in his own behalf and said that he struck in self-defense. A coat he wore the day of the fatality was shown to the jury. It was torn on one side, a point the defense urged as showing the violence of the attack of Beall. The defendant recounted the events leading up to the quarrel and denied malice or aforethought.

A bit of an Indian love story crept into the evidence Wednesday afternoon when Lattie Beall testified that she was engaged to be married to the alleged slayer of her father.

Evidence was introduced at the morning session showing that Smith had spent a month at the Beall home as a guest, and that on the day of the crime he had been drinking. The government took the stand that Smith, fired by liquor, was peevish when Beall upbraided him for being intoxicated, and then ordered him from his home, after shaking him.

The government introduced testimony tending to discount the plea of self-defense by witnesses who met Smith after the row, who asserted the defendant did not tell them anything of the fight.

A feature of the trial is the number of "murder" fans, including a number of women, who d rink up every word of the trial with eagerness.

HOLD MRS. McNULTY TO GRAND JURY

Mrs. Fannie McNulty, charged with defrauding the Jackson County bank out of $380 through forging the signature of Mrs. Sarah Collins to a certificate of deposit, was bound over to the grand jury Wednesday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Taylor, under $500 bonds, the amount of the alleged theft. The defendant broke down and cried bitterly when the decision was given.

The hearing of the evidence was long drawn out and was enlivened by Tom Frekas' mutilation of the English language and a couple of warm passages of words between Prosecutor Kelly and Attorney Mulvey. Frekas was a boarder at the McNulty home and testified that the defendant was sick upon July 10, the day she is alleged to have forged the certificate. He could not grasp the meaning of the queries directed to him, and took from five to ten minutes to get a lucid reply from him.

Mrs. Sarah Collins, the complaining witness, testified to showing Mrs. McNulty the certificate. Bank officials identified the handwriting on the certificate.

Mrs. McNulty in her own defense testified that she was sick in bed on July 10, the day the forgery is alleged to have been committed. All testimony showing her willingness to return to trial from Boise was thrown out on the grounds of being "self-serving."

BLUE TRIANGLE PEARS WIN IN EASTERN MARKETS

The "Blue Triangle Brand" of Rogue river pears are carrying off all the laurels this season. The other day, the Northwestern Fruit Exchange of this city, agents for the Rogue River Fruit & Produce Association of Medford, announced the sale of a carload of Boerze Rose at an average in New York of $2.15 per half box, equal to $4.30 per box. Now comes the report of sale in New York yesterday by the Exchange of the first car of Blue Triangle Comice of the season at prices which establish the season's record of the whole New York market, which, in high grade pears, is to say the world's market. This car contained 423 half boxes of Blue Triangle Comice which averaged $2.89 per half box, equal to $5.78 per standard or full box; the car also contained an experimental lot of 57 "trays" or single layer boxes which have been recommended by the Exchange's London manager for several years and which realized $1.50 per tray, or the equivalent of about $6.00 per box. This would seem to show the wisdom of this sort of package for Comice of the finest selections, as this package is designed to protect the fruit from bruising, which so disfigures it. The idea is taken from the French growers who pack all their finest Comice in this manner. This car also contained 230 "Red Triangle," the next best grade of Comice in half boxes which averaged $2.34, a really phenomenal price, and 15 half boxes of D'Anjou completed the car with an average of $1.70. The whole car grossed $2105.67.

The nearest approach to this record made by the Santa Clara valley, California Comice was recorded on Sept. 11, when a car of the celebrated "Block Brand" averaged $1.82 per half box, which is $1.07 per half box lower than the Blue Triangle halves and even 52c per half box less than the Red Triangle, the number two grade of the Rogue River Association. The value of organization, facilities, management and sales facilities are splendidly illustrated in this sale, as other or "independent" brands of Rogue river pears sold in New York yesterday under identical conditions of market, etc., realized far less. One car of this independent fruit brought for Comice halves $2.97 another mark $2.05, still another Comice in full or standard boxes averaged $2.39 or less than half the price realized by the Exchange for the Triangle brands.

The Exchange also sold a car of Rogue River Boerze pears as follows: Blue Triangle halves averaged $1.97. Standards $2.21. Seckles in half boxes $2.00. Outside or independent fruit sold in New York yesterday brought much lower prices; one car ten or fifteen miles of the Belgian border, while beyond these points, masses of cavalry continue to struggle over the frontier line and into Belgium. Along the greater part of the front, however, the antagonists seem content to watch each other without attempting any definite movements. New German effectives have appeared in the Lille district, and the struggle opposite the three rivers may decide the French campaign.

Batter at Przemysl

In the east the Russian's are battering away at Przemysl, which is said to be suffering severely under artillery fire. All efforts of the Austrians to relieve this fortress are reported as having been repulsed.

The Russian general staff reports that the German army, defeated on the Niemen River, has retreated to the east Prussian frontier, where it has entrenched itself, and Berlin supplements this information with the statement that the Russians have been repulsed with a loss of 2,700 prisoners and nine machine guns. The Germans claim also that in minor engagements near Ingardol, south east of Warsaw, in Russian Poland, they took 1,800 prisoners.

Petrograd declares that the main conflict along the Vistula river has not as yet developed, although there have been preliminary engagements between advanced forces.

He was a guest of the University club at a luncheon this noon.
