

WOEFUL WASTE OF GOOD WINE IN CITY GUTTERS

With Chief of Police Hitton as master of ceremonies and Judge Kelly as toastmaster, sixty gallons of wine, representing many days of painstaking labor and patience on the part of Paul Denner, were today ruthlessly turned into the plebian gutter that carries the dross of everyday accumulations past the municipal bottle.

Five barrels were rolled out of the metropolis prison. With a huge hammer Chief Hitton became a knocker for a few minutes, while he cleared the tonnages of the oaken casks and turned the crimson liquor into the street. A crowd had gathered to witness this drastic application of a provision of the prohibition law.

Paul Denner wasn't there. He had been fined $25 and costs for having sold elaret from those barrels. All he asked was that the officials save him the casks. They will do for vinegar, hereafter. So he spared himself the grief of witnessing the confiscation and destruction of his property in liquid form.

The odor was rich, racy and rare. It soon suffused the atmosphere of bustling alley. Men bemoaned the pity of the waste. Others fervently thanked the officials who thus grimly enforced a righteous law. Flies and bees soon began to sip the wine from the gutter and to flutter about in their gleeful intoxication as if it were better than honey.

Slowly the crimson flood rippled away until only the odor was left to suggest the utter waste of myriad headaches and the commonest cause of nervous disorder.

THIRTY KILLED IN WRECK

There are no dead among the passengers on the Twentieth Century Limited, though a number of passengers were badly hurt on this train. Two coaches of the Twentieth Century were overturned. The low casualties on the Twentieth Century are attributed to the fact that the palace train was proceeding slowly because of the heavy fog.

The second section of the flier was going at a high rate of speed when it struck the first section.

Most of those killed were asleep in the rear coach of the first section of No. 86. The bodies of many of these scantly clad victims are so horribly mangled that identification, without the guidance of their clothing will be impossible.

Victims Decapitated

Some of the victims were decapitated. Arms, legs and portions of human bodies were scattered thickly through the wreckage.

Relief parties collected the remains of three bodies—those of a woman and two men—and piled them indiscriminately in one box.

D. C. Moon, general manager of the New York Central lines at Cleveland, gives this story of the wreck as it was given from his subordinates on the road at 9 o'clock: "The engineer of the first section of train No. 86 was stopped at Aspinwall by a signal—I don't know just how. The second section should have stopped because of the automatic signal or by the signal of a flagman on the first section."

"The second section ran into the end coach of the first section. The wreckage from both sections went over on the westbound high-speed track."

Tower Man Blamed

A slip on the part of a dozen tower man was to blame for the wreck, according to A. S. Valles, general superintendent of the New York Central railway.

The tower man's wife had been ill. It was learned, and he had been with her sick and on duty practically since Sunday night.

O'MALLY APPOINTED CHIEF OF DIVISION OF FISH CULTURE

Henry O'Malley, who, as superintendent of hatchery work in Oregon for the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries for the past nine years, has had general charge of hatchery operations in the Rogue River valley, has been appointed by Secretary Redfield to be chief of the division of fish culture at Washington, D. C.

Two years ago Mr. O'Malley was promoted to be field superintendent in charge of fish cultural work or the bureau of hatcheries for the Pacific coast, with headquarters at Seattle, and the second promotion follows the death of Robert S. Johnson, and is a tribute to his excellent record with the bureau. Mr. O'Malley will leave for Washington, accompanied by his wife, in about two weeks.

Mr. O'Malley started in fish culture work when a young man in his home state, Vermont. He has since been connected with fish hatcheries of the New England states and Colorado, and also in the Puget Sound country. Later he was in charge of the Oregon hatcheries.
