SIGNOR GIORDANO TO SING IN "FAUST"

Tenor with Andrews Opera company to be heard in double bill at the Page next Monday evening.

ANDREWS COMPANY TO PRESENT FAUST

The opera of "Faust," of which the Andrews Opera company will present the garden scene in their Monday night performance, is the masterpiece of two great masters, Goethe, the German poet, who wrote the original drama from which the opera was taken, considered this work his greatest. He spent twenty years of his active life in perfecting this wonderful drama, and it stands today as one of the greatest literary masterpieces ever written. It is semi-religious in its treatment and there is perhaps no composer who could have done such complete justice to this work as Gounod, the French composer. Aside from Faust, Gounod's greatest compositions are his masses. He was a very devout man and at one time studied for the priesthood, but afterward gave his life to musical composition. While he wrote several operas, "Faust" stands out as the greatest, and to hear the cast of the Andrews company, including Signor Giordano, in this most excellent work will be a treat that the music lovers of Medford will long remember. The prices have been placed so as to give all an opportunity to attend.
