

POLITICAL SCIENCE CLASS FOR WOMEN OPENS THURSDAY

The political science class will meet Thursday afternoon at the public library at 2:30 under the direction of Miss Marion Towne, president, and the program will include parliamentary drill, a continuation of the discussion of the pure food code and current events, and all the women of Medford are invited to attend.

The women of Medford are taking a keen interest in the questions of the day, realizing that their votes count and that they should either vote intelligently or not at all.

The meetings, which will be held every two weeks at the public library, will be conducted on parliamentary lines, the different members taking turns as presiding officer, so the law will be thoroughly learned.

PUNCH JONES RAG TIME OPERA AT PAGE

George Cassmere, comedian with Punch Jones' company, is the boy who wrote "Memphis Blues," one of the big song hits of the year, and he sings it in the olio of the minstrel show at the Page Wednesday, and if you want to see a eccentric dancer you want to see Cassmere, for he is there a million ways.

There are many big features to the Punch Jones show. While it is an unknown show here, it has been the big hit over the Pantage's time for four years, and the same high-class show will be staged here for two nights only, and entire change each day.

Parody singers, plantation singers, grand opera and rag time, with the best aggregation of dancers ever gathered together, will be seen, and with the big special feature picture offered it will prove some attraction.

HALLOWEEN LARK TO BE HELD AT GOLD HILL

GOLD HILL, Ore., Oct. 27.—Halloween observance in this city this season will not be confined to the frolicsome forays of the small boy or his elder imitators. Doubtless the person whose front-gate was missing last year will again hold the annual indignation meeting with his neighbor, whose cow was pastured on the shed-roof.

The Greater Gold Hill club realizes that its jurisdiction does not extend to the correction of such matters. While its members do not openly approve of the mischievous manner of celebration—they were once boys themselves.

The general approbation of the club for some saner form of observance is shown in the announcement of a Halloween ball, to be held this Saturday evening in their dancing pavilion, which has been completely enclosed and will be heated for the winter season. Quaint favors, in the likeness of witches' caps, will be given to the guests, while the hall will be decorated in keeping with the mystic eve of hobgoblins and happiness.

All proceeds of club dances are used for the promotion of progress in the valley, and the pleasantly informal affairs have become quite the vogue with the southern Oregon social set.

Medford Housewives, Listen
Mr. Nordwick, proprietor of the Medford Roller Mills, is desirous of securing the names of the Medford housewives who have used Medford-made flour and are pleased with it. Won't you please call up phone No. 507, or mail a postal card to the Medford Roller Mills, giving your name, street number, and the kind of flour you are using. Mr. Nordwick knows there are a great many housewives in the city who are loyal to the "made in Medford kind" of flour, but he wants to know just who the loyal ones are.

By complying with the above request you will help materially in placing this Medford product into the homes of the city.

SUDAN GRASS TO SOLVE PROBLEMS OF STOCK GROWERS

BY W. W. WATSON.
Uncle Billy Angle, retired farmer, stockman and pioneer, with a residence on East Main street, Medford, and a stock ranch of 140 acres on Dry creek, in the Antelope district, has discovered the last blade in grass hay production.

It is Sudan grass. Whether or not it originally came from Africa, India, Java or Jerusalem doesn't matter. "It's Sudan grass because that's what it is," observes Uncle Billy—and he doesn't stop to stammer when he talks about it.

Fact is, it seems to be just what he claims for it. From a 100 foot row of it in his garden, grown this year for the first time in Southern Oregon, he has gathered already about 30 pounds of fine looking seed, fed many heavy armloads of hay from it to a fine milch cow and one would scarcely believe that he has disturbed it. Some of the bunches have grown to a height of eight feet and, if the frost hadn't come about the middle of this month to nip it a little, it doubtless would have been growing yet. The stalks, not quite as large as a lead pencil, filled with a juicy pith and very brittle, are abundantly jointed and from nearly every joint another stalk has grown, each stem bountifully covered with generous blades, making a wonderful yield of fodder, somewhat sorghum-like. Young grass, just above the crowns and in the shelter afforded by the parent stalks, is yet growing verdantly.

