LAUGHS

Time Required: The servant girl in a suburban family was taken to task for oversleeping herself.

Well, ma'am, she said, "I sleep very slow, and so it takes me a long time to get a good night's sleep."—Boston Transcript.

Backsliders: Repentance might wipe out the score, as we are taught; but then the very things we're sorry for we go and do again.—Peoria Journal.

Lively Cheese: "How did you find the Stilton I sent you?" "Find it? We didn't find it! As soon as ever my wife's back was turned it jumped from the pantry shelf and ran down the garden, out of the gate and was last seen chasing a frightened dog down the road."—London Mail.

Elite Excursion: Visitor—Where are you going to spend the summer, Lola? Little Lola—With our country cousins. Mamma says they are not stylish enough to visit us, so we are going to visit them.—Kansas City Star.

A Cabby Came-back: Elderly Gentleman—Hi, conductor! Bring the bus here. I've think I'm going to walk through all this mud?

Conductor—Surely not, sir. If you'll wait 'arf a minute, I'll lay down the carpet an' heret the hawking.

Easily Spared: A chronic dyspeptic was staying with a friend and when the two were out for a walk one morning he said to his host:

"I took a couple of tablespoonfuls of salt water from the sea yesterday, and thought I derived benefit from it. Do you think I might take some more?"

"Well," replied the host, "I don't think a couple more would be missed."

Overlooked: Doctor—From now you may let your husband have a glass of beer every day. You understand? Wife—Yes, doctor—just one glass a day.

Doctor (a week later)—Now, I hope you have kept strictly to that one glass per day that I allowed your husband to take?

Wife—Most decidedly, doctor—only he is four weeks in advance with his allowance.

It Evens Up: "I hear you have a jitney bus line. Are you making a fortune?" "No, I also own a shoe store and the people are riding to save leather."

Wanted to Know: "Ma, this book says speech is silver and silence is golden." "Yes." "Well, then what is a brass band?"

APPLIGATE PICNIC A GREAT SUCCESS: GOVERNOR SPEAKS

Governor James Withycombe spent a few hours in Medford Thursday evening, en route to Salem from the fourth annual picnic of the Valley Pride creamery on the Appligate. Over a thousand people from all parts of the Rogue River valley attended the festivities. Between 250 and 300 Medford people attended.

The chief executive spoke to the assembled crowd on the value and beauties of country life, and urged his hearers to raise more cows and pigs. He made no mention of war and politics, and improved the opportunity by shaking hands with every man, woman and child present.

Governor Withycombe was in charge of the republican central committee. Upon his return, and while waiting for the train, he was introduced to Medford business men who stayed at home.

The picnic itself was the most successful outdoor event in the history of Jackson county, and despite a somewhat threatening sky and a few light showers, the day was highly enjoyable.

The Appligate school carried off the athletic honors in the track meet and was awarded the silver cup given by the Valley Pride creamery.

County School Superintendent Wells and Professor F. C. Reimer spoke and Miss Bertha Calkins gave a reading.

The Medford and Grants Pass bands furnished the music. The day was closed with a bonfire, waltz, roast and dance.

MAXWELL WINS IN ECONOMY TEST

A low gear economy test was held last week at Spokane, Wash., under the auspices of the local automobile show management. Practically every well-known make of car was entered in the contest and a great deal of public interest was aroused by the automobile show managers.

The only condition imposed upon an entry of a car was that it should be a stock model.

The competition was to decide which car could run farthest in low gear on a quart of gasoline. A course was laid out which every driver had to follow, so that no machine could take advantage of favorable grades. The machines were started off two at a time at one minute intervals, after the manner of the big races. After all machines had gotten away from the starting point the "race" was on.

When every machine had given its few last gasps and then finally "died" from lack of gasoline, it was found that a Maxwell car—stod un-disputed economy champion—having made the astonishing record of four miles and seventy-five yards on but one quarter of a gallon of gasoline—and all on low gear. That makes the almost incredible average of over sixteen miles to the gallon on low gear.

