"SUDDEN RICHES" WITH FAIRBANKS AT PAGE WARWICK AT STAR IN "PASSING THROUGH"

"Sudden Riches," the World film production featuring Robert Warwick, with Grace George, Clara Whipple and Gerda Holmes, forming a three-star picture of unusual merit. It deals with the efforts of a young man and his wife to wade through a large inheritance left them by their uncle, out of spite because the young man's father had outwitted him when the two were courting the same girl, and a double spite against his nephew because his mother died in giving him birth. His plan was to ruin the little family by giving them so much money, which they very nearly succeeded in doing. How the father and mother, drifting away after two years of recklessness and fickleness, are brought face to face with themselves in their true light of dissipation through the illness of their little daughter, forms an ideal vehicle in which to exploit the wonderful dramatic abilities of Mr. Warwick and the Misses Whipple and Holmes. "Sudden Riches" will be the feature shown on the screen at the Star theater today only.

There have been many varieties of western bad men in pictures, but none quite like Douglas Fairbanks. In his first "western," in which he appears at the Page tonight, Mr. Fairbanks is seen in the role of "Passin Through," a tender-hearted young Robin Hood of the desert, who, believing he has a stain on his own name, gives his loot to the mothers of fatherless children. In the course of the exciting events of the picture it is proved that "Passin' Through's" bar sinister was entirely imaginary and so the bandit renounces his life of crime and takes his place as a law-abiding member of society.

Needless to say that he makes the most of his role of the kind outlaw whom naive fancy for trinkets leads him to hold up the Pacific express in order to steal the conductor's ticket punch.

"The Good Bad Man" has the strong entertainment value that has characterized all the Douglas Fairbanks pictures. Comedy, sentiment, melodramatic action and romance have been adroitly mixed so that the film proceeds from daring adventures to typical Fairbanks comedy, from comedy to very good light romance, and from romance to touches of sentiment. It is a pleasing combination. And then we have the usual Keystone, "Her Marble Heart," starring Charles Murray and Louise Fazenda, nothing but foolishness, but remarkably funny, and rounds out a very pleasing program.

CROCKERLAND WILL BE FOUND SAYS PEARY

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, reiterates his confidence in the existence of Crockerland and the belief that he saw it in July, 1906. The admiral's statement, telegraphed to the Tribune from his summer place in Maine, was called forth by the fact that Ensign Fitzhugh Green, the naval officer assigned to the McMillan Crockerland Arctic expedition, in announcing to the navy department his safe arrival at Copenhagen on August 19, made no report of whether the expedition found Crockerland. Admiral Peary said: "It may be that McMillan and I were both misled by the merely prominent clouds hanging over lanes of water, or unusual refraction, which occurs in the Arctic region, may have lifted into view land that was in reality below the horizon, and my estimate of the distance of Crockerland may have been too moderate. It will be well to await the completion of Stefansson's discoveries before dismissing Crockerland."

WOMAN GERMAN SPY EXECUTED BY FRENCH

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—(By Wireless to Sayville)—In Marseilles on August 22 a woman named Pfalt, 28 years old, was shot as a spy, says the Overseas News Agency. She had appealed against the death sentence of the court martial at Marseilles, but the Paris court of appeals rejected her appeal.

The Cologne Gazette states that this is not the first case in which the French have put a woman to death during the war. It recalls the agitation of the English and French press in regard to the case of Miss Edith Cavell, whose execution for high treason and continued spying, caused these newspapers to express indignation. The Cologne Gazette asks whether the same ideas will hold good now that a German woman has been put to death by the French.
