WHEN WE WANT WAR

IN the broadest, highest moral sense, all war is dishonorable. After all the centuries of civilization, intellectual progress, Christian endeavor and experience with the folly of war, it is dishonorable to men that they cannot settle all their differences without reversion to the policy of brutes—mutual annihilation or mutilation.

But there is still a limit to the possibilities of peaceful settlement of demand and disputes. A limit beyond which refusal to fight is more dishonorable than war. There is no living thing, in animal or vegetable world, that is not equipped with means for combatting enemies of its perfect development—all it ideals, in the case of mankind.

Nations are but collections of individuals—segregations due to color, sometimes to language, sometimes to climate, sometimes to nature's physical features, sometimes to necessity for expansion, but all brothers. And the ideals of our nation are promotion and preservation of the God-given rights of man, and peace and good will toward all other nations.

War is so horrible, so dishonorable, so foolish that we should make any sacrifice to avoid it, up to the point of immolating our national ideals—ourselves.

"Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." We speak of these as our national ideals. We have founded a nation upon them as our "inalienable rights," and maintain the doctrine that they are the natural rights of all men, everywhere. We must fight for them, die for them, if necessary, or perish as a nation with them.

That Americans have a right to travel and trade upon the waters of the earth, whenever and wherever not conflicting with the rights of other nations. Every right, individual or national, has its limitation at the line of conflict with the rights of others.

Would our dispute over the Lusitania mater justify war with Germany? Germany was clearly within her rights in sinking an enemy ship. The inhumanity and immorality of the method are not our affair. We cannot go to war to force Germany to our standard of morality.

International rights are created by international law, the formal agreement of nations. The fact that there is no international law to adequately cover aerial or submarine warfare deprives no nation of the right to make such warfare. Nor can we go to war, without too great dishonor, because the exigencies of such warfare occasionally preclude search, investigation, warning before decisive action.

Our ideals can be conserved by keeping Americans off belligerent ships. Peace and our ideals are more precious than the lives of a thousand Americans, and the Americans who jeopardize these things commit an offense against their own nation.

These words are not a brief for a peace-at-any-price policy. Rights that are not or cannot be asserted and maintained are dead rights, valueless as ideals and impotent as factors of national character.

On the contrary, we are for war at any price if necessary to maintain our inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. To surrender such rights means to surrender our place upon this earth and to repudiate our mission of enlightenment to all peoples of the earth.

Peaceful Americans in American or other neutral ships, engaged in non-contraband business, must have the backing of all this government's might, as an inalienable, national right.

If Germany's submarine warfare persistently destroys Americans so enjoying their rights, Germany must control such warfare with safety to Americans, or Uncle Sam must apply a remedy that will cure.

If Great Britain arbitrarily seizes and unreasonably holds such Americans or such American business, Uncle Sam must prescribe a radical reform for Great Britain.

The mad nations may disdain all the laws of God, man and nations, but the safe limit of their rights is reached in attempted destruction of the ideals and rights of the United States.

ROSY VIEW OF BUSINESS FUTURE TAKEN BY LAMONT

"We had to sit tight for a while but the situation is much easier now" said T. W. Lamont of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., New York, when asked how business conditions were in New York by a committee from Medford Commercial club who had entertained his party by an auto ride over the Pacific highway Sunday, taking the party from private car Philadelphia on No. 13.

Conditions are gradually righting themselves in all lines and the future looms larger with promise," he continued. Mr. Lamont and party of 12, including Mrs. Lamont and children, Dr. John W. Huddleston, an eminent physician of New York, are on their way to Klamath Falls, where Mr. Lamont has leased Pelican Lodge, the summer home of the late E. H. Hariman and will remain there a month.

Mr. Lamont was so carried away with the beauty of the valley and the reception accorded the party here that before leaving Ashland he tendered Mr. Westerlund a crisp new twenty bill to be used for such charitable purposes as he saw fit. Mr. Westerlund will turn the donation over to the Associated Charities. Mr. Lamont intends to motor to Medford from the Lodge in the near future and will spend several days in the valley viewing our orchard and mining districts.

A Treacherous Trouble

Medford People Point the Way Out. Kidney diseases are very dangerous. They come on silently, gain ground rapidly, and cause thousands of deaths that could have been prevented by proper treatment in the beginning.

Frank Longwill, prop. confectionery store, 102 S. Mistletoe St., Medford, says "For a long time I had all the symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. I had severe sharp pains in my back, felt tired, languid and run down all the time. The kidney secretions were unnatural and too frequent in passage. My rest was badly broken at night. Four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills—rid me of all symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. I have had no cause for complaint since."
