JACKSON FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

No new fires were reported to the forestry offices this morning, and the forest fire situation throughout Jackson county is now under control. Most of the men engaged in fighting the flames returned this morning, and the remainder will be through their work tonight. Several brush fires are burning in the northern part of the county. The only danger is from a high wind fanning the dying embers into life. The moderation in the weather with the cool nights diminishes the forest fire danger.

HEAVY DEMAND IN GREAT BRITAIN FOR WINTER APPLES

J. Oliver of London, England, representing Dun Walle & Co., Ltd., one of the largest fruit importing concerns in the world, is in the city this week inspecting fruit conditions and conferring with local orchardists on the sale of their crops. "The apple crop in the Rogue River valley is good—what there is of it," said Mr. Oliver this afternoon, "and the growers will receive a good price. There will be a heavy demand for apples in England and the continent. I have been in the principal apple-growing centers of America, and the crop is just average. The apple crop in this valley is showing the effects of the lack of irrigation. Some of the growers have been hit hard by the drought. Some of the local crops I have inspected are first-class; others are not." Asked regarding the great war, Mr. Oliver said that England was more confident than ever. "England is not boasting; she may not win the war, but she will not lose it. I have a son with the colors. For eleven months he has been drilling. My personal estimate is that 3,500,000 men are in arms today anxious to go to the front. Only the war office knows how many men have enlisted. They are sent to France for a long period, within hearing of the sounds of battle. The men who are holding the first line trenches are the veterans of the regular army, seasoned fighters. The green men are held back. People ask me why England does not launch a great offensive. Kitchener has charge of that. The world can rest assured that England will never stop until every wrong has been righted and Germany brought to her senses. "The English people do not know what it is to hate. They bear no malice toward any nation. They weep to see their boys go to war, but they have to go. It takes an Englishman a long time to get started, and twice as long to stop." Mr. Oliver will spend a few days longer in the valley before leaving for California, and from there will go to North Yakima, Hood River and Wenatchee.

IMPORTED EGGS CANNOT BE LABELED IN GOLDEN STATE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The law passed by the last legislature requiring imported eggs to be labeled was declared unconstitutional today by Judge George A. Sturtevant in the superior court. The law was declared to interfere unduly with interstate and foreign commerce and to restrict unreasonably the rights of individuals. The law was passed at the last legislative session as the result of agitation against Chinese eggs. Such quantities of eggs, it was said, were shipped here from China that the egg industry in California was threatened. Reasons of sanitation also were advanced in favor of the law. Its effect on Canadian eggs and its alleged violation of Canadian treaty rights were cited by the defense as evidences of the law's unconstitutionality.

Wednesday a car of Bothell Bartletts consigned to Gornie, Kimball & Pope, brought $1.90 at auction.