BUSINESS INTERESTS SEEK LARGER ARMY AT PEACE MEETING

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., May 21.—Delegates appointed to attend the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration by chambers of commerce and similar business organizations in most of the largest cities, aligned themselves today with the advocates of great military preparation for national defense. These delegates included manufacturers, merchants and officers of the country's principal commercial organizations. Their part in the activities of the conference has been emphasized this year by speakers, among them General Wood, who discussed that the most prolific cause of war was the interests of trade.

The report of the business men's committee, read by Chairman L. M. Cuthbert of Denver, declared that disputes between nations "ought to be justly settled through the proceedings of international tribunals instead of war." Nevertheless the committee asserted their belief "that it is the part of wisdom at present for the United States to be fully prepared to defend itself from possible injustice and aggression," and that advocated "the strengthening of our military and naval forces so as to effectively protect our coast."

The code recommended the reformation of a code of international law, the establishment of a permanent international court of justice and of an international police force to execute the decrees of the court. In conclusion the business delegates bespoke for President Wilson in his "decisive and trying position" the "cordial and hearty sympathy and assistance of all citizens, regardless of section or party."

ROUND-ROBIN FAILS

(Continued from Page 1.) brought to bear on Governor Ammons. We published statements of the miners' earnings which the agitators disputed and the governor expressed great doubt as to its accuracy.

Commissioner Walsh also called Mr. Rockefeller's attention to another written to him by Bowers on December 22, 1913, in which the latter said: "I propose to call your attention to six letters written by you in which you say you back up these actions by Mr. Bowers."

Backs Up Employees

"The letters mean," returned Mr. Rockefeller, "that there was disorder in Colorado. Naturally every citizen would use every effort to get the public officers to do their duty," he declared emphatically, that it was absolutely necessary for him to "back up" the men placed in charge of the coal properties.

Several times he objected to the form and nature of the chairman's questions.

"But you said I must say yes or no, and stop there," declared Mr. Rockefeller. "I sat here yesterday all day and heard a witness who was permitted to answer questions at any length he desired, and I demand the same right."

When Mr. Walsh agreed that Mr. Rockefeller could answer questions as he wished, the tense situation appeared to be relieved.

Raised Price of Coal

The chairman asked for a telegram from President Welborn of the coal company to Mr. Rockefeller regarding the price of coal during the strike.

"Wasn't it a fact?" asked Chairman Walsh, "that the price of coal was raised during the strike and that it was prohibitive to the poor?"

"I didn't know what the price of coal was and had knowledge only of our own coal, not about that of other producers."

"Do you know that Attorney-General Farrar of Colorado went to the governor and asked him for the use of the militia to install strikebreakers in your mines?" "I knew nothing of it," said Mr. Rockefeller.

"Did your company cheat the coal miners in weights?" "Never to my knowledge."

Pleads Ignorance "Did the companies with which you combined cheat their men?"

"We never combined with any other companies," said Mr. Rockefeller. He added that the Colorado companies merely joined together to act in the strike.

"Your father paid $40000 for sending out alleged facts of the coal operators of Colorado?"

"Yes, but it was understood the money was to be paid back by the operators."

Mr. Walsh read a letter by Mr. Bowers saying, "one or two of the competitive companies were cheating their miners through false weights."

Mr. Rockefeller said that he knew nothing of that.

DOCTORS SAID HE HAD DROPSY

Some time ago I had an attack of grippe which finally settled in my kidneys and bladder. I doctored with the doctors and they claimed I had dropsy. I tried other remedies and got no relief from any of them. My condition was such that I was unable to work for about two months and the annoying symptoms caused me a great deal of trouble and pain. I was hardly able to turn over in bed. Seeing one of your Almanacs, I decided to give Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root a trial and after taking several bottles was able to resume my work again. I cannot say too much in praise of your Swamp-Root as the results in my case were truly wonderful. Yours very truly,

ROBERT BALLARD, Mansfield, Pa. Sworn and subscribed before me, this 7th day of May, 1912. RAY C. LONGBOTHAM, Notary Public.
