CHEERS LAST TWO HOURS

Washington delegates, wrapped a huge American flag around one of their women delegates and paraded her through the aisles amid wild cheering.

"Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," they shouted at her, while she smiled her appreciation.

Oregon Women Lead Oregon women, headed by Miss Mary Hill, who bore an American flag on a staff, rushed to the center of the stage, creating great enthusiasm among the far north-western delegation.

The move of the Oregon women quickly was followed by other western delegations and soon flags flew from many stalls on the stage.

"Uncle Sara" Mosker, the pioneer Oregon trail blazer pushed his way to the platform and told Mr. Robbins it would be impossible to check the demonstration.

"Don't think you can silence this crowd with a gavel," he said. "I have seen a lot of demonstrations in my 52 years, but I never saw one that compared with this one."

At the end of an hour Mr. Perkins left the hall and went to his hotel.

Let Them Yell Prior to his departure the question of recessing the convention was discussed, but it found much opposition.

"Let them yell," one leader said. "Now that they have had a chance to shout they will be more easily induced to delay action on a nomination."

Every two or three minutes Mr. Robbins made futile attempts to rap the convention to order.

At 2:30 p. m., when the tumult had dimmed for nearly an hour and a half the presiding officers considered trying the influence of uniformed police to restore order, but cautious ones thought the experiment might prove dangerous.

cheer for Teddy?" some of the delegates asked when urged to aid in suppressing the rascals.

It was evident the purpose of the delegates was to break the record for sustained cheering. This was variously estimated from 87 minutes to more than two hours. No one seemed to know just what it was.

Convention Called to Order At 12:27 the convention was called to order by Victor Murdock, chairman of the national committee.

Bishop William Franier McDowell, offered the invocation.

The prayer expressed hopes that the efforts of the convention would redound in the belief of the republic; that the nation "may serve humanity to lead the world to liberty, truth and righteousness."

The bishop asked for help for the "war stricken world" and for divine help to "bind up the nations that are broken and wounded."

Following the prayer "America" was sung, the entire convention standing, all joining in the national anthem. "I know that the members of this convention will be on their good behavior but as a precaution I request the police and sergeant at arms to step forward and stand at attention," Chairman Murdock announced.

After conclusion of Mr. Robbins' speech committees on temporary organization were announced and on motion of Harold Ickes of Illinois, they were approved. The convention adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow.

The concert given by the Medford band at the city park bandstand on Tuesday evening attracted the largest crowd of the season. The entertainment was the sixth of the season, who with a beautiful evening and the splendidly arranged program offered by Bandmaster Rowland and his musicians, the many concert-goers were well rewarded for their attendance.

It seems hardly possible that a band of the caliber and short training as is our band should be able to offer week after week a completely changed program of wholesome music. It reflects much credit on the enthusiastic members of the band and its energetic conductor.

In last night's program the band was heard to best advantage in Mendelssohn's "War March of the Priests," from "Athalia" and the valse, "Druid's Prayer." As an extra number and undoubtedly the most popular of the evening, "When Irish Eyes Were Smiling," was given as a concert solo by the bandmaster. Mr. Rowland instantly won favor with his audience as a soloist and was the recipient of a prolonged ovation. It is evident that Medford now has the nucleus of a band that it is possible in the near future to turn out to be an asset that Medford may be proud of, and the general encouragement and support must not be relinquished. As each concert is given a steady improvement is noticeable, and although the instrumentation is not what it might be, we are confident that, given the time, Mr. Rowland will have a well-balanced organization.

HUGHES WITHIN 58 VOTES OF ENOUGH ON SECOND BALLOT

CHICAGO, June 7.—The New York republicans who are supporting Justice Hughes said today that they were informed from reliable sources two days ago that under no circumstances would Colonel Roosevelt support Justice Hughes if he were nominated by the republican convention.

A report that Colonel Roosevelt had said in Oyster Bay that he would favor a third party ticket if Hughes were the republican nominee brought forth the statement from Hughes men.

Governor Whitman, leader of the Hughes faction of the New York delegates, smiled when he was told of the reported Roosevelt statement.

"I don't consider that had news, do you?" he said. "I have thought all along that Justice Hughes would be nominated and elected, and I still think so. We have, I understand, within 58 votes of a majority guaranteed on the second ballot."

The governor said he knew nothing of reports that the Justice would decline to run if a third ticket was put into the field.

WEDDING BELLS

Miss Viola Effie Myers of Rogue River and Charles J. Riedel of Roseburg were married Monday, June 6, by Rev. Mr. Gammans at the home of the bride, Rogue River. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Myers of Rogue River and is a graduate of the Gold Hill high school. Mr. Riedel is a business man of Roseburg, formerly of Gold Hill. The young couple left for Roseburg by auto, where they will make their home.

Doughnuts That will remain moist.

Every housewife who bakes her own bread knows that if a little potato is added to the sponge, the bread will not dry out so quickly. In this recipe potato is utilized to make doughnuts that will remain moist and fresh for several days.

K C will be found to have distinct advantages over any other Baking Powder for doughnuts. K C is a double acting baking powder with which a large batch of doughnuts may be mixed and fried a few at a time. The fat will be as light and nice as the first.

K C Potato Doughnuts

By Mrs. Nevada Biggs, of Baking School fame.

3/4 cups flour; 2 eggs; 1 cup sugar; 1 level teaspoonful K C Baking Powder; 1/2 teaspoonful salt; 1/2 teaspoonful mace; 1 cup cold, washed potato; 1 cup milk, or more if needed.

Sift three times, the flour, salt, spice and baking powder. Beat eggs with rotary beater, then stir using rotary beater, gradually add sugar, then work in the crushed potato with a spoon and alternately add milk and flour mixture. Make a soft dough, roll into a sheet, cut into rounds, pinch a hole in the center with the finger and fry in deep fat.

Fat for frying should not be hot enough to brown the doughnut until it has risen. When the doughnut is dropped into the fat it sinks to the bottom. As soon as it comes up it should be turned and turned a number of times while cooking. This recipe is excellent as they do not take the fat in frying and will stay moist for days.
