The shower that came last night and is being continued at intervals today will relieve the situation in many fields where cultivation has almost obliterated the dust mulch of moisture. Now that vegetable and tree growth has assumed vigor the element of precipitation will enter into the consideration of water as a limiting factor. Unless showers come at proper intervals throughout the season it will be not possible farmers will have ample need of irrigation. The case does not so fore in this valley because of the absence of water shortage in the deeper soils.

PRESS OPINIONS DIFFER

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin: In effect the note says to the government: "Quit that practice. Quit no more to confront with grave issues in the relations of governments."

Wells White (Wash.) Bulletin: The reply of Germany is quite satisfactory. The main issue and part go to the government's assertion of the existence of diplomatic relations.

Oakland Tribune: The response of the German foreign office is not in graceful form, but this may generously be discounted under the impression that the war cloud is dispelled. Germany has yielded, and diplomatic at least, which preserves the dangers of an immediate rupture of diplomatic relations.

Baltimore News: The United States demanded the establishment of status quo ante. Germany has established it. How long the one or will maintain it is another question, but for the time being we are left nothing to complain of.

Chattanooga News: The German note is about as satisfactory as could be expected. The immediate issue is whether or not the concessions made are sufficient. We believe they will cause a better feeling among the American people.

Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph: So far as words go, Germany has granted our main contention, but if her action is only temporary and dependent upon the future course of Great Britain, the situation is one fraught with grave peril to our friendly relations.

Louisville Times: The unofficial text of the German note serves notice that the United States must either force England to end her blockade or food-tuffs or acquiesce in a continuance of Germany's methods of submarine warfare along the lines already laid down.

Providence Bulletin: If the note is a brutal mockery of the wounds again and again inflicted upon us. It is a series of studied insults added to a long inventory of injuries. The president must prove that the lofty sentiment he has so often reiterated is not empty words.

Portland Telegram: In other words, Germany is all to remain side-poke back of the efforts of the government to stand for itself and the other nations, and in the event Germany's efforts are not satisfactory to us, it will be held free to reinforce words in such manner as the high officials of the nation may consider necessary.

El Paso Herald: Germany pleased us from one end her communication to our government are not wholly unexcepted, but in view of the attitude of President Wilson it is unlikely that Germany is going to embroil her own country upon our compelling England to observe the law, therefore a hope seems justifiable.

Public Star: [illegible] The note [illegible] in other than an acceptable [illegible] United States. A unanimous [illegible] approved.

Colorado Springs Telegraph: [illegible] concessions of the German note [illegible] to the taking [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
