

ASSOCIATED PRESS
SUPPORTS PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, April 23. In a brief address to President Wilson at the annual meeting of the Associated Press here today, Frank H. Brown of Washington, D. C., president of the organization, declared "our office is in complete sympathy and our best support is to the man who by virtue of his great office is our champion in the struggle and who speaks for our rights and our future in that great arena of the world stage and our honor."

Mr. Brown's address was published in newspapers, magazines and editors from all parts of the country. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, made the principal address at the meeting. Mr. Brown in his address to President Wilson and other similar occasions in past years. I have dwelt on the heterogeneous character of the membership of the Associated Press worthy for the purpose of emphasizing the fact that we all agree that such and every one of a loyal American.

"The 100 who comprise our membership exercise their inalienable right of holding an opinion on every conceivable subject, including the relation of this government with foreign powers, and this right they hold and exercise in common with the rest of the hundred million Americans. So, in this hour of uncertainty as to what the immediate future may bring for us, we tender our affectionate sympathy and our loyal support

The Purity of "Bull" Durham Is Proven Absolutely by Government Statistics!

Herewith we print a facsimile of a letter from Hon. W. H. Osborn, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, written in the routine of his official duty in answer to a letter from the manufacturer.

The Government officials find in the "Bull" Durham factory nothing but the bright, golden leaves of Carolina and Virginia tobaccos—the tobaccos that have made American cigarettes the most popular smokes in the world.

In Durham—and indeed, throughout practically all of North Carolina and the adjoining counties of Virginia—nearly every man is interested in tobacco, the great staple crop of the community. In the towns where the tobacco warehouses are located; on the farms, in the banks, in the stores—everywhere—these men who grow the tobacco, who take it to market, who buy it and sell it, and are made prosperous by the business of handling the money received from the crop—everywhere, these men know that the sweetest, mellowest, choicest leaf is bought for
