

HOBSON SPEECH WINS PRAISE FROM LARGE AUDIENCE

The temperance rally at the Page theater last Sunday was the largest attended of any meeting of its kind ever held in Medford. The main floor and the gallery were packed to their full capacity, and many left, not being able to find seats. The first speaker was Dr. Edwin L. Stevens of New York, the national secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of America. He set forth the rapid gains of the prohibition movement, but also said that he could not be satisfied until the entire nation had outlawed the liquor traffic.

Even then, he said, we will not be content until we have worldwide prohibition. To accomplish the work which is mapped out for the forces enlisted in the interest of humanity, he stated, required giving generously of service and money, and that not once and many times, but the giving must be done continuously. His address was full of humorous anecdotes and the great audience was not only instructed, but entertained as well. A generous offering was taken and subscriptions were made to the continuous support of the work.

The great address of the meeting was made by Hon. Richmond P. Hobson, who is of national fame because of his work in the United States navy and in the congress. Mr. Hobson has always been enlisted in the betterment of humanity, whether he served his people in military or in civic life. Because of his stand for temperance in the congress he was defeated for the U. S. senate in Georgia.

Mr. Hobson spoke from the scientific standpoint, showing how drink impaired the physical, mental and spiritual development of man. The line of man's evolutionary development was broken and destroyed by intoxicating drinks. Drink, he stated, has been like a millstone about the neck of the race, holding people down and back from true and noble destiny. The destruction wrought to the civilizations of the earth by alcoholic drink, he declared greater than that of wars, earthquakes, famines, floods and pestilence combined. This result, he said, had been determined by the careful study of the facts as they had been revealed by scientific investigations.

He said that we no longer should allow the destruction of our fellow-citizens to continue, only to enrich a few people as brewers and distillers. The millstone about our necks should be cut away.

Men and women in this work should look only to humanity's need and to be unmoved by the threats of the liquor interests, stated Mr. Hobson, and undaunted by the injury they might do. Ours would be, and must be, victory for all mankind. He called upon all to pledge themselves with him to go forward to ultimate victory, undismayed by all that the liquor interests might do or threaten. He asserted that he knew the heroism of American citizens when convinced of duty, and illustrated it by the story of the sinking of the Merrimac in the harbor of Santiago. Seven men were needed for this daring deed, but when volunteers were called for, 3000 men offered themselves. The seven chosen never flinched nor faltered in the work to be done when they saw its purpose and need in the cause of their country. Convincing the American people that the licensed saloon should be driven from our land and newuster thus added to the Stars and Stripes of Old Glory, and it would be done speedily and irresistibly.

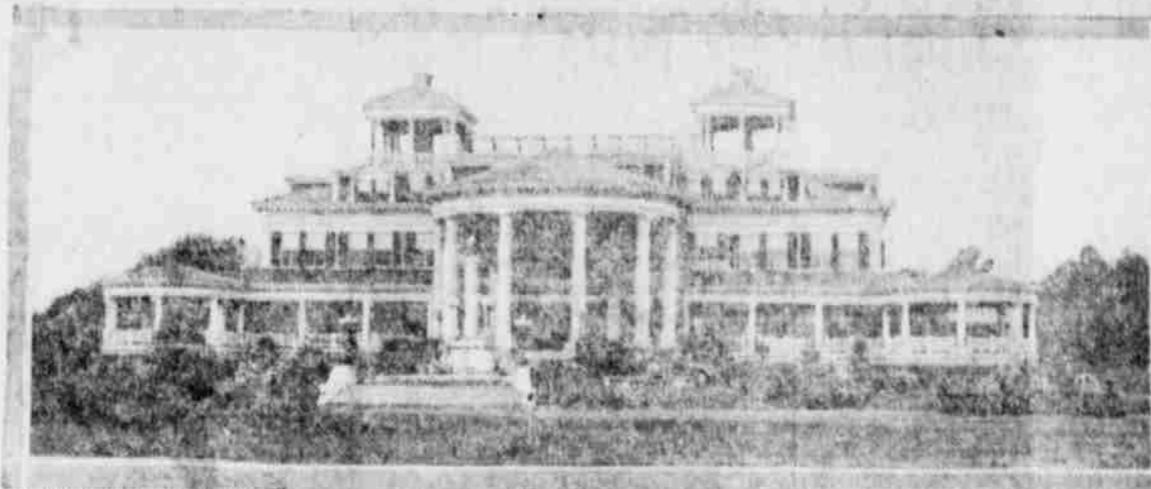

Many were heard to say that the address was the most eloquent and convincing that they had ever had the privilege of hearing.

SPECIAL VENIRE TO TRY TOM WATSON

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 26.—A special venire in addition to the regular panel, was drawn in federal court today for the trial of Thomas E. Watson, once Populist candidate for the presidency, and well known editor and author, who is charged with sending obscene literature through the mails.

The indictment in four counts is based upon a serial published in Watson's Jeffersonian magazine, entitled, "The Roman Catholic Hierarchy, the Deadliest Menace to Our Liberties and Our Civilization." Watson was indicted on similar charges in 1812 and in 1910 the indictment was quashed on grounds that it should have contained the entire article alleged to be objectionable and not merely excerpts from it.

BOYS NARROWLY ESCAPE FROM HUGE MOUNTAIN LIONS

The thrills that furnish the climax in an enlivening experience with mountain lions were not escaped by the Denmer boys of Jacksonville in their hurried effort a few nights ago to avoid a too intimate conflict with a pair of these beasts of prey. The lads were on their way home from Jacksonville after night on a mountain road, just over the hills from the county seat. After passing over the summit of the hill the boys discovered that they were being followed by two native forest rangers, but they were unable to determine whether their pursuers were panthers or lions. It was about 9 o'clock at night.

The young men were just able to escape an attack by dashing through the front gate and into the house, so closely had the animals approached them. Once safe in the house, they recovered their nerve sufficiently to decide to kill the daring brutes. With the aid of shotguns loaded with buckshot, and dogs they did so.

Even then they were unable to determine what the creatures were. The pests were taken to County Clerk Gardner, who, unable to classify them, sent them to Salem to have them tribally identified.

They were probably California lions. Their ear points dropped slightly, unlike the mountain lions of Oregon, and the animals were long of body, somewhat like the panther, although heavier, but lighter than the Cuscade lions, both in color and weight.

Other lions are reported to have been in the vicinity and are heard nightly roaring in the hills.

PRESIDENT MEETS PEACE DELEGATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—President Wilson has an engagement to see late today Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of a member of the British parliament and Miss Rosika Schwimmer of Hungary, who seek the president's support of the movement for a neutral conference to attempt to end the European war and establish permanent peace. They are to be presented to the president by Henry Ford.

The conference is the climax of a telegraphic campaign in which women in all parts of the country, at the suggestion of Miss Jane Addams of Chicago and other leading women peace advocates participated, urging the president to interest himself in having the proposed conference of neutral nations called.

No, it's not a nature take! It's a baby "ollop," the rarest animal seen by white man, which was brought to New York by Herbert Lang, member of the expedition sent by the natural history museum six years ago, from Belgian Congo. Mr. Lang's collection, besides the rare ollop, consists of 20,000 specimens of animal and bird life and 60,000 insects.

ROME, Nov. 26.—It was asserted in well-informed quarters here today that Cardinal Von Hartmann, archbishop of Cologne, who arrived in Rome yesterday, was the bearer of a message from Emperor William to Pope Benedict in which the emperor is reported to have disclaimed responsibility for the war.
