

T. R.'S DEFENSE IN LIBEL SUIT NEARS FINISH

Court Rules Out Evidence Regarding Barnes' Pact With Gamblers—Colonel Excused After Review Testimony—Bull Moose Party "Just Historical," Says Boss' Attorney.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 6.—The case of the defense in William Barnes' suit for libel against Theodore Roosevelt is nearly completed, attorneys said today. They added that only a few more witnesses remained to be called. When court opened today counsel began argument upon the admissibility of evidence concerning local affairs in Albany. Mr. Bowers, for Colonel Roosevelt, urged that the colonel be allowed to answer the question put to him as to the information he possessed as to an arrangement "between Mr. Barnes and a man named McCabe, at one time leader of the democratic party in Albany." Mr. Bowers said:

"I expect Colonel Roosevelt will testify here that Mr. Barnes bargained with one McCabe. I expect the defendant will testify that Mr. Barnes found places in gambling houses for men to work."

Justice Andrews ruled against this line of questioning, saying that any information the defendant had received which was confined to county and city affairs in Albany was immaterial.

Colonel Roosevelt then resumed the stand.

"I don't care to have anything further to say to Colonel Roosevelt," remarked Mr. Ivins, with a smile.

So, contrary to expectation, the colonel was not cross-examined upon his testimony of yesterday.

Some questions were asked by Mr. Bowers to establish a basis for further evidence. The witness testified that he resided in the state and voted at the September, 1914, primaries, and he named the candidates for the United States senatorial and gubernatorial nominations of the republican and democratic parties.

"Shall I name the candidates in the progressive primaries?" asked the colonel.

"Oh, yes, the progressive party is still historical, at any rate," said Mr. Ivins, and the court room smiled. The colonel then was excused.

SATURDAY GALA DAY FOR CITY

The first attempt to get all the people of Jackson county acquainted and consolidate the business and social forces into a working unit will be made by Medford merchants Saturday when the first Community day in this history of the valley will be celebrated.

The program will be opened with a grand parade led by the Medford brass band, starting from the Bear creek bridge at 11:30 a. m. sharp and ending at the city park, where a free dinner will be served to all out-of-town visitors at noon. The band will play during the meal hour, after which C. E. Gates, president of the Commercial club, will greet the visitors. Following this there will be selections by the Elks quartet and a speech by B. F. Mulkey, the silver-tongued orator of the Rogue.

The managers of the moving picture theaters have co-operated with the Community committee and have arranged a specially attractive program for all visitors between 2 and 5:30, tickets being furnished by the merchants absolutely free to out-of-town guests.

CHINESE WANT VOICE IN PEACE

last night by some of the leading Japanese citizens.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Official dispatches from both Tokio and Peking received here today indicated that while an ultimatum to China by Japan was considered possible, the step actually had not been taken when they were sent.

Secretary Bryan today continued his policy of refusing to discuss the far eastern situation. He said, however, that there had been no suggestion of mediation. In other official quarters it was intimated that a tender of good offices would only follow a serious crisis and there was no official information at hand on which to base such action.

HOW MARY FULLER MAKES GOOD—TOLD BY HERSELF IN FOURTH "DRESSING ROOM CHAT"

She's Always Looking for New Ideas. Observing Stage Actors and Reading Books—"Life Is Full of Drama," She Says.

(By Mary Fuller.)
(Written especially for this newspaper. Copyright, 1915, by Floyd.)
CHAPTER IV.

Life is full of drama and as a consequence, of dramatic expression. Anyone who keeps his eyes open can store up many impressions and ideas that will be useful in photoplay acting. Of course, reading helps, too.

One of the places where I gather my greatest fund of hints as to dramatic expression of human emotion is in the theater itself. I try to see everything worth while that is produced. From the best actors I learn both what to do and what to avoid doing.

Such tangible lessons in front of you teach you much, just as in a speaking part it often helps to hear someone else read your lines. You thus find out how they sound and what they need put into them.

The main art of photoplay acting is to know how to weld feeling and action into one.

Nearly everyone collects something. I have been a collector all my life. At one time my fancy was for hats. And even now, the aftermath of that mad period is an overflowing bunch of headgear of all sizes, shapes and colors.

Then it was shoes. Why, I have enough shoes to cover the feet of a centipede.

At later periods I collected odd jewelry, scarfs, draperies, hair ornaments. I hear you say I am extravagant. I deny it. I plead necessity. I need all these things as theatrical "props."

I wish I could let my feminine movie fans have a peep into my treasure trunks. There I have stored all kinds of beautiful things—jeweled tiaras, feathered fans, Spanish combs, Irish lace coats, tinselled scarfs, gauzy draperies of many colors, sashes of flaming silk with tasseled ends, spurred boots, plumed hats.

Here is a lace jabot and there is a locket with a history. Here is an English monocle for a character part and there is a dainty Swiss jeweled watch.

Oh, there are many things I could show you, and would rejoice in it, because it would be to introduce you to—my dear collection of pretties.

MRS. MELTON'S LETTER

To Tired Worn-out Mothers

Jackson, Miss.—"I shall feel repaid for writing this letter if I can help any tired, worn-out mother or housekeeper to find health and strength as I have.

"I have a family of five, sew, cook and do my housework and I became very much run-down in health. A friend asked me to try Vinol. I did so and now I am well and strong and my old time energy has been restored. Vinol has no superior as a tonic for worn-out, run-down, tired mothers or housekeepers."—Mrs. J. N.
