

JACKSON COUNTY WELL REPRESENTED STATE UNIVERSITY

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Oct. 26.—Jackson county is accredited with twenty students at the state university this year, according to recent compilations by the registrar's office. Of this number, Medford itself has fifteen. The students are: Hazel Rader, Mildred Gerig, Emerson Merrick, Jessie Purdy, Mary Stevenson, Mildred Brown, Ina Cochran, Ruth Lawrence, Edison Marshall, Maud Newbury, Harold Cochran, Donald Newbury, Ruth Nye, Vera Olmstead and William Sawyer, of Medford; Bertha Kincaid and Carroll Wagner of Ashland; Agnes Dunlap of Central Point; Frances Heath of Eagle Point, Ruth Wilson of Talent. This year's enrollment has reached the high water mark of 740, an increase of 50 over the registration at this time last year. Registrar Tiffany believes that the enrollment for the year will exceed 800, as 75 freshmen and a number of old students are expected to enter in February. The figures mentioned above include only the students enrolled for resident work in the college of arts and sciences. Besides these 740 resident students there must be added 83 students in the medical department at Portland, 230 in the law department, 145 correspondence study students, 98 students in the music department, 523 students in the extension classes and 100 in the summer school. This gives a total of 1979 and shows that the grand increase in enrollment for the university since this date last year is over 12 1/2 per cent. Both on the campus and outside an increase is noted in every item.

NEW DAM STOPS FISH IN KLAMATH

Now that all other means for gaining the establishment of a fish ladder on Klamath river, near Klamathon, so that salmon may ascend the river to this region have failed, the state fish and game commission proposes to appeal to the United States Indian service for help, suggesting to the service that it take the matter up with government officials on the ground that the dam erected by California-Oregon Power company near Klamathon stops the annual run of salmon to upper Klamath lake and thus deprives the Klamath Indians of an essential source of food supply. For years the Indians have spent much of the spring, summer and fall months catching salmon and drying them for winter food, and it is said that during the last winter some of them actually suffered because they did not have this supply.—Klamath Northwestern.

REMARKABLE EXPERIENCE OF YOUTH ON WARSHIP

Leonard Oorthuys, who lives near Talent, recently received a letter from relatives in Holland describing the wrecking of the three English battleships by the German submarines. In the letter they told of the remarkable experience of an 18-year-old English boy. The boy was on the first ship wrecked. As the ship sunk he jumped into the sea and swam to and was taken aboard the second ship, just as it was struck. He was again thrown into the sea, was rescued by the third ship and was again wrecked, this time to be in the water three hours before being picked up by a Dutch fishing boat. The boy, on being finally rescued, said he was pickled and couldn't drown.

ROGUE CLAIMS VICTIM IN RAPIDS AT GALICE

GRANTS PASS, Oct. 26.—Frank Morsey of Galice, was drowned Saturday in the Rogue river below Galice near the government bridge. Morsey and a companion were going down the river in a boat when the craft was capsized and both men were thrown into the water. Morsey was drowned, and the body had not been recovered last night. The other man reached shore in safety. Money was about 32 years of age, of Swiss and Italian birth, and is understood to have had a niece near Medford and other relatives in Sacramento, Cal.

APPLE EXPORTS TO ENGLAND LARGER THAN AVERAGE YEAR

PORTLAND, Oct. 26.—"How do you account for the exportation of apples exceeding that of last year?" This question was asked of W. F. Gwin, general manager of the Northwestern Fruit Exchange, in view of the government reports that up to October 10 the export movement of apples was 65 per cent heavier than the corresponding period of a year ago.

"This fact is rendered all the more remarkable," said Mr. Gwin, "because most of the shipments are going to England, while Hamburg and Bremen, which were big receiving ports last year, are now cut off by reason of the war. And through the German free ports very extensive markets in all previous years have been fed our apples."

Twice the Exports
"Liverpool has received 195,367 barrels this year, as against 91,816 for the same period in 1913. This is more than twice the volume. Glasgow and London show similar increases, thereby seeming to disprove the prediction that the great European war would cut off exportation of apples."

"There's a reason for it," continued the fruit man. "It lies in the market conditions of this country. Enormous home productions and the ultra-conservatism of bankers have rendered buyers more timid than usual. Never before has this stage of the season found so many growers holding their own apples. As a general thing, dealers buy up big blocks of stock and put them into storage to be parceled out to the trade as the season advances. That is how the deal has been handled from time immemorial. These dealers are afraid or hampered this year, and they are leaving much of the apple crop in the hands of the growers themselves. Unprecedented conditions are therefore likely to cause unheard of developments."

Shipped on Consignment
"Now, take into consideration that nearly all these exports are consignments. English buyers are circulating growers, offering to advance freight charges. In other years the foreigners had to buy outright or make liberal advances. Meanwhile most eastern growers are finding it necessary to consign, if they make any sales at home. Not being able to sell outright, not getting any better offers at home than abroad, having little confidence in home markets, they are consigning barrels to England."