More Food Value to Acre
"Grain, hay and wild oats are the principal hay crops on our stock ranch," said Mr. Angle to a Mail-Tribune man today. "The yield per acre, considering the food value of the product, is not sufficient to be satisfactorily profitable," he continued. "I have been looking for something better—and I believe I have found it. I'll tell you why. I received a package of Sudan grass seed from the U. S. department of agriculture, through the good offices of Congressman Hawley. The result of my planting it carefully sometime last May is seen in that row in the garden. It looks like a hedge row of the delicate, ornamental kind, doesn't it? I have fed the cows generously from it and I had to pen the chickens up to keep them from eating all of the seeds as fast as they appeared. Poultry is very fond of it, the seeds being oily and full of meat. During the summer, as the heads ripened, I gathered some of them for seed, obtaining about 30 pounds already. That will sow quite an acreage—and that's the way I will get my start of Sudan grass. I have great confidence in it. It's a wonderful producer and its food value is twice that of Johnson, Bermuda or timothy hay. The average yield is 3.82 tons per acre, as given in twenty tests in Chillicothe, Texas, district, from which all of the seed was obtained for experiments throughout the United States."

The leading tests of Sudan grass, both as to yield and feeding value, have been made at the various substations in Texas, four of which have found the average yield per acre to be 7655 pounds, protein content 950, fat 147, crude fiber 2291, nitrogen-free extract 3487, and ash 777; Johnson grass, 4000 pounds per acre, 319 protein content, 84 fat, 1323 crude fiber, 1951 nitrogen-free extract and 316 ash; Bermuda grass, 4000 pounds per acre, 438 protein, 94 fat, 1929 crude fiber, 2062 nitrogen-free extract and 338 ash. These figures show that Sudan grass excels either of the other grasses named in protein and carbohydrates (nitrogen-free extract), with an excess of crude fiber, while it contains a third more of fat. It far exceeds timothy hay in all of the essential points of excellence in all of the experiments at Ohio experiment stations.

One Dollar a Pound
Sudan grass is an annual. Three or four cuttings of hay may be obtained from it in a season, approximately sixty days intervening between the harvests. As a fodder it is tender and juicy, stock relishing it avidly. Its seed make a fine poultry feed, both in protein and ash. On account of its excessive fat content, care should be exercised in feeding it to laying hens. The seeds are about two-thirds the size of amber sorghum seed and nearly the same shape. It yields as high as 700 to 1200 pounds of seed per acre—and, by the way, the seed is worth a dollar a pound.

The soil generally and the climate wholly are very favorable for the production of Sudan grass in this valley. It will bear (and I believe it will fully justify) further careful investigation by our progressive farmers. Uncle Billy Angle and this paper will be glad to answer correspondents who may care to know more about it.

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT
Flush the Kidneys at once when Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.
No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

ENGLAND'S KING ADMIRES HEROIC DEEDS OF FRENCH

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The following order of the day was issued by General Joffre, the French commander: "It gives me pleasure to transmit to the army an order of the day which his majesty, the king of England, has graciously addressed to you on the occasion of his visit to the French front: "Soldiers of France: I am happy to have been able to realize a desire long held in my heart and to express my profound admiration for your heroic deeds and for your tenacity of purpose and admirable military valor, which are the worthy heritage of the army of France."

"Under the brilliant direction of your eminent commander-in-chief and the distinguished officers associated with him, you officers and men have won the regard of your beloved country, which will always recognize your valiant efforts to safeguard and defend it.

"My armies are proud to fight beside you and to have you as their comrades. May the ties which unite you be permanent, and may the two countries ever be united by intimate ties.

"Soldiers: Accept my most cordial and sincere salutations. I do not doubt that you will continue this gigantic struggle to a victorious conclusion. In the name of my soldiers and in the name of my country I express to you my most cordial greetings and my best wishes."

"The president of the republic, who accompanied the king of England on his trip, joins with him in extending his personal congratulations to those who are addressed by his majesty."

EVERY THREE MINUTES ONE DIES IN THE U. S.

The Anti-Tuberculosis Society illustrates the frightful toll of consumption by extinguishing a light every three minutes, and shows that it is the man or woman, girl or boy, who neglects colds, whose blood is impure, who feels weak and languid, who is the very one to contract tuberculosis—and none are immune.
