

RURAL HUNGARY STILL THE DREAM OF OTHER DAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.

In writing to the National Geographic society of this city, C. Townley-Folsom says that rural Hungary is upon the plane of rural England. "Physically she has a beauty all her own," he writes, and then continues: "True, the noble magnificence of the English estate is not reproduced, but there is a general air of the feudal tradition, heightened by castle, tower and battlement, which brings Norman England appreciably nearer. Abbeys and monasteries, creations of pure architectural beauty, there are not, but the Rococo, the Neoclassic and that splendid Moorish type which passes, strangely enough, for Gothic, fairly represent the achievements. The harmonious splendors of the old homes of the magnates are first patriarchal and then wonderful."

Dream of Sweet Auburn

"Rural Hungary is still the dream of other days, the quaint, still life which brooded in pre-renaissance pictures and peeps out under the magic of Washington Irving's touch—restful, alluring and evoking the reflective glow of innocence upon its nightly cons. 'Sweet Auburn' that are missing in other climes, nestle about every peaceful valley of this."

"Here is 'Arenold, home of the happy,' and here is 'the forest prince'—here are 'vast meadows stretched to the eastward and pasture to flocks without number.'"

"When the land is snow bound, swept by the keen, clear, cold air of the white north, and the long winter nights fall, great wood fires crackle on the hearth heartstones; children and old folk turn to the spinning of silk; the schools take their toll, and virile energies are given over to basket weaving, reed plaiting and wood-crafting, just as when Horatius kept the bridge by the yellow Tiber."

Most Hospitable Race

"A musical, wine-loving, hospitable race; warm, generous and combative; proud and vain; blood brother in temperament to the impulsive Celt; dowered like him with the curse of Reuben, with a total incapacity to unite on great issues and the power to fight on any soil but his own, but spared the Celtic reproach of having disturbed all states, but founded none."

"Imagine a virile stock which can still sit and think, can mourn its past in a fair present, can fall into gleaming frenzy as its harp or picture poet stirs a delicate imagination with breathless dead; a race which combines the Buddhist aversion to action with the Celtic instinct of opposition; improvident, again, as the Celt; lavish, naïvely charmed at the courtesy of the stranger; simple, with the barbarian lust of pleasure to the eye, sensitive to its inmost chords to gentleness—a passionate, chivalric, lovable, dreamy race of fatalists; the true Asian mystery."

Lovers of Freedom

"This brave, patient, enduring folk has sung its ruse back to its ancient freedom. It has sung, in the sweet mother tongue that but for it had been long forgotten, of the glorious dead and the stricken field, of memories cushioned in wonderful lore, of hope and of regret; never of despair. For it has withal that touch of honor which none but a Magyar could so finely have described as 'the smile between tears.'"

Pastoral Hungary has features all its own

"Pastoral Hungary has features all its own. It stretches across the vistas of the great plain in the region of Hortobagy. There lives the genuine, original Magyar, the Centaur-Mazepa, who, like his sire of old, that rushed Alexander on the plains of Sordiana, rides like a devil of the twilight; crust, drinks and sleeps on his small, erose charger, and chokes with pure delight in lust of life and rush of wind."

PRZEMYSL STILL RESISTS RUSSIANS

AMSTERDAM, via London, Nov. 28.—The newspaper, Maasbode publishes a Berlin telegram giving the latest word from the besieged city of Przemysl, in Galicia. It was received in Vienna Friday by Pigeon post, and reads: "We are doing very well. Do not be disquieted."

NEWS FROM COUNTRY CORRESPONDENTS

TABLE ROCK TABLETS

Thanksgiving day passed very quietly here. Nearly every one took the day off, and in the evening some of the young folks took in the dance at Beagle.

When Byrum is prospecting at Star Gulch, in the Applegate district, Stanley Lydiard and sister, Miss Grace, started Wednesday morning for Persim, where they will spend Thanksgiving day with their sister, Sue, who is teaching in that district.

John Vincent of Jacksonville spent Sunday here visiting relatives. The turkey crop in this community has not been marketed, but it will be held for the Christmas trade.

John Sealon, Clarke Collins and Ed Vincent attended the football game at Medford Saturday.

Roland Plarity, who is attending high school in Central Point, was a visitor in Table Rock last Saturday evening.

Carl Beche of Agate transacted business in Table Rock one day last week.

While a meeting was being held in the schoolhouse Tuesday night to arrange some plan for sending a Thanksgiving offering to the Boys' and Girls' Aid society, someone quietly removed a large turkey gobbler from the fence, where he had taken up quarters for the night.

Ray Offenhackee of Applegate motored over Monday evening and spent the night at the Byrum home, returning Tuesday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Saltmarsh, who will spend the winter visiting relatives in that district.

We are hearing considerable complaint about automobiles traveling through these parts after dark without lights.

The children are enjoying a week's vacation while Professor Johnson is attending a teachers' institute at Corvallis.

