LAUGHS

Exacting "Does a woman, when she's married, expect her husband to tell her his business affairs?" "I don't know; but a woman expects a man to talk business when he's courting her."

Nerve "We need brains in this business young man." "I know it. That is why I am offering you my services to make up your deficiencies."—Baltimore American.

By Sign Language "So there is a deaf and dumb ward? How do you call the inmates to dinner? I suppose you don't ring a bell?" "No. We have a man who walks through the halls wringing his hands."

The Obstacle Debtor—I want to pay that little bill of yours. Creditor—Thank you, sir; thank you. Debtor—But I can't.

Ma's Protest Boy's Mother (poking her head out of window)—Say, you kids stop picking on my Johnny; he ain't no mandolin.—Boston Transcript.

A Birdseye View Saps—What is this Blue Bird we hear so much about? Snapleigh—The Dove of Peace.—Judge.

The Aftermath Doctor—You must be careful, man. The influenza is not so very dangerous, but it may have extremely unpleasant consequences. Patient—I noticed that when I got your bill the other day.

Defective "This tower," said the guide to a party of Americans out "doing" England, "goes back to William the Conqueror." "Why, what's the matter with it?" asked one. "Isn't it satisfactory?"

Discernment "Grace, what is it your father sees in me to object to?" "He doesn't see anything in you, Algernon. That's why he objects."

Good Work "Do you do anything for your flesh?" "I should say so. I keep getting fatter and fatter."

As Usual "I understand that Grace has broken with George." "Yes! But she broke him before she broke with him."

His Opinion "Now, caddy, what would you say of my form?" "Well as long as your askin' me, I should say kinda skinnier."

Keep Off Her Feet Percy—Aw, isn't the hesitation, aw, delightful. Miss de Peaché—Yes, but I wish you wouldn't hesitate so long when you step on my feet.

THE MAGNA CHARTA

TODAY is the seven hundredth anniversary of the signing of the Magna Charta. On June 15, 1215, the feudal barons of England forced King John to sign the great charter, the first step toward English liberty at Runnymede, a meadow on an island in the Thames.

The idea of the barons was not to secure liberty, as we understand the word, for it had no existence in the England of the thirteenth century. Their idea was to force a restoration of ancient privileges, recognized by the Henry's, but usurped by John, but it laid the foundation of English freedom and constitutionalism.

The great charter applied only to free men, a small minority of the population, and it took many centuries to abolish slavery and serfdom. But it established the right of trial by one's peers and was extended to cover the rights of humanity as the nation progressed.

The cardinal privileges granted by the great charter, as it affected the nation at large, were: Freedom of the English church, with its rights inviolable.

Freedom for all freedmen. Protection of property rights and protection of property rights of minors and dower rights of widows.

Fines instead of imprisonment for minor offenses. No confiscation of property by officers of the crown without pay for the same.

Standard weights and measures. No sale or delay of justice. Trial by one's peers. Freedom of travel.

Right of appeal to the crown to redress wrong. Many of the privileges granted by the magna charta were revoked by subsequent monarchs.

The power of the barons was wasted in civil wars that exterminated the ancient nobility and their domains and rights usurped by the Tudors and a powerless peerage created. Meanwhile the power of the people grew and the efforts of the Stuarts to abrogate them ended in their final expulsion and the firm establishment of constitutional government—the monarchy reduced to a figurehead.

From the magna charta came our own declaration of liberty; from the violation of its spirit came the American revolution and the birth of modern democracy; from it came the French revolution. From it has also come the "new freedom," which recognizes the rights of humanity as against the rights of individuals and of classes, and from it will come a new internationalism recognizing the rights of the world as superior to the rights of a nation.

Europe is witnessing the death struggle of the old order to which the magna charta voiced the first protest. In the maelstrom of its battle fields autocracy is making a final stand in the effort to perpetuate itself and secure a renewal of its right to exploit mankind. Let us hope that humanity will in the resulting chaos force another magna charta for the rights of man, rendering it henceforth impossible for the governing and privileged few to cause the slaughter of millions and the destruction of the development of centuries.

ROGUE RIVER PIG SENT SOUTH CAROLINA

A Berkshire pig has just been shipped by Winona ranch, Grants Pass, Ore., to a buyer in Hartsville, S. C., the pig going to K. G. Chapman of that city. This is the first instance of a pig being shipped from a Pacific coast breeding establishment to any of the South Atlantic states, and except for the pig sent to Massachusetts last season by Winona ranch, this is the only time a purchased pig was ever sold from the Pacific coast to a buyer on the Atlantic seaboard. This Winona ranch and the Rogue River valley have now done twice what no other breeding establishment or section has yet succeeded in doing at all in the matter of long-distance sales of pure bred stock. This pig is a son of Laurel Champion, the famous herd boar for whom Winona ranch paid $750 last fall.

