Electric Pumping and Irrigation

Electricity affords the simplest and most convenient power for pumping for irrigation, and plants properly installed can be run more economically, all things considered, than in any other way, The quantity of water required varies with the soil, and for crops in this locality, from one acre foot (12 acre inches) to one and one-half acre feet (18 acre inches) in the season is considered sufficient.

Economical installation and operation of pumping plants are best secured by small units, operating 24 hours per day, pumping into suitable reservoirs, so as to irrigate under large head 8 to 12 hours per day.

We will be glad to supply estimates of size and cost of pumping complete.