Reports from abroad indicate that each week's huge receipts are being cleared promptly to make room for the succeeding week's receipts and the demand from the Baltic ports, Scandinavia, etc., which formerly belonged largely to German exporters, is helping the English clearances. However, prices on the other side are low, proportionate to the large supply, and the Exchange is sending only very small parcels forward—a sharp contrast to its heavy exports of previous years. Our London office is doing little more than mark time and keep our Portland office posted by letter and cable on the market developments. The British markets this year appeal to us as an extremely dangerous proposition and we think that those who use it without intimate knowledge and the best facilities are liable to get their fingers burnt.

LANE HOME TO AID CHAMBERLAIN

PORTLAND, Nov. 26.—United States Senator Lane has returned to Portland from Washington, where he has been for the last twenty months attending his congressional duties.

With congress already preparing to adjourn when he left Tuesday, he said he hurried back to Oregon to work for the re-election of United States Senator George E. Chamberlain, and for the election of Dr. C. J. Smith for governor.

"Not only should Senator Chamberlain be re-elected in recognition of the splendid work he has done in behalf of Oregon and Alaska and the part he has played in national progressive legislation," said Lane, "but because President Wilson needs the support of men who will hold up his hands in the present grave crisis and work for and defend the president's inspiring peace policies."

WILSON PLANS FOR LEGISLATION COMING SESSION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Plans for the administration program at the December session of congress will be discussed by President Wilson and party leaders at a forthcoming conference. The president expects the house will be busy with appropriation bills until February and the senate meanwhile may busy itself with other measures—among them the Philippine bill.

The bill for purchase of a government owned merchant marine would be taken up, the president said, unless something more important commanded attention.

President Wilson plans to remain in Washington this week, but to see as few callers as possible, that he may shape his program and keep in touch with affairs in Europe and Mexico. He will go to Princeton next Tuesday to vote.

CLEETON NOT CIRCUIT BUT COUNTY JUDGE

SALEM, Or., Oct. 26.—The supreme court, in a majority opinion, holds that T. J. Cleeton is not a circuit judge, but the county judge of Multnomah county, that virtually all business transacted in his court as circuit judge is valid, and that Rufus C. Holman has a clear title to the office of county commissioner.

No ruling was made by the court upon the status of department No. 6 of the circuit court, of which Judge Cleeton has been the presiding judge. It is evident, however, that until after the election there will be no judge of the department, and it may be that C. U. Guntenthein, republican nominee, and John Van Zante, democratic nominee for the judgeship, are seeking an office which does not exist. It is believed that the one who gets a majority of the votes will proceed through mandamus to compel the secretary of state to issue a certificate of election. The question will then be placed squarely before the supreme court.

It was further held that the term of Judge Cleeton as county judge was for six years, having been elected to that office at the time when the amendment making the term six years was passed.

EASTERN OREGON BOOSTS FOR NORMAL

(Weston Leader, Oct. 23.)
The Southern Oregon Normal is as much entitled to support in this section of the state as is the Eastern Oregon Normal. The cause of each of them is equitable and just. The state needs them both if it is to conserve its educational resources. They have suffered equally from the unjust assaults of the school-killers; they are equally entitled to vindication. Especially should Weston voters remember that southern Oregon gave the Weston Normal splendid support in 1910; that Jackson county, home of the Ashland Normal, gave the Weston Normal the largest majority of any county in the state with the single exception of Umatilla. GERMANS PUTTING ANTWERP IN SHAPE FOR NEW DEFENSE

LONDON, Oct. 26, 7:40 a. m.—The correspondent of the Times at Rotterdam sends the following:

"It is clear that the Germans are putting Antwerp in a state for defense. In most of the important forts the Belgian guns have been replaced with German fortress artillery of the latest type."

"The bridge between Antwerp and Pays de Waes, which the retreating Belgians damaged, has been repaired. Evidently the Germans are preparing a line of retreat from the Ostend-Dixmude line."

"The authorities have ordered the railroads to cease the free conveyance of refugees from Holland to Antwerp. Only a small garrison is in Antwerp at present, probably not more than 3,000 men."

SUBSTITUTION

The imitator is like the counterfeit. He enters the field of business with a cheaper, lower grade article of merchandise, makes a substitute for the genuine, and generally sold at a cheaper price, arguing as usual, that it is "just as good." The dealer is persuaded to handle it on glowing promises of enormous profit—much larger than the regular legitimate profit which is made on the genuine article. The imitator succeeds in playing upon man's natural avarice, places his goods on sale with the dealer, and instructs him to take advantage of the public by substituting the false article for the genuine at every opportunity. You can be pretty sure that whenever you ask for a well-known product and the dealer tells you he has something else that's just as good, or even better, the dealer is going to make a greater profit on that article than the one you call for, and in nine cases out of ten you will get a much inferior article.

Some buyers are easily imposed upon and this encourages the "get-rich-quick" schemers to increase their substitutions. This also discourages the legitimate manufacturer who is putting out articles of merchandise that represent honest value to the consumer. Where a man has devoted years of his life in perfecting an article that he knows cannot be excelled in quality; where he has spent thousands of dollars in advertising his goods; and where these goods have been giving universal satisfaction for a long time, great injury results by permitting substitution to rob him of his market and at the same time rob the consumer by selling him a doubtful article at practically the same price.

There is no law through which such evil practices can be stopped. The sole remedy is for the legitimate manufacturer to ask the public direct not to patronize dealers who try to substitute a different brand of goods for the kind wanted. All first-class dealers know that it is poor business to try to substitute something else for the article wanted.
