His hat flew off and landed in the hat rack over the seat. "Al" Caster, pitcher of the Medford team, was asleep. When he awoke it was with both feet ranmed through the back of a seat. Neither was injured.

John ("Shine") Edwards had two ribs broken and teeth knocked out. Edwards did not realize the seriousness of his injuries until some time afterward. He was taken to the Ashland hospital and afterwards came to the depot for something to eat. It was then that he discovered his loss and injury.

Everybode on the special train was hadly shaken and some hadly frightened. When the news reached Medford of the accident the telephone lines were kept base by anxious inquiries for friends and relatives.

ASHLAND MINERAL SPRINGS SHOWN EXPOSITION BOOTH

An interesting exhibit soon to be opened in the southern Oregon booth will be the reproduction of one of the mineral springs at Ashland, on which that city is now spending $175,000. This spring will occupy a large see tion at one end of the booth and will constantly flow mineral water brought from Ashland, Director Frobach and the exposition artists have worked out an ingenious and attractive display and there is no doubt that this is going to prove a decided attraction at the Oregon building.

That the people are interested in the thing that is different, unique, enrious, is evidenced in the many queries as to where in the building that set of deer horn furniture is loented. Eight pieces, valued at 86000 by the Roseburg owner, are shown in connection with Jackson county's magnificent exhibit of "Camp Life on the Rogue River," and it is remarkable that so many people hear of this and come to look. F. W. Bartlett, Jackson's representative there, tells them all about it, and then they stay to enjoy his own showing of fish and game from this sportsmen's paradise. Coos Bay also has a splendid showing of game, and birds in particular, in a booth adjoining, and Klamath's fifty deer heads and pictures of "A Day's Honting and Fishing" brings many to Philip Sinnott to ask questions. A very large Evelyn Nebit Thaw, who will go on number are interested in fish and the witness stand in the latest Thaw game and outing places, and three or
