RELIGION NEEDED IN LIFE DECLARES EX-PRESIDENT TAFT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—Religion was proclaimed as essential in man's life and in his relations to the state, in an address delivered here today before the national Unitarian conference by William Howard Taft, president of the conference, and former president of the United States. Unitarianism, Mr. Taft said, was of most use in almost every way.

Mr. Taft spoke at the opening of the business sessions of the twenty-sixth biennial general conference of the Unitarian and other Christian churches.

"The necessity for the infusion of the religious spirit into the prevailing morality for the purpose of giving it life and persistent influence is a fact that every one who studies the life of a people from the standpoint of a responsible administrator of government must recognize," he said. "The study of man's relations to his Creator and his responsibility for his life to God energizes his moral inclinations, strengthens his self-sacrifice and restraint, prompts his sense of paternal obligation to his fellow-men and makes him the good citizen without whom popular government would be a failure."

Mr. Taft traced the spread of religious tolerance from the middle ages, when, he said, there was none to the present time, where he found "evangelical churches growing more liberal." Unitarians, he said, "deny that they lose the essence of Christianity when they give up miracles, the virgin birth and a special divinity of Jesus. They have always emphasized the life of Jesus in his teachings of love as the foundation of all things spiritual and the motive and end of the kingdom of God."

These views, he said, had "liberalized the attitude of many evangelical churches." That the Young Men's Christian Association directors must be of orthodox faith did not trouble him, he said, because the "whole administration is now so catholic and liberal and worldwide in its usefulness."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—President Wilson today signed a proclamation giving notice of the neutrality of the United States in the war between Italy and Turkey. The proclamation followed the lines of the others already issued.
