Because of the inability of the locals to meet that city on the northern floor, little has been in the way of questioning the northern team's strength. ENGLAND COULD CARRY ON THE WAR ALONE, DECLARES CHURCHILL

Winston Spencer Churchill, in an interview, recently said that, with France and Russia both withdrawing from the Allies, England would be able to carry on the war alone successfully. Continuing he also said: "Supposing Germany has friendships and relationships in South America, how can they reach her from there now? We shall arrange to take precautions fully compatible with the rights of belligerents and the respect due to neutrals. Our adversary perhaps can obtain a few supplies from Turkey and Asia Minor. I cherish no illusions, for as long as there are neutrals a complete blockade must be a chimera. Germany will continue to receive a small quantity of that whereof she has considerable need, but while you and we breathe freely, thanks to the sea we have kept and can keep open, Germany is like a man throttled with a heavy gag."

Samuel Rosenberg left today for a business trip to San Francisco. Milton Schuchard spent Sunday at his country home. BEET FACTORY PROJECT TAKES DARKER TINGE

According to word received from Soil Expert Story, who is now engaged in inspecting land in the Grants Pass district, 650 acres have been signed up there and land owners are considering another house-to-house canvass. He has gone over but a small portion thus far and until the middle of the week will be unable to tell just how many ones will meet the requirements. The situation at the present time does not look favorable to Mr. Storey. Messrs. Nibley and Brownell are expected to arrive in the city tomorrow when a meeting will be held with the committee in charge and arrangements made for a final campaign. The local committee thinks the situation to be critical and asks that all public spirited people join in an effort to make the establishing of the beet sugar factory a certainty.

GERMAN LINER TO SEA, FOE WAITS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The unusual sight of a steamship flying the German flag passing quarantine, apparently bound to sea, coincidental with an official marine report that a British warship was off Fire Island, bound toward the entrance to the harbor, created excitement in shipping circles this afternoon. The German vessel, after passing through the narrows, turned and anchored in Gravesend Bay. The ship proved to be the Harburg, which was merely seeking an anchorage to escape wharfage charges, according to her agents. She hove to alongside her sister ship the Magdeburg.

RUSSIAN LIFE DEPICTED THROUGH "YELLOW TICKET"

"The Yellow Ticket," which Manager A. H. Woods, who produced "Within the Law," will bring to the Page theater Tuesday evening, February 9, is a drama of life in St. Petersburg today, setting forth without prejudice the status of the Jew in the kingdom of the czar. "The Yellow Ticket" is in three acts, the first of which takes place in the Hotel d'Europe; the second occurs in the home of Baron Stepan Andrey, the chief of the "Okhrana"—secret police of Russia. Act three occurs in the bureau of the Young Russian Jewish girl, Marya Varenka, who is forced to ask for a yellow ticket in order to leave the pale of settlement to visit her father, who is dying in a hospital. After the death of her father she continues to keep in her possession the ticket which affords protection to the social outcast—although she is a good girl and of reputable family. She obtains respectable employment as companion to a wealthy young American woman in St. Petersburg. When the secret police learn that she is leading a reputable life they betray her to her employer, who discharges her. She appeals to Baron Stepan Andrey, head of the "Okhrana," for protection, which he offers her on terms that she refuses to accept. Thus she finds herself alone in St. Petersburg, forced to live a life of shame, if she wishes to remain outside the pale of settlement. What would you do if your daughter had to face this problem? See "The Yellow Ticket" and find out to what tragic purpose Marya Varenka turned the refusal of the police to permit her to live decently.

WILSON AT FAIR MARCH TWENTY-ONE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—President Wilson now plans to arrive in San Francisco March 21 for his visit to the Panama Pacific exposition. What day he will leave Washington and whether he will make speeches on the way to San Francisco or on his return, remain undetermined. Most of that depends upon the prospects of an extra session of congress.
