U. S. OWNS WATER POWER FOR HUGE MUNITIONS WORKS AND FERTILIZER PLANTS

MINDOKA DAM AND SPILLWAY IN IDAHO, OWNED BY UACLE SAM

(By Frederick M. Kerby)

Will the United States reclamation service go into the business of supplying the farmers of the nation with fertilizer, and the army and navy with explosives?

Shall the surplus water power now developed at government irrigation plants be utilized for these purposes?

Conferees between Arthur P. Davis, director and chief engineer of this service, and Dr. Milton Whitney, soil physicist and chief of the bureau of soils of the department of agriculture, are under way looking to the possible utilization of the government's water power developments to these ends.

The principal element needed to develop a supply of nitrates for the manufacture of explosives and for use as fertilizer is a large amount of cheap electric power.

By various processes it is possible to use electrical energy to "fix" the free nitrogen of which the air is largely composed.

How many men, think you, have any idea of the pain and misery endured by women of their own households, who suffer from the peculiar to their sex? They often see them smiling and trying to be cheerful, even while racked with pain. If every such woman would only be guided by the experience of thousands of others who have been restored to health by that grand old remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, much suffering might be avoided.—Adv.
