

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

The average American family consumes over $100 worth of meat annually. How much of that do the farmers produce at home? Why should they sell pork on the hoof at 5 cents a pound and buy it back in the form of bacon at 25 cents a pound? A 200-pound hog on foot is worth $10 at that price. With its meat properly cured, it is worth $50, less the shrinkage. And the shrinkage isn't a fifth part as much as is that of the farmer's purse who sells his hogs on foot. Include the chickens and beef in the same list. Canned meats and Chicago hams are as precious as molybdenum. Probably that's why the farmers like them.

Local apiarists should see that their beehives are abundantly insulated for the winter. Dearth of insulation produces a disease known to beekeepers as dysentery. This disorder destroys the bees. Good food should also be provided for the colonies. There are not many colonies in this valley, but those we have produce an excellent quality of honey.

In your beautiful valley they call me an optimist. The first sounds like an epithet; the latter like sunshine. I think I'll sell my Missouri farm and return to the vale of big apples, big pumpkins and big sugar beets. If we produced as much sugar to the Miami section as the quantity of quinine we consume, it would be a big industry there. I have never heard the word quinine mentioned in this valley."

Attorney B. L. Vincent, of Seattle, tarried a few hours in this city today, while en route to Shasta valley, California. Mr. Vincent expressed his surprise at the apparent extent of Rogue river valley, as he could see it from the railway as he passed through it. He had conceived the idea that it is a "mere garden spot, very rich and very beautiful," but that it is limited in area. He promises a visit to this region next summer when he can find time to enjoy the grandeur of the mountain scenery of Southern Oregon, including Crater lake and the big caves.

Chauncey Miles, of Payette, Idaho, is a visitor in Rogue river valley this week, with headquarters in Medford. He will probably remain. BAD WEATHER AFFECTS SCORES

The Banker's Trophy match, in which the National Guard companies of the state have about concluded their contest, was the incentive for record scores on the local range of the Seventh company members yesterday; but the conditions were unfavorable for good marksmanship. The wind blew strong and in fits and squalls. The sky was overcast and every element militated against target work. While the local score would not be considered very good generally, under fair conditions, it is regarded as excellent under the circumstances.

The scores follow, the first number after each name being the score of the 200-yard shot and the second the 300-yard shot, rapid fire in each case:

- Private Purdin, 44-16; Private Jaqua, 37-28; Private Runyard, 18-15; Private Murray, 18-28; Private R. Strang, 15-34; Captain A. J. Vance, 30-19; Sergeant Brown, 37-27; Private Noe, 33-21; Muslim Dyer, 32-40; Private Barber, 15-14; Private H. Strang, 23-14; Private Maddox, 28-36; Private Davidson, 12-19; Private Holmes, 35-37; Private Laidley, 15-19; Private Olmstead, 32-20; Corporal Cauthran, 14-31; Private Seamon, 33-44; Sergeant Chase, 46-45; Sergeant Purdin, 28-38.

How to Have the Best Cough Remedy and Save $2 by Making It at Home

Cough medicines, as a rule contain a large quantity of plain syrup. A pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

Then get from your druggist 2 1/2 ounces PineX (100 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 24 cents, a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.20—a clear saving of nearly 82%. Full directions with PineX. It keeps perfectly and tastes good.

It takes hold of the usual cough or chest cold at once and conquers it in 24 hours. Splendid for whooping cough, bronchitis and winter coughs.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes the inflamed membranes in the case of a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

PineX is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiaicol, and has been used for generations to heal inflamed membranes of the throat and chest.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of PineX," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The PineX Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.
