EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett

The last time that I wrote I had to stop in order to keep ye editor from saying cross words and then I promised to tell the readers something about the grand time the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs at their anniversary meeting they had in their hall on Monday, April 26.

KANES CREEK

The "Watkins" man of Medford passed through here the forepart of the week. Mrs. Lewis (nee Vira Henderson) of Central Point spent several days recently the guest of her parents of Garden Row.

W. E. Hemmel brought in a small lot of fine mohair Thursday.

Frank Dimmick was doing business with our merchants Thursday.

Charles Manning of Peyton and E. A. Hildreth of Butte Falls stopped at the Sunnyside Thursday night. Mr. Hildreth is out procuring lumber at the S. P. lumber yard to build in Butte Falls.

While in Fred L. Heath's store Thursday he showed me an old copper cent that was coined in 1793 and is now valued at $57.50 by parties who are gathering old coins. He has quite an assortment of old coins that are of considerable value.

George A. Stannard of Ashland spent the night with us Thursday. He was here on private business. He has been engaged in selling school supplies.

I received word over the phone that one of Austin Corbin's large barns burned to the ground Friday, but did not learn any of the particulars, except that there was no stock hurt, but all the hay was burned.

W. W. Willis and Henry Thornton of Perist came out on the P. & E. this morning and took the stage for home. They had been to Ashland to attend the funeral of Mr. Thornton's step-mother.

J. R. Kline, one of the Fruit inspectors was here for dinner Friday.

He makes a favorable report, with regard to prospects for fruit, but at this writing, Friday 5 o'clock, the temperature is about what we might expect in December.

Gus Rosenberg has renewed his sub to the Daily Mail Tribune.

ASHLAND AND VICINITY

Captain C. A. Malone and Lieutenant W. E. Blake of First company, C. A. C., leave for Fort Stevens on Tuesday to attend an officers' school of instruction. They will be gone a week and will be accompanied by five enlisted men, selected from the first-class gunners' classification.

The Rogue River Baptist association ended a very successful three days' session here last Thursday evening. The attendance was good. Among outside notables who were scheduled to participate in the program all were present except President Riley of McMinnville college.

John M. Scott, general passenger and ticket agent, with headquarters in Portland, was in the city Friday, incident to an official visit to several stations throughout the valley.

Query? If it is the intention of either state or county highway officials to first pave that portion of the Pacific highway from the Klamath road junction toward the Siskiyou, when in the name of current events, is it intended to complete the highway approaches to Ashland, both on the north and south lines? This query is prompted by remarks made hereabouts daily.

Binger Hermann of Roseburg was in town Friday afternoon, returning from an exposition visit to San Francisco. During a brief stay he renewed the acquaintance of several civil war veterans of the depot.

In spite of inclement weather conditions, the May party at the armory drew a full house, notwithstanding the capacity of the big structure. A unique attraction was a May pole around which a bevy of fair young ladies executed a number of skillful evolutions indicative of the blending of spring with the good old summer time.

The armory was gaily and tastefully decorated. A dance was the chief feature, the floor having been especially prepared for a terpsichorean revel in keeping with splendid musical accompaniments afforded by a six-piece "home-made" orchestra. There was card-playing on the side, also.

At the baseball games Friday and Saturday at Grants Pass, Ashland won the first game, 6 to 4, and Grants Pass the Saturday game, 7 to 4. Return games will be played here May 14 and 15, with Grants Pass.

Pierce Wilson, who was run down by an automobile west of town several days ago, is still at Granite City hospital, gradually improving.

light refreshments galore. The Misses Lydia McCall and Lena Casey guarded the box office receipts so well that net proceeds will amount to over $100, all of which goes to swell the coffers of the young ladies' auxiliary treasury.

Mrs. Mary A. Patrick died last Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jennie E. Brady, residing on Allison street. Her age was 6. Funeral services were held on Friday afternoon, interment being in Ashland cemetery.

"Proclaim Liberty Throughout the Land," the old liberty bell slogan, or words to that effect, may be much in evidence hereabouts later on. In view of the bell being sent to the Pan-American exposition, routed via Seattle and Portland, it is planned to afford our people an opportunity to view the sacred relic. To this end the local Commercial club has wired the mayor of Philadelphia, in whose keeping tradition seems to have placed the old bell, for an opportunity to view and render homage to the venerated symbol of our liberties. If it should come this way, look out for a patriotic ebullition among the people.

Rev. W. A. Hillis of the Moody Bible institute, Chicago, and for the present a resident of Seattle, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church on Sunday. He is a brother of the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, a welcome innovation at this service was that a sextette of men's voices constituted the choir. Sunday evening there was a union service of the young people's societies at the Methodist church. Attorney H. A. Canada of Medford made the principal address. At the Presbyterian church in the morning Mr. Hillis' theme was a stirring appeal in behalf of missionary activities.

At the baseball games Friday and Saturday at Grants Pass, Ashland won the first game, 6 to 4, and Grants Pass the Saturday game, 7 to 4. Return games will be played here May 14 and 15, with Grants Pass.
