

ASHLAND AND VICINITY

Mrs. Sarah J. Barber died in this city last Friday at the home of her son, W. M. Barber, of the Record office, aged nearly 85 years. She was a native of Chester county, Pennsylvania, though most of her life had been passed in Ohio. Her husband died nearly twenty years ago. She was the mother of three children, the only survivor being the son residing here. Over a year ago she came to Ashland to pass her declining days with her son's family. She was a woman of rare virtues, and although afflicted with many of the infirmities of age, possessed a bright and cheerful disposition in the face of shadow as well as sunshine. Funeral services were held at the family residence, 151 Granite street, Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. W. J. Douglass of the Methodist church, of which communion she had been an efficient and exemplary member since her girlhood days. Her remains were taken to the old family home at Cambridge, O., for interment, leaving Saturday evening, accompanied by Mr. Douglass, who has been called east to visit his aged mother living in Detroit, Mich.

The Wednesday Afternoon club will hold a cafeteria supper in the Grand Army building on Chautauqua grounds, Thursday, January 27, from 5 p. m. until all have been waited upon.

The picturesque mountain section of the Pacific highway south of Ashland is to receive eastern publicity through the forwarding by the Oregon highway department of elaborate scenic views to Andrew Vogt, a member of the New York stock exchange, who toured this locality last summer and who has given assurances that easterners through the medium of these pictures shall be made acquainted with the scenic beauties of southern Oregon in particular.

The California-Oregon Power Co. has elected Jos. D. Grant, president, and Jesse Churchill and Alex. Rosborough, vice-presidents, who are also members of the directorate. The corporation now furnishes twenty-four communities in southern Oregon and northern California with light and power.

An alarm of fire was turned in during Saturday night's gale from the Hoskin residence on Granite street. The house was a shack moved to its new location from lots purchased in order to enlarge the park area. The loss was well nigh total, the fire department saving only the frame, a mere shell.

Saturday seems to be fraught with peril on the Pacific highway, especially that portion of the road in the vicinity of the Billings-Farnham-Jackson-Eagle Mill hill. Last Saturday night Kale Shepherd came to grief near the bridge over the creek on western city limits. His Chalmers car was badly wrecked, necessitating its being brought in on a stretcher, inasmuch as it was minus a few wheels and sustained the compound fracture of an axle. A couple of women passengers were badly shaken up, but nobody was seriously injured. Some day there will be something doing on this highway, which is proving to be a hard road to travel for speeders.

James Leslie Corbett was found dead at his residence on Alta avenue, Saturday morning. He was a widower and lived alone. He was a native of England and had been a resident of this vicinity for over twenty years. By occupation he had been a surveyor and mining engineer, having been employed in this capacity in Montana and other mining centers before coming to southern Oregon. He was nearly 90 years of age, and was a brother of C. Cunningham of this city. The deceased was a familiar figure here. He was possessed of a rugged personality and was a man of more than ordinary attainments along literary and mechanical lines. His remains will be sent to his former home in Missouri for burial.

The Personal Liberty league, anticipating awful developments following in the wake of the enforcement of the Sunday closing law, held a meeting in the Lyric theater on Sunday afternoon, when a bunch of attendants listened to a protest as voiced by Taylor G. Bunch with musical accompaniment.

F. R. Ritchie, traveling passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, was an Ashland visitor recently, and in company with Arent Kramer visited every section of park territory in order to get an idea of the scope of the springs development work from start to finish. W. H. Jenkins, S. P. passenger agent, also made the round trip.

T. H. Thompson, former proprietor of the Ashland Nursery, now a resident of Montague, was here last Saturday.

urday looking up a bargain in the way of trading acreage in northern California for Ashland town property.

Pending future developments, the California-Oregon Power Co. will retain its office here in settling all business matters preliminary to vacating the local field. The city hall is now headquarters for settling all electric light and power rates, either flat or meter. The "grievance committee" is also on deck there to pass upon the merits of any grouch.

Telegrams from Oakland, Cal., on Sunday announce the sudden death of Mrs. Horace Badger in that city the day previous, when the family had been residing for some time past. Mrs. Badger was formerly Miss Frances Taverner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Taverner, and Horace is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Badger, both families residing here. Basketball at the gym on Saturday night between high school teams resulted in the defeat of Eugene by Ashland, the score being 21 to 18 in favor of home players. The preliminary was between Ashland's second team and Phoenix, in which instance "Phoenix rose from its ashes" and put it over the locals by a score of 13 to 2.

The secretary of the Commercial club has moved his office from the publicity department headquarters to the club's reading room, where it was formerly located.

The private car "Pacific," occupied by Chief Engineer Hood and party of S. P. officials, was in this territory last week inspecting roadbed and other features of the system between Portland and San Francisco. Rev. H. J. Van Fossen, district superintendent, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday, owing to absence of Pastor Douglass, who will be absent in the east for several weeks. At the Presbyterian church Rev. J. H. Doran preached, exchanging pulpits with Pastor Carman, who went to Central Point.

The next basketball game will be on Thursday, January 27, at the armory between local teams, the contestants being the high school and Coast Artillery squads.

Frank Lesher was found dead in his cabin near Hill last Thursday. He was 65 years old and formerly resided in southern Oregon. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict of death from natural causes.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Gilmore returned the last of the week from an extended visit with relatives in the vicinity of Los Angeles, glad to be at home again amid the peaceful and undisturbed conditions existing here as compared with the period of storm and stress prevailing in southern California.

Mrs. Jane McCain, aged 81, died last Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. H. Gearh, residing on Walker avenue. Her remains were taken to the old family home at Fremont, in central Iowa, for interment.

Contractor Smith of the mineral springs project, returned to San Francisco last Friday, after a visit inspecting the successful installation of the physical features of the big undertaking here.

G. W. Corrigan of Hornbrook, Southern Pacific roadmaster in mountain territory, was here last week on official business.
