One of the greatest surprises ever given the Medford public was given than at the production of "Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Page yesterday by the pupils of Roosevelt school. The house was filled to capacity and the andience expected the usual school performance, interesting and entertaining to the relatives and friends of the performers. Not a bit like it. The stage pictures were not only cleverly grouped, but were enacted with intelligence, grace of action and comprehension of dramatic possibilities far beyond what ony one would expect from such youthful performers.

In the way of comedy, the dance of the Brownies was as amusing as anything the regular road shows have to offer, the work of the two tiniest midgets bringing forth gales of laughter, and the entire act bringing forth such applause that after regented encores it was difficult to secure sufficient quiet to continue the perform-

Medford entertained 1000 country visitors at her first Community Day today in royal tashton. As a result there is a closer and kindlier feeling for the metropolis of Jackson county in all sections. As early as $:00 o'clock visitors began to arrive, and by noon the streets and stores were crowded. It was a jolly good natured gathering.

At 11:30 o'clock the parade started from the Bear creek bridge, headed by John C. Mann. J. A. Westerlund acted as drum major. The Medford hand came next followed by merchants in the white caps and aprons of waiters. Then followed the fire department and automobiles and buggles. The parade halted at the city park. There lunch was served. The menu consisted of baked beans, ham sandwiches, cookies, crackers, radishes, coffee and bananas.

There was a rush for the first table and everybody went away satistled. During the meal the band played.

After the dinner speeches were made by Attorney B. F. Mulkey and W. H. Gore. The speakers dwelt upon the cultivation of friendship between the various sections. Vaudeville numbers were also given. During the afternoon free shows were given at the It, Star and Page theaters. This evening a free band concert will be given at the city park.
