

RAILROAD SOLVES MARKET PROBLEMS

Andy Willis, of the Pacific Idaho district, who has been making careful inquiry as to possible development of markets for the products of Rogue river valley, will leave for home today to await definite news concerning the Blue Lodge railroad project.

"The encouragement of transportation facilities in opening your large mineral districts in southern Oregon and northern California," said Mr. Willis, "is too frequently underestimated. With big camps in vigorous operation in the mountains about this valley, the problem of a market for the vast quantity of products of this rich valley will be practically solved. Where railroad rates absorb the profits of the farmer and stockman there is little inducement to add the labor and expense necessary in intensified cultivation; but, with a market, practically local, for all you can raise in fruits and vegetables and meats will come a measure of profitable development of your agricultural and horticultural resources here that will gladden the hearts of every family in the valley. Then the true value of your agricultural and grazing lands may be banked up.

"Your proposed railroad to the Blue Lodge territory is the first big gun in this battle for local prosperity. In addition to encouraging your farmers, gardeners and fruitists to produce all they can by systematic culture, it will bring you factories and canneries and their big payrolls. That is the only way to make communities prosperous."

A large crowd of people gathered at Moonville Thursday for the spelling contest. Two of the best spellers from eight schools contested, the two best spellers to go to the county fair this coming fall and spell there in a contest for a medal that will be given to the champion speller. Miss Myrtle Chapman of the Chaparral school won first place at Moonville, not missing a word; Chester Jones of the Antioch school second. The meeting was held in the grove back from the Gardner store. The spelling was followed by a picnic and speaking, and that dinner was a good one. The orator of the day was Mr. Rollins of Medford, ex school superintendent, Percy Wells, and his deputy, Mr. Peterson, were there and conducted the children's program. Everyone enjoyed themselves and the children's spelling was a credit to them and their teachers. A silver cup was presented to the Sams Valley school by the superintendent, Mr. Wells, as that school got the highest percentage in spelling in the county.

"That dance at the Cooper hall on Saturday night was a snacker," said every town in the valley sent some of its young people. The McKinns orchestra furnished the best of music, but we will have to quit boasting for this popular hall or Mr. Cooper will have to build a larger one to hold the young folks and give them room to dance.

Miss Simpson, the Chaparral school teacher, has come to San Diego to visit a sister for the summer months. The directors have offered the next term of school to Miss Simpson, provided the option leaves enough children in the district to teach.

Many sorrowing friends from distant parts of the valley were in attendance. Mrs. Isaacs was only 36 years of age, had grown to womanhood in Phoenix, was loved and respected by all who knew her.

There seems to be no doubt that the rising in Ireland had been carefully planned for Easter Sunday, when the plotters probably counted on many officials and members of the militia taking a holiday. The German naval sails against the English coast towns and the Zeppelin raid apparently were part of the general scheme.

IRISH REVOLT SPREADS

Ireland. This censorship, however, would be directed merely with regard to the essential military requirements of the situation. All possible latitude in the transmission of news would be allowed.

Sir Edward Carson and John Redmond, who were the leaders of the opposing factions in the Irish home rule controversy, expressed in the house of commons their abhorrence of the uprising and of their desire to support the government.

Replying to a question whether the government had been warned of a dangerous growth of sedition, Premier Asquith said:

Warned of sedition
"The first and paramount duty of the government is to restore order and to stamp out rebellion with all possible vigor. That we are doing."

"Behind that there is undoubtedly an obligation which rests upon the government of making a searching investigation into the causes of and the responsibility for these events. That obligation we fully recognize and intend to discharge."

The Queen in Ireland has been and are being strongly denigrated, Mr.

Asquith added, and the government was satisfied the force dispatched was adequate to deal with the situation.

Discussion Settled
The Irish authorities will place themselves at the disposal of Major General Maxwell to carry out his instructions.

Replying to a request of Sir Henry Dalziel that the house sit on Monday to discuss the Dublin outbreak, Premier Asquith said that debate on the question could only be mischievous.

"Our allies already have been made aware by Sir Edward Carson and Mr. Redmond," the premier added, "that the movement is sectional only and has no sympathy from the representative Irish leaders."

In his declaration concerning the situation in Ireland, Sir Edward Carson said:

Irish Leaders Talk
"I feel quite satisfied with the statement of the prime minister. I will gladly join with Mr. Redmond in everything that can be done to denounce and put down these rebels now and for ever more."

"I hope the newspapers will not try during a war of such a character as we are engaged in, to bring about discussion of a political character in relation to the Irish question."

Sir Edward's remarks were greeted with cheers. He was followed by Mr. Redmond, who said:

"May I say a word—although I really think it scarcely necessary. Perhaps I ought to give expression on behalf of my colleagues of the nationalist party here, and as I believe, of the overwhelming majority of the people of Ireland, to the feeling of detestation and horror with which we have regarded these proceedings."

There seems to be no doubt that the rising in Ireland had been carefully planned for Easter Sunday, when the plotters probably counted on many officials and members of the militia taking a holiday. The German naval sails against the English coast towns and the Zeppelin raid apparently were part of the general scheme.
