

MAY ROBSON AT PAGE TONIGHT IN SPARKLING PLAY

May Robson scatters sunshine, radiates happiness, brings tears to the eyes of even the most sombre critics and just naturally makes the world seem brighter all during the two hours she is seen in "The Making Over of Miss May." It was presented at the Page for the first time Friday night, says the Sacramento Star.

The play is of a rather familiar theme. A western financier becomes a power in Wall street and is smitten with the society bug. He wants his wife—plain, everyday, commonplace woman whose palace is her kitchen—made over into a reigning queen of society and he has a frivolous "doll" of Gotham's select all picked out for his son to wed. Son, however, comes to his senses and finds would wed his father's steppmother. Claude, mother of the horizon and family ties are threatened. Mother comes to the rescue and the day is saved.

But it isn't the play—it's May Robson. The way she struggles to get her delicate figure into latest style gowns to be "made over" as her husband wishes is the ultimate in comedy. There are moments of deep pathos as well, but scintillating wit disappears glittering tears on each occasion, the transition coming quick as a flash.

Toward the end of the play comes the climax of both pathos and humor. The son persists in his love for the steppmother and is ordered to leave home, cut off without a cent. The mother has to decide whether to remain with her husband or go with the son. Mother loves triumph and she decides to leave. Here the father comes to his senses and cuts the son back. With the family united the husband says, "Emily, did you really mean that you would go away with junior and leave me?"

"Of course, not," replies Mrs. Matt, brushing aside a tear; and just as happy as if she were baking biscuits in her kitchen back in Omaha.

The supporting cast is excellent, Jack Story playing the part of the son in a manner particularly noteworthy because of its entire lack of staginess. Smith Davies as the father, is just the type of man one expects to see in Wall street.

The audience Friday night was rather slim—but perhaps to compensate for the lack of way chapter attractions. The play is to be presented Saturday matinee and night and is deserving of crowded houses.

FOUR JURORS FOR ORPET ACCEPTED

WAUKESHA, WI., May 18.—Four men lawfully accepted by both the prosecution and defense, the examination of prospective jurors in the trial of Will Orpet, former University of Wisconsin student, charged with the murder of Martin Luehrs, in high school classmate, continued today. One hundred and thirty men were examined yesterday, but only one was passed by the attorney principally every juror called before the stand said he had "heard an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused and said that he would be unable to render an impartial verdict."

A short time earlier, it was known that four men lawfully accepted by the defense stood before the barbershop as prospective jurors. One of these men, Mr. H. C. Wilson, returned Saturday evening from an extended trip to Cuba, Rock and Medina.

ASK PRESIDENT TO START MOVE TO BRING PEACE

WASHINGTON, May 18.—President Wilson today accepted an invitation to speak either Friday or Saturday of next week at a meeting here of the League to Entreat Peace, of which former President Taft is president. The president is speaking to an anti-preparedness committee recently suggested that after the war all nations might combine in a league to prevent peace with a common policy force.

In celebration of the anniversary of the first Hague conference representatives of the women's peace party today urged President Wilson to take immediate steps to call a conference of neutral nations to make efforts to end the war in Europe. He was told meetings celebrating the first Hague conference, which was held in 1899, are being held today in many neutral countries.

Mr. W. Thompson Burch, chairman of the local branch of the women's peace party, and Mrs. Charles Edward Russell and Mrs. John J. White, vice-chairman, informed the president they believed the only thing delaying peace in Europe was the beginning of the movement by neutral nations.

As Burch had appeared in support of Gertrude Farrar, the celebrated operatic prima donna, both in "Carmen" and "Marta Rosa," and also had appeared in "The Unknown" in support of Len Tellerow, formerly leading man for Sarah Bernhardt, she decided that drama was her forte. While Burch had no objection to appearing with Victor Moore, she got the impression first that the play was to be of the standard brand of comedy, and with this she refused to be identified. However, when informed that it was to be comedy of a high order, she consented to appear but announced that in the future, she would not agree in anything but Shakespearean revivals or blank dramas. To show her utter contempt for the whole affair, she promptly ate all the tea off Mr. Moore's tea-kettle chair.

SAMS VALLEY

Mrs. M. E. Gardner was suddenly stricken with paralysis Tuesday and though improved, is still in a bad condition.

Mrs. Mitchell of Asbestos is helping in the postoffice during the illness of Mrs. Gardner.

The Page & Dressler company have been rebounding much of the land in this precinct.

The picnic at the closing of the Pankey school Friday proved a success and all enjoyed a good program.

Mrs. Everhart returned to her home in Medford.

F. K. Denel motored out from Medford in the interest of his ranch here.

The severe frost of last week did little damage to orchards and gardens. Notwithstanding the severity of the weather, J. A. Morrell reports he saved 50 per cent of his apple crop. The thermometer dropped as low during the cold spell as can be recorded by many of the old-timers for the time of year.

Mr. H. C. Wilson is visiting relatives at Tolo.

Miss Hazel Lowe arrived home from Asbestos Saturday and Sunday.

J. E. Neudor was doing business through our prison last week.

Clinton Gruet and Gladys are visiting relatives at the Clappay ranch.

Ross Glaz was looking over our orchards this week.

Many visits are received daily from our hopeful candidates. All seem too confident unless, as we know, some shall meet us.

Mrs. O. F. Wilson and children returned Sunday from an extended trip to Tulsa, Rock and Medina.

ELECTION SUPPLIES FOUND SCATTERED BY GRAND JURY

Following is the report of the grand jury which finished its labors Wednesday:

"We, the grand jury respectfully report that we have examined all masters of a criminal character brought to our notice and as a result of said examination have returned into court seven true bills and one not true bill.

An examination of the county farm shows it to be well kept and the inci-tents properly cared for and well treated.

"The other offices of the county are all orderly and well kept so far as we are able to observe from the limited examination that we have been able to make.

"S. S. SMITH, Foreman."

Hisses for Roosevelt at Iowa Meeting

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., May 18.—A near riot occurred at the republican state convention here today when Robert Healy of Webster county presented the name of Theodore Roosevelt as "the greatest man in the world" and as the logical choice for the Iowa candidate for president. During the day the delegates unanimously endorsed Cummins' candidacy by resolution.

Healy was booted from the stage.

Another sensational episode occurred when Attorney General George Conlan, candidate for governor, addressed the convention and was forced to give way before his time limit of ten minutes had expired by a clamorous call for Lieutenant Governor William L. Harding which drowned the speaker out. Harding is the convention's choice for governor.

Mr. Harding in his speech eulogized Senator Albert B. Cummins and added fuel to the already white hot flame of approval that swept the convention for the Iowa candidate for president. During the day the delegates unanimously endorsed Cummins' candidacy by resolution.
