

CENTRAL POINT TO GO AFTER ACREAGE FOR SUGAR BEETS

Alex. Nibley, on behalf of the Oregon-Utah Sugar company, W. H. Gore, chairman of the acreage committee, and C. E. Gates, manager of the field work, attended a farmers' meeting at Central Point on Tuesday evening, the assemblage having been called by farmers for the purpose of providing the most practical and effective means of securing a large acreage to be devoted to sugar beet culture next year and for four succeeding seasons, in accordance with the terms of the contract of the company that proposes to establish a million dollar beet sugar factory in the valley as soon as the required area shall have been subscribed.

"It was a fine meeting," said Manager Gates, "full of the proper spirit and the vim necessary to make the proposition a certainty, so far as the progressive farmers of that particular district are concerned. Surprising interest was manifested throughout the meeting by those most directly concerned—the farmers themselves. They are enthusiastic over the matter. Even the merchants there are anxious about the proposed enterprise, for they realize that the success of the farmers in a larger measure naturally brings success to their businesses in a larger measure. Nor are they wholly selfish in this matter. They know that it will help to solve the ready-cash market question that has become a vital one in this valley, especially a market reached without freight charges being piled up against the farmers' profits."

All Will be Benefitted

They fully realize the good it means to every business in the valley—and particularly to the tillers of the soil and those who have only labor to sell.

"A farmers' committee was appointed by the farmers to canvass the farmers for a liberal subscription of acreage. Good men were chosen and they promise to open the work with a rush and close it triumphantly."

"D. W. Stone, a much-interested member of the assemblage and an enthusiast for the factory, gave Manager Gates a paper from the district in Colorado where he formerly lived, in which was an article detailing the success of the sugar beet farmers there in the present harvest. It stated that the sum of $5,000,000 would be paid to the farmers there for their crop this year. This proved to be a good campaign document. The farmers of Central Point are in dead earnest."

Mr. Nibley attended a meeting on Wednesday at 11 o'clock at Gold Hill, similarly organized by the farmers for the farmers in the interest of the farmers for acreage and the factory.

The same earnest, business spirit pervaded the meeting, the general purpose appearing to be to get the acreage down in black and white, rather than to hesitate on the question as to whether or not they should meet this proposed enterprise halfway.

The meeting was conducted by the farmers, who appointed a farmers' committee to canvass for the desired acreage. This committee will be working at once and there will be no loafing on the job.

FREE LECTURE UPON LANDSCAPE GARDENING

The Greater Medford club has been very fortunate in securing Professor Peck of Corvallis for a lecture illustrated by stereopticon views on landscape gardening, to be given in the auditorium of the Medford high school Saturday at 3 o'clock, to which all the public is invited. The civics department of the club is very much interested in a new park to be constructed at the reservoir and expects many practical suggestions from Professor Peck, who is an acknowledged authority on this subject, as well as ideas for the beautifying of the city at large.

The Parent-Teacher circles of the different schools are interested as well as the Greater Medford club members, and it is hoped the public in general will co-operate in making our city really a greater Medford.

LIFE STORY OF NEXT FIRST LADY OF THE LAND

Two of Mrs. Galt's Sisters! Bertha Bolling, who also lives in Washington, and below the eldest sister of the president's bride-to-be, Mrs. Anna Maury.

CHAPTER III

Their honeymoon over, Mrs. Galt and her husband settled in Washington. A period of happy married bliss and then came her first deep sorrow—the death of her only child in its early infancy.

In the years since that tragedy her love for children has found expression in special interest in the children of her brothers and sisters and in her work for the children's hospital, of which she is a director.

Herself a woman of intellect and reading, she attracted about herself and her husband people of attainment in the various sciences and in art and music. Mrs. Galt, aside from being an accomplished musician, is passionately fond of art.

A point that friends of her noted and commented on, even in the early days of her wedded life, was that, although the wife of one of the best-known jewelers of the city, Mrs. Galt wore so little jewelry that it was noticeable by its absence.

A friend of hers, now living in Washington, says she remembers well how at that time women friends of Mrs. Galt's commented on the subject.

"I don't believe she has a favorite jewel, although the opal is her birthstone. Edith has never worn a jewel on her head in all the time I've known her."

Soon after she was established in her home in Washington, Mrs. Galt became a member of St. Thomas' Episcopal church.

The Hallowe'en Season is Here

The opening of the festive season for the long winter evenings—All Hallow Even, or as it is now commonly called, Hallowe'en. In olden times this evening was thought to be a night when devils, witches and other mischief-making beings were abroad on their baneful midnight errands. We are told that huge fires were built to frighten away these creatures and was frequently called "Nut Crack" night. But not so in these modern times, for it is a night of inside entertainment, dancing, card playing and the like.
