Jim Holloway, a prospector of the Whiskey peak district, is in the city, and reports that last week while prospecting he found a pocket containing over $100. Holloway says that in 15 years in that section he never saw red ants so thick and that everything about the cabin must be hung up or the pests will infect it. He says that ordinary disinfectants have no effect whatsoever on them when they scent something to eat. He favors a forest fire to exterminate the ants, arguing that their propagation has been increased by lack of the same.

Keep the flies from bothering the cows. Use Conkey's Fly Knocker on the cows and get more milk. Try a can. Monarch Seed & Feed Co., 317 East Main St.

The Barnum engine that has puffed and snorted and wheezed its way up and down the Barnum line for 29 years, will puff and snort no more in this section. The old locomotive has been loaded on a flat car and shipped to the northern part of the state where it will be engaged in hauling logs in the Nehalem valley.

The engine, like every other human element, has begun to show the signs of time, for the cylinders leak, and the piston rods are worn, and the flange on the off hind wheel is worn almost to a thread. These defects will be removed before it is again placed in commission. In the twenty years the old engine was operated here it had but one accident. It ran into and killed a cow about a thousand years old.

Charles Champlin of Footh Creek, wife and child have returned from a months visit to relatives in Chicago. He has received a telegram that his brother Fred, a former resident of the valley, is recovering from injuries received a week ago in an automobile accident, and that unless there are internal injuries, he will recover.

Mr. Champlin was one of a party going from Chicago Monday evening, a week ago, to spend the night with George Ade, the humorist. At Hammond, Ind., the car skidded off the grade, and rolled down the embankment. Russell Green, the driver, was killed. Mr. Champlin had his head cut open, one rib dislocated, right arm broken and body badly bruised. Ten stitches were necessary in his scalp.

Arthur Pitnam, the California sculptor, son of Mrs. M. M. Putnam, of Medford, has been awarded a gold medal for bronzes on display at the San Francisco exposition.

"Uncle" Job Garrison, owner of Cinnabar Springs, Cal., is in the city today. Uncle Job found the Cinnabar Springs thirty years ago and has operated them ever since. Over 150 sufferers have visited his resort this year.

Dr. A. J. Helms' Great Dane, surnamed "Daniel" has received a shot of German kultur, for "Daniel" has developed a streak of intelligence bordering on the uncanny. In compliance with the city ordinance regarding the muzzling of canines, the massive brute wears a leather muzzle. The muzzle is no balm of Gilead to Daniel, so he has learned to rub the muzzle off and put it back on again when he sees a policeman coming. That Daniel is able to distinguish between a policeman and an ordinary citizen is unusual as all humans look alike to dogs as a rule. A demonstration of the mental faculties of Daniel has been given enough times to prove that it was not accidental eluding of the law, but performed with premeditation and aforethought. The muzzle is of leather, and built to give its wearer as much comfort as possible. Daniel is the biggest dog in Jackson county, and was imported 18 months ago.

CLOSING OUT SALE OF THE WARDROBE STOCK.
