The letter stated that all passengers on the boat were required to sleep with their clothes on. Life saving drills were practiced every day so that in event of meeting a hostile craft, the passengers would be prepared to take care of themselves. In Italy, the letter continued, the people are in a pitiable state, their cattle and stock having been confiscated by the government. There is a great scarcity of meat and they are not allowed to turn on lights at night. Mr. Copin thinks that for the present, the majority of the people are ruined financially.

WEED IS STRONG FOR COMING BALL GAMES

There will be ball games at Ashland each morning immediately after the parade, July 4th, 5th and 6th, between Weed and Medford.

From Weed comes the report that they have recruited several first class players from various parts of California for these important games, which are for the championship of southern Oregon and northern California.

Four years ago Weed was victorious over Medford in a series of three games in which the championship was involved. The interest manifested in these games at the time was so great that the capacity of the local ball park was overtaxed, many being turned away.

The local ball club has been strengthened by the addition of Seibert, the speedy pitcher from O. A. C. It is also rumored that other strange faces will be seen in the Medford team when they take the field against Weed.

The Medford boys will go to Ashland this evening and tomorrow evening for practice on the high school diamond which has been placed in excellent condition for these games.

It must be remembered that these games take place in the morning, starting right after the parade.

YREKA RAISES $1000 FOR PROPOSED RAILROAD

Medford Commercial Club, Medford Oregon, Gentlemen:

We have just read the proceedings of your Common Council in the Medford Sun of June 21, and we desire at this time to congratulate the commercial club of Medford upon the public-spirited way they are solving the problem of rail communication with the coast. A beginning must be made at some point and your people are certainly good "beginners."

It has not been to the credit of the citizens of either Jackson county or Siskiyou county that they have permitted these immense copper properties of the Blue Ledge and Klamath River districts to remain unproductive for the lack of transportation facilities.

The committee from Siskiyou county are enthusiastic over the possibilities of the Klamath river road to the ocean, and our board of supervisors have placed at the disposal of that committee $1,500 for preliminary work, such as gathering data, publicity, etc.

We trust that at the proposed meeting in Eureka definite steps will be taken to formulate plans which will get results in the near future.

Very Truly Yours, YREKA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, Solon H. Williams Secretary.

MINE DREDGE FACTORY MAY BE CONSTRUCTED

Captain Ennis Dobbins, of Seattle, is engaged in installing a dredge for S. S. Bullis at the mouth of Sterling creek, on the Little Applegate. It has a capacity of 1600 cubic yards a day and will "clean up" about 60 acres of placer ground in that location.

Captain Dobbins came down from Seattle some days ago to superintend its operation. It is a new invention operation. In the dredge line and has been passed upon by those familiar with dredge work as not only something new in placer mining equipment, but as practically the last word in machinery of that type. Its work has been fully demonstrated in successful operation and it is believed that it will enable owners of placer ground to obtain the gold from hundreds of acres in Southern Oregon that could not be profitably handled with the old-style dredges.

Machine Shops for Medford. It is reported that there are several localities in surrounding districts in which this new dredge process may be applied successfully and with large profit. Should those who own these properties, find the operation of this new dredge a success on the Bullis properties, there will be an immediate demand for more dredges of its type. In that event, the company, in which Captain Dobbins is a prominent factor, will at once establish machine shops in Medford and build the required dredges here.

The principal offices of this dredge company are in Seattle. It is estimated that it will be cheaper to build the dredges here, near the field of operation, than to construct them in Seattle and ship them to this point. Captain Dobbins will soon be able to announce definitely as to whether or not the local demands will justify the installation of shops in Medford.