Another fine Holstein bull was added to those already in the Rogue valley by the "chase" recently by Winona ranch of the fine registered animal, Cloverleaf King Segie Kornjke. The new bull is a son of Model King Segie Kornjke, grand champion Holstein bull of the 1913 Oregon State Fair and of the 1913 Pacific coast dairy congress. His dam, Cloverleaf Belle III, has an advanced registry official record of 14.54 pounds butter in seven days, and his sire's dam has an A. R. O. record of 22.55 pounds butter in seven days, making an average for the young bull of 18.55. The Winona herd now has eight head of registered Holsteins, including calves.

SHORTEST CABINET MEETING IN MONTH

WASHINGTON, June 15.—President Wilson and his cabinet held today the shortest meeting in months, the meeting lasting only forty minutes. Usually cabinet sessions last two hours. Only routine business was done and the European situation touched on lightly, members said. Secretary Houston told the cabinet reports showed crops to be in an unusually good condition throughout the country.

BESSIE'S BUSINESS IS FALLING IN LOVE—IS "STAGE BUSINESS"

(By Esther Hoffman.) Miss Eyton smilingly showed me this letter which reads: "Dear Miss Bessie: "I have seen you in the films and think you need a protector from the wild animals and villains. I own 300 acres of good land, a house and have a lot of valuable stock and draft horses. Say the word and I will come and get you." "If I retained all the gifts that were sent to me," she said, "I would conduct a small zoo or curiosity shop. So far this year I have received five canaries, two parrots and several dogs. I love all these remembrances from my friends, who are sincere, but most of all I love to get letters from the children. I always answer them first."

Madame Schumann-Heink's Advice to the June Brides

"Soul Mating is Not as Essential to Happy Marriage as Ability to Be Real Companions," Declares Famous Singer.

(By Madame Schumann-Heink.) The Famous Diva. Some girl asks me: "At what age should a girl marry?" It is rather hard for anyone to tell a girl when to marry. Some people say that no girl should marry before she is 23 and others claim that marriages are more apt to be happy if the bride is even older. I do not believe age cuts any figure in the matter. It is the age of common sense and maturity of character that should determine the time of marriageable fitness and not the mere passing of the months and years. I have seen girls who would make splendid wives, both physically and mentally, at 16 and I have seen women of 20 who were utterly unfitted for the important business of wives and mothers. There is one great fallacy that should be corrected by every mother if that mother has her daughter's future as a married woman at heart. It is the fallacy that a great infatuation before marriage brings happiness in marriage. On the contrary, a happy marriage is not dependent on this before-marriage-overwhelming desire, which more often produces tragedy or disappointment in after life. Soul-mating is not as essential to a successful marriage as the ability to be real companions and jolly comrades. Mothers should not put so much stress on this "falling in love" if they wish their daughters to be happy and they should give them some rules for not "falling out." Having started in this school and given the grace of understanding a girl is ready to marry be she 16 or 36. (Another Schumann-Heink Article Tomorrow.)

ARKANSAS MOB LYNCHES A NEGRO

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 15.—Roy Hales, a negro who on Saturday shot and killed Roy Lester, a young planter of Lafayette county, was taken by a mob from Sheriff Boyett of Hempstead county and lynched to death in the woods near Lewisville. The mob, nearly 200 strong, overtook the sheriff while he was in his automobile driving toward Little Rock to place the negro in the penitentiary for safe keeping.

RUSSIA INFORMED TREATY ACCEPTABLE

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Inquiry of President Wilson today as to the status of the Russian treaty question brought forth the comment that the Russian government was now aware of the willingness of the United States to enter into a new commercial treaty with an arrangement consistent with the position of this country before the last past was abrogated. There has been no preliminary agreement as yet on the basis for such a treaty.

CLAIM AUSTRIANS FOSTER BRIGANDAGE IN WAR DISTRICT

ROME, June 15.—Charges that the Austrian military authorities are fostering brigandage in districts to the rear of the advancing Italian army are contained in an official statement issued tonight at the war office. The communication follows: "It is certain that Austria has left in territory actually occupied by us emissaries who have been given orders to practice brigandage. Men of the Landsturm, gendarmes and forest guards are involved. Naturally they are disguised and provided with munitions. In addition they are paid 1.00 crowns ($25) or more. "These men have fired here and there and continue to fire into the backs of our troops at isolated soldiers and officers, and provision convoys. Following attacking columns, especially in wooded regions which permit waiting in ambush without difficulty, these brigands even have fired at doctors while they were treating wounded, upon the wounded themselves and upon ambulance staffs." The note says an Austrian agent who was concealed in the vicinity discharged two shots from a revolver at an observer who was directing a battery of heavy Italian artillery, but without effect. The communication closes with the assertion that it is the purpose of the Austrians "to check Italian operations, to carry on spying operations, and also to lead the Italians to exercise cruel reprisals."
