

WOMAN OF 74 TAKES LAST FLIGHT IN AN AEROPLANE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 16.—Expressing the desire to "fly once before retiring to a quiet life," Mrs. Lulu Comstock, aged 74 years, of this city, arranged for a flight with Aviator Anton Meyerhoffer, Jr., that ended today with the falling of the flying boat into the waters of San Diego bay and the death of the woman.

Mrs. Comstock, previous to the beginning of the flight, stated that she wished to be taken to a height of at least 1500 feet. Within a few minutes after the flight had been started, according to the story told by Meyerhoffer, Mrs. Comstock was seized with a fit and, reaching out, grabbed the aviator in a firm grasp.

Meyerhoffer says that he struggled desperately to free himself from the embrace of the woman so that he could control the machine, but that before he could release himself from her grasp the flying boat, which was about fifty feet in the air, turned over and fell into the waters of the bay. The force of the impact with the water completely wrecked the flying boat.

Meyerhoffer and Mrs. Comstock were hurled clear of the wreckage and rescue parties within five minutes had brought both to shore. Mrs. Comstock, however, upon examination, was found to be dead, whether from drowning or the injuries she received is not yet known. Physicians who examined the body of the woman stated that her neck, one leg, one arm and her shoulder were broken, in addition to other injuries.

Meyerhoffer escaped with a few scratches on the face. The dead woman had been a resident of San Diego for a number of years and is survived by a son and a daughter, both grown.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 16.—Dr. George U. Lipschulch, state representative from Chicago, came here today to file written charges with the state board of health against Dr. Harry Haiselden of Chicago, who declined to perform an operation on the defective Bollinger baby, which might have saved its life.

In the charges Dr. Haiselden is accused of gross unprofessional conduct. It found guilty his licenses might be revoked.

"I am also considering the advisability of taking this matter up with the state's attorney of Cook county," said Dr. Lipschulch.

BURGOMASTER MAX KEPT IN SOLITUDE

PARIS, Dec. 16.—"I greatly fear I shall have lost entirely the use of speech before the banquets which you speak of my presiding over in the future," says Burgomaster Adolphe Max of Brussels, in a letter sent to a friend from the German fortress at Glatz in which he has been confined for the last year.

The burgomaster, whose disagreement with the German military authorities at Brussels led to his imprisonment, says in his letter that army officers imprisoned at Glatz, are permitted to mingle freely but that for some reason he is unable to fathom, he has not been allowed to come in contact with them.

Paris newspapers, in publishing the letter asked whether President Wilson, King Alfonso or Pope Benedict can not intervene to alleviate the lot of the burgomaster.

LONG SITTING FOR GERMAN REICHSTAG

LONDON, Dec. 16.—"There is every reason to believe that the German reichstag will have to sit much longer than was expected in order to deal with the pressing discontent among the masses, says the Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily News. "In order to appease these clamorings, it will need to deal with no fewer than one hundred and thirty resolutions, all relating to the distribution of food, besides resolutions dealing with the social policy, which will require delicate handling, the demands of better pay for the soldiers and sailors and better provision for the relief of war families.

WOMEN APPEAL TO CONGRESS TO VOTE SUFFRAGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Woman suffrage leaders again appealed to senate and house committees today to immediately favorably report the Susan B. Anthony constitutional amendment to enfranchise women.

Miss Anne Martin of Nevada introduced more than a dozen speakers at the senate hearing for five-minute speeches.

Senator Ransdell of Louisiana directed attention to the contention that the women of the south did not want the ballot because of the negro woman vote.

"It is not the negro question which is endangering suffrage in the south," replied Miss Frances Jolliffe of California, "but is the factory owner who employs children and women."

Mrs. Sara Bard Field of Oregon told of the fight of western women for national suffrage and their resolution to put suffrage ahead of party.

Before the house committee Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt and other representatives of the National Suffrage association urged the amendment.

Mrs. Catt said she would not have it on her conscience to refuse to let the question of a constitutional amendment for woman suffrage go before the states. "I believe we could trust the people of the various states to do what is right," she said.

REPLY UNSATISFACTORY

aboard, there would be little room for discussion of Secretary Lansing's contention that the commander violated the principles of international law and humanity, and that it was "wanton slaughter of defenseless non-combatants."

Officials pointed out today that a thoroughly unsatisfactory and unresponsive reply from Austria would bring diplomatic relations between the two countries to a crisis because of the closing words of Secretary Lansing's note, which declares that "good relations between the two countries rest upon a common regard for law and humanity," and that Austria, appreciating the gravity of the case, "will accede to its (the United States) demand promptly."

Note Most Emphatic

Specifically the note demanded denouncing the sinking of the Ancona as an "illegal and undefensible act," punishment of the commander "who perpetrated the deed," and payment of an indemnity to those Americans who suffered. The note stands as the most vigorous of all the American correspondence of the war and was not quelled even by the note at the close of the submarine controversy with Germany.

Austria's diplomatic relations with the United States since the recall of Ambassador Danba for his connection with plots to cripple American munition plants have been maintained by the embassy here with Baron Zweidnek as charge d'affaires.

Later in the day Baron Zweidnek returned to the state department and again conferred with Secretary Lansing. He refused to tell what his mission was or whether he had heard from Vienna since he called in the morning.

It developed that the baron had received a brief message from Vienna calling his attention to his government's reply, which, however, was not transmitted to him. It had not been received at the state department at the hour of his call.

FASHION IS IN PARTNERSHIP WITH SATAN, DECLARE MINISTERS

Sh-h-h-h! Did you look at those pictures? Well, look again!

They're the leading ladies of the Broadway Burlesquers, are they not? YES, THEY ARE NOT!

They are a couple of stylish mannikins toggled up in the rags that are going to be the swell thing in Manhattan's swaggar set this winter.

They're not from any ordinary popular fashion show, or any woman's boem magazine—they're from that very bon-tonnest of the bon-ton, "Town and Country!"

And they're offered in all seriousness to the moneyed dames of the eastern fashion centers a stbe very best bets in dinner duds and matinee costumes.

Over the one at the left they had: "Net and jet—jet embroidered insertions on a full tunic; sable fur on a net skirt; from Alice Maynard."

And "Town and Country" thus described the one at the right: "Worn

very short—black spangled evening gown with dashing velvet bow and sash; from Boue Soeurs."

"Fashion has taken satan into partnership," says the Rev. Samuel Fallows, reformed Episcopal bishop of Chicago and student of social conditions.

"The fashionable dress of today is an invitation to men to make improper approaches. The good woman dresses as guadly as the evil woman; how is the world to know which garbs vice and which virtue?"

IDENTIFY WRAPPER FROM DYNAMITE IN SCHMIDT TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 16.—Wrappers taken from the dynamite in a bomb found at the home of Felix J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, after the Times building was blown up five years ago, was identified today at the trial of Matthew A. Schmidt, alleged McNamara accomplice, charged with murder by William Flynn, a packer for the Giant Powder works near San Francisco. Flynn also identified the dynamite packing cases found in the south San Francisco house which the McNamara conspirators were alleged to have used as a cache.

Two other witnesses testified concerning the purchase of metal letters which the state asserts Schmidt, Jas. B. McNamara and David Caplan employed to disguise the name of the launch used to transport the explosive from the powder works, but neither man could positively identify Schmidt.

Harrison Nutter, employe of a sign manufacturing company in San Francisco, said Schmidt "looked like" the man who in September, 1910, a short time before the Times explosion, purchased aluminum letters to spell the name "Peerless," the name as given by the alleged conspirators to the launch "Pastime."
