

ARTILLERY WON GORIZIA FROM AUSTRIA'S GRASP

Story of Capture of Teuton Stronghold Given Out by Italians—Attack Begun August 4—Enemy Positions Marked Off by Aviators and Demolished by Concentration of Guns

ROME, Aug. 10.—The operations which led up to the capture of Gorizia by the Italians are described in the following official narrative, given out here today:

The attack began on August 4 in the Montefalco section against Hill 85 and 121 east of Rocca. We stormed a very powerful enemy works there, taking 141 prisoners, but the adversary had placed in abandoned trenches quantities of bombs, which exploded giving off clouds of poisonous gases just as our troops entered the captured lines. Heavy masses of the enemy then made counter attacks and our troops, stupefied by the gas, were forced to fall back to their own trenches.

Artillery Begun Fight. "On August 5 the artillery sounded the enemy's whole front with the object of distracting attention and fixing the ranges accurately. On the morning of August 6 our batteries opened fire simultaneously on the rocky barrier, which from Sabotino to Cavarlo, defends the Isonzo and Gorizia to the west and against Monte San Michele, which forms the northern edge of the Gorizian Carso. The artillery action of the day, long and carefully worked out, represented a perfect example of concentrated fire against fortified lines.

Thanks to our aviators and to the observations of battery officers, the positions of the enemy had all been marked off clearly on target maps, and ranges for the extension and lengthening of fire had been calculated with the greatest nicety. Thus, at the proper time, a veritable tempest of shells fell in a wholly unexpected manner on the positions of the enemy, demolishing everything systematically.

Infantry Advanced. "Infantry columns then advanced with customary dash, well supported by a curtain fire of our artillery and carried the entire formidable Sabotino rampart, which forms the base of the Gorizia bridge head. On the heights which cover the city to the west they stormed the defense of Oslavia and of the summit of Hill 206, which commands Grafenburg. On the plain they drove in a defensive line between the southern border of Podgera and Isonzo. They also attacked on the right bank of the river as far as Saint Andrea. On the southern border of the Carso, Italian troops captured very strong lines on the summit of San Michele and the entrenchments running into the San Martino zone. Finally, in the Montefalco section, a battalion of Bersaglieri cyclists from the Third, Fourth and Eleventh regiments, after a desperate struggle, captured all the defenses of Hill 85 and held out there against violent concentrated artillery, repulsing furious counter-attacks by the Austrian infantry.

Capture of Heights. "Possession of the lateral pivots of the Gorizia bridge head being assured by the conquest of Monte Sabotino and Monte San Michele, it remained to take the imposing barrier, formed by the heights immediately west of the city. The battle ebbed and flowed incessantly for three days. The ground was fortified strongly and supported by a great number of lines of defense, thrown up by the adversary close to Gorizia, an important advantage which rendered it easy to offer stubborn resistance and enabled the Austrians to make violent counter attacks. Inch by inch and that of generous sacrifices, our infantry, with the admirable co-operation of our artillery, conquered first the crest and then the southeastern slopes of the heights and stormed innumerable trenches, gradually driving the defenders before them, notwithstanding repeated counter attacks.

As a result of all of these continuous efforts, all the heights on the right bank of the Isonzo, forming the bridgehead of the Gorizia, and Monte San Michele, on the left bank, were captured and securely held by the Italians. The lines of the Isonzo, below Tolmino is assured to them, and their guns, dominating Gorizia, drove out the enemy lurking among the ruins. This uninterrupted three-day fight, covers with glory the troops of the third army, commanded by the Duke of Aosta."

Jack Morrill of Gold Hill is in Medford today.

SHIPPERS WARNED OF CAR SHORTAGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Carriers, shippers and consigners were warned today by the Interstate Commerce Commission of a threatened car shortage and their attention called to the need for close supervision of loading and unloading. The commission urged that cars be not used for storage purposes, and suggested that the carriers return cars to their home lines as quickly as possible. Heavy movements of grain are said to be partly responsible for the threatened shortage.

PREMIUM LIST FOR COUNTY FAIR ISSUED

The premium list of the Jackson County Industrial fair, at Medford, September 13 to 16, has been issued and if you have not received a copy you can get one by addressing Secretary S. I. Brown, or at any business house in Medford. Copies can also be received at the banks in the different towns in the valley. The premiums offered are very liberal along all lines and everyone interested in the fair should secure a premium list at once, look it over and prepare to make an exhibit and help to make this year's fair second to none in the state excepting the state fair.

CENTRAL POINT
