2 DAYS-STARTS TOMORROW

The picture play you have been waiting for

BILLIE BURKE

her screen debut in the greatest—the most lavish of all Ince Triangle plays—the $250,000 production

PEGGY

8 reels vibrating with action
8 reels filled with pure joy

the winsome, will-o'-the-wisp creature with the wonderful smile—who will make you feel better—brighter—happier

"In the not so particularly humble opinion of the writer, Billie Burke, if she were Billie anybody else, would still be one of the most satisfying screen actresses the films have thus far produced. Being Billie Burke, in addition to being an accomplished player before the camera, the conclusion follows that she stands almost preeminent in the motion picture field. In the art injected by Mr. Ince 'Peggy' is exquisite. It represents the highest form of motion picture production. 'Peggy,' with Ince and Miss Burke working together, is a genuine triumph. Miss Burke in a single picture has justified her staggering salary."—Reynold Walt in the New York Telegram

From the Critics

"The Titan-haired actress romped through an unusually entertaining picture with all the camera knowledge and assurance of a screen veteran. The interpolated fairy story is really one of the most delightful parts of the picture. It abounds in beautiful photography, with Miss Burke in her most beguiling aspect, tripping lightly through bisex scenes, her famous hair radiant even in its screen reflection, the incarnating of girlish grace and beauty."—New York Times

"Billie Burke is a born screen actress—she was probably a tomboy earlier in life. Back of her fascinating vivacity are the high spirits of sound health—she is a fountain of natural energy and seemingly exhaustless vigor. Every movement, however slowly balanced by training, springs from the natural impulse of a woman to whom mere existence is a pleasure. Given a clever and attractive artist, Billie Burke's fine comedy opportunities, such as Gardner Sullivan can provide, and the capable directing of Thomas H. Ince, what else than delight could be expected at this stage when good scientific work is taken for granted."—Louis Reeves Harrison in Moving Picture World
