HARVARD WINS FROM YALE

(Continued from page 1.) was blocked. Wallace got it at Yale's 26-yard mark. Yale lost on off-side and Francke plowed through to the five-yard mark.

Francke was stopped but Mahan turned the end going to the line where he deliberately fanned the ball. Francke then made the touchdown and Hardwick kicked goal. Score: Harvard, 29; Yale, 0.

Fourth Period Yale strived desperately to score and early in the period had the ball only nine feet from the goal. Harvard gradually forced the ball down the field. With 12 inches to go Harvard was penalized 15 yards for holding. Again Brickley dropped back, but it was a forward pass. Mahan to Coolidge, who went ten yards. Watson then threw another forward pass to Hardwick for a touch down. Brickley kicked goal. Score: Harvard, 35; Yale, 0. In all these plays Brickley stayed far back of the line and Harvard used only ten men to score.

Mahan kicked off and Yale used every lateral and forward pass in its repertoire but to no purpose.
