GERMAN EXHIBITORS PRAISE 1915 FAIR AWARDS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—SIXTY German exhibitors at the Panama-Pacific exposition sent a letter to President C. C. Moore of the exposition today concerning the decisions of the superior jurors of awards in which they said: "Of all the neutral acts in the United States, the findings of the superior jury of awards in the German exhibits at the exposition is the most neutral."

Walter Schult, German commissioner to the exposition, said that some Germans were somewhat disappointed when the jury was made up without German representation.

"But," he continued, "we have nothing but the highest praise for the findings of the jury, for we have been most justly treated."

German exhibitors received five grand prix awards, 8 medals of honor and 22 gold medals.

MAUDE ADAMS IN 'QUALITY STREET' CHARMS AUDIENCE

"Quality Street" drew a good house last night. The audience was made up of people who were attracted by the unusual charm and talent of Maude Adams. The play is the Barrie type, delicate and subtle in its effects of pathos and humor.

"Quality Street" was written some years ago, and yet it follows most closely the lines on which lays of today are being written, the tragic element being left to the normal unfolding of the life depicted. The better class of dramatists of today are avoiding the broad and rather crude dramatic effect so universally employed in the past. The present style, one might say, is the lyric art of drama. We are beginning to realize that Barrie's plays are standard classics, that will endure the test of time, and become the style of future methods.

In the heyday and hurry of business life American audiences at last have been inclined to shirk their part in the more complete dramatic productions. They have demanded their pictures painted in broad and glowing colors, which required only a glance to see and comprehend. To satisfy this demand managers have catered in an alarming degree to the visual. For the delicate shadings and subtle effects they have substituted the elaborate scenic productions, leaving nothing to the play of the imagination, the medium through which true art must be presented. But we are glad to say that the "movies" have arrived in the nick of time to draw the line between real dramatic art and the passing show.

Maude Adams and Barrie form a duo that seems to have been most happily made, one for the other. She could not have become the great artist she is without Barrie; and certainly Barrie owes a great deal to Maude Adams, and cannot but add that the late Charles Frohman was the motive genius that made Barrie a playwright and brought the two together.

The world is beginning to realize that the play is a most potent factor in the education and development of the mind of the rising generation. Its influence is strong, either for good or for bad. It is conceded to be one of the greatest social forces, and we cannot be too grateful to players of the type of Maude Adams, who always leaves the fragrance of that which is sweetest and rarest. Her love scenes are a conception of the highest and purest affection. These qualities alone have endeared her to us, and the floral gift presented to her last night by the Drama League with the accompanying lines most aptly express our feelings for the rare little woman:

"We shall love you a little more than a long time—always." ED ANDREWS.

YANKEE CRUISER JOINS COLORADO AT TOBARI BAY

SAN DIEGO, June 17.—Under orders from Admiral Howard, the protected cruiser Chattanooga left San Diego this afternoon for Tobarí bay, near Guaymas, the destination of the flagship Colorado which sailed this morning. The protected cruiser Raleigh is preparing to leave tonight.

The Chattanooga is to assist in an expedition for the relief of American colonists who are besieged by Yaqui Indians in the event that Admiral Howard decides to land a force on Mexican territory. The protected cruiser has a crew of 450 officers and men, of whom 300 would be available for landing. The Chattanooga is expected to arrive at Tobarí bay next Sunday afternoon within a few hours after the arrival of the Colorado.

The Raleigh, it is expected, may leave port tonight with a crew number the same as that carried by the Chattanooga. Steam is being gotten up and all preparations for a start under orders of Admiral Howard.

TRUCK DRIVER RISKS LIFE FOR COMPANION

H. Van de Mark, driver of an auto truck for the county, used in hauling gravel for roadwork, risked his life this morning to save that of a fellow workman, Arthur Shafer. Van de Mark is suffering from a dislocated shoulder. Shafer escaped injury.

The truck tipped over on a steep grade on the Coker Butte road. Van de Mark could have saved himself by running the machine into a fence, but this would have imperiled Shafer, who jumped to safety. The truck tipped over before Van de Mark had a chance to save himself, and his shoulder was crushed. It is considered miraculous that his life was not crushed out.

Van de Mark was brought to this city and his shoulder set by Dr. E. R. Seely.

BABES LOOK AS IF BOILED; IT'S MODERN DANCES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—"A good dose of common sense for the mothers" was suggested today as a remedy for conditions which have handicapped modern children, by Dr. Harry V. Brown of Los Angeles at the closing session of the National Eclectic Medical association.

"Many babies when born today look as if they had been through the boiling process," he said. "It is not to be wondered at in the light of the hurly-burly, tango existence which modern mothers enjoy from childhood to maternity. This fox trot pace set for women today, together with constant physical abuse, explains the disparity between children of today and their mothers, when tried out in the endurance test of life."

The impossibility of right living in commercial centers, social tendencies to turn night into day, cocktails and highballs, the lack of the mother instinct among the well-to-do class and similar reasons were blamed for this condition. "Back to the farm" was said to be the only permanent cure.