Those who favor A. L. Vincent for road supervisor are circulating his petition, which is being universally signed throughout the district. Mr. Vincent is well qualified for the position, having spent several years with E. G. Perham, the well-known contractor, where he did much construction work, including road and bridge building. In fact, he was Perham's right-hand man on several large contracts of this kind of work, and is highly recommended by him.

Colonel Washburn and E. W. Carlton attended the irrigation meeting in Medford last Saturday.

At the last meeting of the Arrowheads the subject for debate was, "Resolved, that Roosevelt is a greater statesman than Wilson." The affirmative speakers were Roosevelt admirers and won the debate through the great preparation they had made and the vim they put in their talk.

A. L. Seabrook and Verne Pendleton are getting their winter's supply of wood from the Peterson homestead.

The committee of young ladies appointed to solicit for the Boys' and Girls' Aid society met with considerable success.

Malcolm Carlton of New York City stopped off on his way through the valley and spent a few hours with his brother, E. W. Carlton, of this place.

After the completion of the program at the next meeting of the Literary society, December 5, lunch baskets prepared by the ladies will be sold to the highest bidder, the proceeds to go toward buying playground equipment and other needed things for the school.

Cost of State Printing

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes State Capitol, Salem, Or., Nov. 20, To the Public; Printing, ruling, binding, paper, etc. (printing fund); Printing and binding supreme court reports; Printing paid for by departments (approximate); Total $140,000.00.

Although the demands upon the state printing department are increasing from year to year, it will be seen that the expenditures for printing during the 1913-1914 biennial period will be $17,000.00 less than for 1911-1912.

The reduction of expenditures for the present biennial period is due to the present system of handling state printing. The records show a saving of over $30,000.00 to have been made during the past year as a result of the change. In other words, had the old system remained in effect, the expenditure for this biennial period would have been at least $30,000 in excess of the amount set forth in the above table.

The state printing board will have on hand in the general fund at the first of the year something over $31,000. This money is being paid to the printing department by the different departments of state and the amount is included in the above 1913-1914 cost table. Owing to an oversight in drafting the law, no authority was given the board to use these funds, and it was therefore driven to ask the George Wendt has returned home after a couple of years absence spent in Eastern Oregon and California. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith attended the football game at Medford last Saturday.

Miss Venita Hamilton of Medford was a recent visitor at the home of Mrs. B. M. Collins.

The home of John Wilson was completely demolished by fire Tuesday evening about 7 o'clock. No one was at home and the inside was entirely burned before the fire was discovered.

A pretty wedding took place Thanksgiving day at the Dunford ranch south of Jacksonville when Miss Jessie Dunford was united in marriage to Walter Zedler. Just the immediate family were present and a few close friends. Rev. Paul S. Bandy performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ulrich entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Numan and Dr. and Mrs. Golden at dinner Thanksgiving day.

GERMANY GIVES ITS WORD NO INVASION OF IRELAND

LONDON, Nov. 28, 3:35 a. m.—The London papers print for the first time full accounts concerning the reported visit to Berlin recently of Sir Roger Casement, a leader in the Irish national volunteer movement. A news dispatch on November 22 said that Sir Roger interviewed the German foreign office relative to Germany's attitude toward Ireland.

The Daily News characterizes the announcement by the German foreign office that Germany never will invade Ireland as "an impudent message of good will." Both the Daily News and the Daily Mail print a column account of Sir Roger's visit as taken from the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, the Mail characterizing it as a "remarkable episode." The Daily News says that "tremendous interest is being taken in Ireland in Casement's reported visit."

OBITUARY

The funeral services of Mrs. Sarah T. Wolverton were conducted by Rev. J. K. Hawkins, from the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday, November 22, at 3 p. m. She was born near Lexington, Kentucky, in 1842, and died at Medford, Oregon, November 20, 1914. Her maiden name was Levesque.

She was married to Mr. Thomas Ferguson in the fall of 1867. To this union were born two children, one son and daughter. After four years death invaded the home, and in less than three weeks removed father and children.

In 1874 she was married to John Wolverton, and moved to Greensburg, Ind. To this union three children were born, one son, dying in infancy, and two daughter, Mrs. B. H. Kerby and Mrs. F. C. Edmeads. Mr. Wolverton died October 11, 1901. In 1908 Mrs. Wolverton moved from Indiana to Medford, Oregon.

She united with the Christian church in childhood, and remained in that relation until later in life when she united with the M. E. church. Through her life she has been a loyal and devout christian. As soon as she came to Medford to live she transferred her church membership to the Medford M. E. church, and at once entered into its activities. She was greatly loved by all who knew her and will be greatly missed.

Her departure was one of triumph. Almost to the last she retained consciousness. Among the last things she said was, "Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me." "Life's labor done, as sinks the clay, Light from its load the spirit flies, While heaven and earth combine to say, How blest the righteous when he dies."
