

PLANT SHADE TREES ON PACIFIC HIGHWAY

A joint meeting of the boards of directors of the Greater Medford and Commercial clubs was held last night at the library.

Several matters of civic importance were discussed, including the project of securing the planting of shade trees along the new Pacific highway from Central Point to Phoenix and possibly beyond.

Plans were discussed for organizing an associated charities to extend the charitable activities, insure proper investigation of all instances reported and prompt and well directed relief in deserving cases.

The lack of attention in the park, the street lights, and rubbish piles about the city received earnest consideration and a committee was appointed to interview the councilmen on the matter.

The new charter was mentioned and the fact that there under city officials were definitely responsible for conditions in all branches of the city's administration was favorably commented on.

CLAIM RUSSIANS AIDING SERVIANS

BERLIN, Nov. 19, via London, 1:15 p. m.—The Cologne Gazette publishes a dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, saying that several thousand Russian officers and soldiers have appeared in Servia.

Under present conditions, it would be impossible for Russia to send troops in the assistance of the sorely pressed Servians unless she transported them by water from Archangel, in the far north, around almost the whole continent of Europe, or else invaded neutral territory.

ASHLAND AND VICINITY

F. Roy Davis, court reporter, will remove to Medford, following the example of Judge Calkins, in order to be nearer judicial activities of Jacksonville and Grants Pass. The family expect to leave Ashland about December 1, having made an exchange of properties with E. Howard of Medford, a newcomer from Colorado.

Henry C. Galey, former resident and a relative of the Carter and Dodge families in this city, has returned to Yuma, Ariz., and taken a position in a bank.

G. G. Dunlap, employed by the city in cutting wood up the canyon near the municipal power house, expired almost instantly Wednesday afternoon, supposedly from heart failure.

Mrs. Emma Bacatell, wife of a member of the Ashland Trading company firm, left Wednesday for her former home at Julesburg, Colo.

Mrs. Emma Bacatell, wife of H. H. Baehle, died Tuesday at the family home on Iowa street.

Mrs. Emma Bacatell, wife of H. H. Baehle, died Tuesday at the family home on Iowa street. She had been an invalid for years.

Muzzled dogs have reappeared on our streets, owing to renewed success over rabies, caused by Bert Freeman's dog, which went crazy a few days ago and ran all over the country until its career was ended in the Wagner creek neighborhood.

date of the city election, December 15. The pictures will consist of portraits and representations of the principal public buildings in town and other specialties.

WILLOW SPRINGS TWIGLETS

Monk Clark has taken the Braden place for the year and is planting grain.

The highway ditch surveyors are looking over the work out here and are making preparations for getting water into Willow Springs in the near future.

The ladies of Tofo will give a box social Friday evening, November 20, to which the public are invited.

Who said sheds over the tie racks in Central Point?

Willow Springs residents are fattening turkeys for the Thanksgiving market.

Julius Birkholz has completed a very attractive tank house and being in a slightly location can be seen for miles.

If the civic ladies of Medford will kindly investigate the ground surrounding the tie racks and see how badly they are in need of gravel and boost for same, they will gratify their suburban sisters.

Mrs. R. W. Elden gave a 10c tea to all ladies interested in purchasing supplies for amusement for the children at the school.

The entertainment was well attended, at least thirty ladies being present. The proceeds amounted to over $4.00 and the day ended very happily for all.
