SIX AUTO SMASHES PACIFIC HIGHWAY

Sunday was a wild day on the Pacific highway. Reports filed with the police Monday morning tell of six auto accidents, none serious. Most of the cars belonged in Ashland, and sustained minor damages. All day Sunday there was a steady stream of autos pouring into Hornbrook and Hill, coming from Grants Pass, and practically all points in the Rogue river valley.

The most serious accident of the day occurred when a Dodge car driven by a Southern Pacific employe of Ashland, collided head on on the Pacific highway with Elmer Oatman's Ford of this city. The Dodge car was racing with another car. Oatman retired to the side of the road and was "side swiped." The Dodge retired the worst damaged, the front axle and wheels broken.

It is probable that the county authorities in view of Sunday's list of accidents will take action towards the regulation of traffic on the Pacific highway.

BRITISH CLAIM VICTORY

made possible, it is argued, by the fact that the British losses occurred in daylight and are known to the Germans, while the German losses took place in twilight or after dark.

Should the British estimate of the German losses prove correct, naval writers say it will be many a long day before the German fleet shows itself again in the North sea and even should the estimate prove excessive, the damage done to the German battle cruisers will put an end to raids on English coasts. After the Dogger bank battle the Derflinger and Moltke were five months in dock and it is believed that the German ships of this class engaged in last week's battle were even more severely damaged.

Ambition Blocked

The Derflinger and her sister ship, the Lutzow, are believed to be the battle cruisers which the British have included in the list of supposed German losses while another battle cruiser, the Seydlitz, is reported from a neutral source to have been seen on Thursday morning badly damaged and pursued by British warships.

The battle, it is also suggested, puts an end to the German ambition of forcing a way through the British blockade to raid allied shipping in the Atlantic. Germany, it is argued, now has not the ships suitable for this undertaking.

Another advantage claimed from the outcome of the battle is that it relieves the pressure on the Russian army wing in Courland to which the German fleet was giving valuable support.

Strength

—both of body and mind—is wonderfully promoted by including in the diet a daily ration of

Grape-Nuts

This delicious food contains all the nutriment and energizing properties of whole wheat and barley from which it is made, and is especially rich in the mineral phosphates furnished by these grains. These mineral elements are lacking in many foods, but absolutely necessary for proper growth and maintenance of body, brain and nerves.

Grape-Nuts food has delightful flavor & is easily digested and comes ready to eat—crisp, sweet and wonderfully nourishing.

From childhood to old age—Grape Nuts.
