Josh Wise Says: The two great fears of a bachelor are "Matrimony" and "Breach of Promise."

LAUGHS

The End of It: Young Lawyer (having passed his examination)—Well, I'm glad it's over. I've been working to death the last few years trying to complete my legal education.

Old Lawyer—Cheer up, my boy; it'll be a long time before you have any more work to do.

Callous: Beacon—I see it requires about 15 days for the human body to recover from the loss of two consecutive nights' sleep.

Egbert—Very likely; but what do those cats care?—Yonkers Statesman.

Worth Cackling Over: "I have a setter that's of the Gordon breed."

"Mine's a Plymouth Rock."—Indianapolis News.

Retarded Progress: "Why do you state that women are slower than men?" demanded the suffragette.

"It takes most of them 40 years to reach the age of 30," replied the grouch.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Tanning Her: Wife—I read the other day that the giraffe has a tongue eighteen inches long.

Husband—Aren't you jealous?

In Washington: "Senator, can you give me a job as janitor around the capital?" "Why, I thought you were slated for something bigger."

"I have been slated for several things bigger. Now I want to see if there isn't something I can really get."—Pittsburg Post.

Well Begun: "I've taken the most important step toward building a fashionable apartment house."

"Let the contract, have you?" "No. I've selected a fancy name for the building."—Judge.

Well Taken Care Of: "My brother is not so bad off. He is interned in one of the enemy's towns. They won't release him unless he promises not to fight."

"Well?" "O course, he won't promise."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Easy to Do: Sportsman—Is the hunting good here? Guide—Yep. Better than the findly.—Columbia Jester.

TRUTHFUL NEWS FROM THE TURK

WE call it downright cruel—these covert insinuations that the news from Constantinople is not quite as accurate as might be desired by the truth-loving world public. We blush for our contemporaries who are inclined to sneer at the following most interesting intelligence in recent cable dispatches:

Constantinople—The land attack of the allies upon the Dardanelles has completely collapsed. The Turkish army has driven from the Gallipoli peninsula all the 80,000 troops which landed there. The Turks captured 12,000 French and British troops and 8000 were driven into the sea.

Why anybody should doubt the truthfulness of the Constantinople news writers is a mystery to us. Our journalistic brethren in the Ottoman country have a reputation for strict veracity that is famous. As evidence of this, we quote the following, clipped from a recent issue of the most reliable of Turkish daily newspapers, the Constantinople "Ikdam":

The lands near the Suez canal are now all occupied by the Ottoman troops. The Indian troops deserted to us and even the Suez company's boats were removed from the canal. When the news of the success of our Army of Salvation reached Aleppo, the schools were all given a holiday and the people celebrated the victory.

Thus our contemporary on the banks of the Bosphorus "scooped" the whole world. Indeed, no other newspaper in the world has yet had the enterprise to publish this important news of the sweeping triumph of the Turks over the English in Egypt. You can't afford to be without the "Ikdam." But let us quote from the Constantinople "Servet-i-Fuoun," another member of the Turkish brotherhood of exact and trustworthy journalism:

His Islamic Majesty, Wilhelm II, has made his state entry into the conquered French capital. In celebration of the German victory over Paris, his majesty made a speech from the throne in the former French chamber of deputies. After its conclusion he offered the imperial hand to be kissed by the French ex-deputies, who were deeply touched by this magnanimity!

Can you doubt it? Are you still blind to the virtues of the reliable news writers of Constantinople? Do you still question that 8000 or 80,000 or even 8,000,000 British and French were driven into the sea?

But as a parting fling at your rank skepticism we quote from the "Hanunlar Gazettassi," a newspaper which is published largely for the ladies of Constantinople. Says the Gazettassi:

The harem of his Islamic Majesty, William II, the principal officers of the harem and the German general staff are expected in Constantinople early this spring. Ten powerful dreadnaughts captured from the British will escort the Imperial harem!

Oh, you William!

CANADIANS LOSSES AT FRONT HEAVY

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 6.—Casualties which continue to be issued from Ottawa, of the killed, wounded and missing among Canadians in last week's fighting around Ypres occupy columns daily in Canadian newspapers. Of the 200 names published last night by the censors' office, sixteen of the men belonged to the regiments sent from Vancouver. Every third or fourth man who went from this city has figured somewhere in the casualty lists, and the loss of Vancouver officers has been appalling. From the east end branch of the Royal bank of Canada in this city six clerks volunteered for service and went to the front last year with the first Canadian contingent. Three of these have been killed, two are wounded and one is missing. Two of the killed were brothers, sons of Rev. William Elliott, a clergyman living on Vancouver island.

Kills Business Partner: VANCOUVER, B. C., May 6.—J. Rosenbaum today shot and killed George Brown, his partner, in a small packing plant, and then shot and probably fatally wounded Brown's son, and finally shot himself so severely that it is feared he will die. The three men had quarreled over partnership troubles. LOST—Shovel for Planet Junior cultivator. Notify Dr. George Deane, Central Point. 40

DRESS REHEARSALS FOR SCHOOL PLAY

Children of the Roosevelt school held a dress rehearsal of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," to be given by them under the direction of Mrs. Gallagher at the Page tomorrow (Friday) afternoon. The little folks went through their final workout with more than ordinary skill, and their offering promises to be the most successful child's dramatic effort in the history of the city. Each little actor and actress is intensely interested in his appearance. English folk games and dances will also be given. The "Tinker's Chorus" from Robin Hood will be sung by a chorus of boys. The old time Maypole dance will be given by the second grade pupils. The hearty support of Medford people is due the school, and a large audience should be in attendance.
