

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett

I. A. Gardner of Lake Creek was a business caller Wednesday. He was purchasing some hardware of the von der Hellen Hardware Co.

J. D. Singleton, one of our prosperous farmers, was in town Wednesday looking over the hay market.

H. Hoogerhyde has been employed as an assistant in F. L. Heath's general merchandise store during the time that Mr. Heath was engaged in taking an invoice of stock of drugs he bought in Medford, and he and his son Fred W. have opened what is to be called the Heath Drug Store in Medford under the management of F. W. Heath.

Miss Belle Stanley, who came out from her home in the Lake Creek country on Wednesday on the E. P. L. C. stage, went to Butte Falls on Thursday.

Delbert Meyer of Brownshoro came out on Thursday and went on to Medford, returning on Saturday. He and Carl and Harry von der Hellen of Wellen were at the Sunnyside for dinner Thursday, and so were Harry's brothers-in-law, F. R. and Henry Berger of Portland.

Mrs. Stillwell and her brother, John Minter, returned from up in the Willamette valley, where she had been to look after her farming interests. John reports that the snow was two feet deep on her place near Portland. They were met by their niece, Mrs. W. E. Hammill, and taken out to their home.

Three head of cattle wandered out of their range into town last Wednesday and were promptly taken up and put into the town pound. A small pen of about three square rods without shelter and the mud half knee deep—we have no humane society here—and one of them was still there Friday. If the town authorities are going to impound the farmers' stock that happen to pass through here, the least they could do would be to place them in a place where they could lay down in a dry place and have shelter to cover them. One of the cattle proved to belong to George Stevens of Medford, and his man just happened to be in town and saw the animal, or it might have been kept up the required fifteen days and sold and he would have been out a cow and one particularly benefited by the deal.

Several North Talent farmers went to Jacksonville Thursday to have their land exempted from the proposed irrigation project under way in this precinct.

Little Vian Staneliff was quite sick Thursday night with the grippe, but is better at this writing. Noah Chandler is putting in a new fence along the front of his little farm, which will add greatly to the looks of the place, as well as being useful. Many of us would do well to follow Mr. Chandler's example. Wind blew so hard Friday night that the large trees of a very valuable shade group on C. Corey's place were turned up by their roots. There is to be quite a large acreage of alfalfa sown under the new ditch this spring, as an assurance of water means good crops.

Some of the ranchers along the big canal between Phoenix are being flooded by the seepage water. This is caused by the ditch not being puddled as soon as water was turned in, and may cause much trouble. Talent and vicinity will plant largely of tomatoes for the cannery and of beets for the beet factory this spring. The farmers say we will get the money if we make the products for these two industries. Don't forget the hogs and dairy cows, too, Mr. Farmer.

One of the pleasant gatherings of this winter was a surprise on Mrs. F. E. Furry last Tuesday morning, the occasion being her birthday. People from all parts of Eden precinct were present. Five hundred was played until near midnight, when refreshments were served, after which dancing was indulged in for several hours by those who cared to dance.
