With the heaviest snow storm in many years raging throughout northern Oregon and the entire northwest, and with the worst rainfall in years in Central California and the Sacramento valley, the Rogue river valley is serenely maintaining its record for drought. COST TWO MILLIONS TO STAGE TWO ORPHANS

"The Two Orphans," now playing at the Page, is universally known to all, but now, as pictured in seven nets for William Fox, it is seen in a new form. Adolphe D'Emery, the author of this world-famous drama, would hardly recognize his play as produced for the screen, so vital and virile a thing has it become through the skilled direction of Herbert Brenon and the wonderful effects of skilled camera work and production. Notably so is the scene in the street of Paris, showing the arrival of the Normanly coach with the two orphans, Henrietta (Theda Bara) and Louise (Jenn Sothern). The scene showing the prison of Salpetriere, the most infamous place of captivity that ever existed, is equally elaborate. The most massive and elaborate sets that ever lent truth and color to a photograph are used. Also the largest and strongest all-star cast ever shown upon the screen, headed by Theda Bara, Jenn Sothern, William Shay and John Daly Murphy, a noted clubman, a member of the Meadowbrook Hunt and Tennessee Valley clubs.

The picturization of Wm. J. Hurlbut's famous modern American drama, "The Fighting Hope," in which Laura Hope Crews makes her first appearance as a photodramatic star under the management of Jesse Lasky and David Belasco, tells the story of a heroic woman's struggle to believe in her husband, who has been convicted of robbing the bank that employed him. With all the evidence against him, she still holds to her faith in his innocence until she is finally confronted by the "other woman" for whom the crime was committed. At Star Theater today only.

DEEP ROOT SYSTEM ONLY OFFSET FOR LACK OF IRRIGATION

BY W. W. WATSON

The progressive farmer has re-assorted his seed potatoes and safely put them out of reach of weather conditions. Next spring, he will again assort them and then treat them with formalin before planting them. This will serve to kill the germs of disease in them and will stimulate their early germination. Then, if we have water for irrigation at the proper time and a good seedbed well cultivated, he will have occasion to boast of his bumper crop. The irrigation of potatoes, however, is next to one of the fine arts. With that feature of the cultivation he will have to be careful.

Watchful farmers in this valley last year discovered that the "deep-root system," in which the seedbed was plowed deep and kept thoroughly pulverized, gave the only good results in the valley in cases in which there was no irrigation. The depth reached by the roots of the plants before the drought enabled them to enjoy moisture for a longer period than those of shallow rootage. It was deep plowing and deep cultivation that produced the first result, followed by shallow cultivation in the later period of the season.

Corn Rotation Crop

Especially in the Rogue river valley is corn one of the best rotation crops. In fields long abused with the production of grain, it is peculiarly effective in stimulating the soil, if the plowing be deep enough to turn up four or five inches of the soil that has not been disturbed in the grain cultivation. Follow the first season of corn with winter vetch and oats, pasture the crop, if it can be planted early enough, plow it under in the spring a depth of nine or ten inches and plant a second crop of corn. Then the field will be ready for a good stand of alfalfa, the seed of which should by all means be inoculated. This is assuming that you have either superficial or sub-irrigation. No counsel is herein offered for the dry farmer.

Piles of manure have lain about many old barns and barnyards in this valley for two or three years without attention. They were worth money, just as piles of grain would be. The latter would not have been left to decay. Then, why the manure? Your soil needs every ounce of it. But it has leached out. Its fertilizing substance is all gone. You have wasted it. During these winter days every pound of manure that can be scraped up from the barnyard and poultry pens should be hauled into the garden and orchard and field for enrichment of the soil. A dollar's worth of manure is worth just as much as a dollar's worth of anything else.

All Need Livestock

Every farm of any consequence should have livestock on it. The roughage may be consumed with profit by it and the manure used for an excellent purpose. Thousands of head of stock annually could be utilized in this manner on the farms of the valley, almost doubling the livestock output of the county and affording thousands of tons of manure of great value.

URIC ACID IN MEAT BRINGS RHEUMATISM

Says a little Salts in water may save you from dread attack.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat; but drink plenty of good water. Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidney to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

the total number, can be found in this valley. Some years ago the people of Jackson county were proud of their roadsters and draught horses. They had fine track horses, too. Notwithstanding the automobile and its general usefulness, the horse is yet one of man's most servicable friends. Why we have allowed it to deteriorate into the plug appears not to be locally known.

Salt should be fed to hogs with charcoal—both dry—one part of salt to two parts of the latter. Sick hogs in the vicinity of Jacksonville have probably had neither. Lack of care of hogs in the filth they naturally produce will make them sick, to be sure. There is no legitimate excuse for hogs being sick in this valley.

Molasses a Stimulant

Molasses, as a by-product from a beet sugar mill, stimulates an animal's ability to consume more hay and grain profitably. It is a healthful appetizer. If one is feeding to put on wholesome flesh for profit, sugar beet molasses should be used as a part of the ration.

With leguminous feed, such as alfalfa, clover and cowpeas, for the dairy herd, furnishing crude protein and mineral matter, the dairyman should feed corn silage and roots for starch and carbohydrates. Sugar beet pulp should be part of the ration.

For sugar-curing pork on the farm the following is a good recipe: For 100 pounds of pork use two quarts of the best salt, one and a half pounds of brown sugar, one-ounce of saltpeter and one-half pound of pepper. A little less saltpeter will do.
