A most entertaining gentleman is R. E. Oliver who has been in our midst for a few days, engaged in states an unknown Medford autoist, demonstrating the gentle art of forgery up-to-date. The newspaper men watched Mr.

Oliver at work the other day and every check that was placed before him. With a few pen strokes "Two Mark's hall on Tuesday evening for Dollars" became "Five Hundred," right in front of your eyes. A care fully written "Sixteen" magically changed to "Seventy-Six," "Eight Dollars" was transferred to "Eighty Dollars" in a twinkling, and with only one sweep of the pen.

> Where a more pretentious piece of work is required, he adopts the old forger trick of using acids with which everything that has been written on this week. he check may be removed-except the signature-and the amount, date, name of payce, etc., rewritten to suit he forger.

Another case reported to the newspapers was that of a 13 year old girl in Marysville, Cal., who confessed that she had robbed her guardian of hundreds of dollars by raising checks bearing the guardian's signature. One of these checks originally signed for only $5 is in the hands of the author-

Samuel Rosenburg, owner of the ities. It was changed to $30 and accepted by the bank without detection. In the course of his travels, Mr. Oliver has made a hobby of collect-
