

SPEECH NOTIFYING FAIRBANKS FLAYS DEMOCRATIC ACTS

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—Chas. Warren Fairbanks was notified formally this afternoon that he had been nominated for the vice-presidency by the republican party. United States Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois delivered the address and Mr. Fairbanks made reply, accepting the nomination and discussing the issues of the campaign.

Republican leaders from different parts of the country attended the ceremonies, which were held on the lawn at Mr. Fairbanks' home.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—Formally notifying Charles W. Fairbanks here today of his nomination by the republican party for vice-president, Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois attacked the record of President Wilson and his democratic party and declared that whatever the result of the election Indiana would give the government, its vice-president would be an eminent and capable man and a gentleman.

Senator Sherman after formally notifying Mr. Fairbanks of his nomination, said:

"Both candidates on our national ticket enlisted on the call of the republican convention. Neither hesitated in volunteering his services. Both are now rendering that service in the common cause of redeeming the country from the misrule and habitual incapacity of the democratic party now nearing the end of its third failure in half a century."

President Wilson, Senator Sherman said, relied upon a one-term pledge in the democratic platform in 1912 when a candidate, "but not only failed to keep it when in office, but repudiated it in his Palmer letter a month before he was inaugurated."

"The American people will enforce obedience to his broken promise," the senator added.

Brands Democrats Incompetent.

"The republican party does not rely merely upon the broken faith of its political adversary. The performances of the democratic party are worse than its broken promises. It is a helpless aggregation drifting

LAST OF SEATTLE PIONEERS IS DEAD

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Louisa Boren Denny, the last of the adult survivors of the expedition which landed on the site of Seattle in 1851 and founded the city, died today, aged 88 years. Her brother, Carson D. Boren, built the first house in Seattle. She was the widow of David T. Denny, whose brother, Arthur A. Denny, led the expedition of 1851. The six members of the party still alive were small children at the time of the landing. Mrs. Denny was the bride of the first wedding in Seattle.

FLIGHT OF GREEK KING UNCONFIRMED

LONDON, Aug. 31.—No confirmation of the reported flight of King Constantine from Athens to Larissa has been received in official circles here, which considers it highly improbable.

The report that the king of Greece had fled from the capital and had taken refuge with a German escort of 200 Uhlans at Larissa was forwarded from Saloniki by Ward Price, the official British press representative in Greece, under date of Tuesday evening. King Constantine, according to dispatches from Athens, underwent a surgical operation a few days ago, and has since been suffering from the effects of it.

The foregoing dispatch was filed in Athens at noon yesterday and indicates that up to that time nothing had been heard there of the report sent to London by the official British press representative in Greece, that the king had fled from Athens. This report was contained in a dispatch sent from Saloniki on Tuesday evening.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—"Except for artillery activity, there were no developments on our Struma or Doiran fronts," says an official announcement issued here today in regard to the Macedonian frontier.

MUST CARRY MAIL STATES BURLESON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Postmaster General Burleson conferred today with both President Wilson and Chairman Adamson and said afterward that he will insist that mails be carried on every train moved in the event a strike comes.

Should the president's appeal to the brotherhood heads to rescind the strike order fail, he is prepared to issue a public statement calling upon all members of the brotherhoods to join in ordering its recall.

NOTED JOCKEY JUMPS FROM EIGHTH STORY

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Andrew Hoekins, who was killed when he fell or jumped from a ninth story window of a hotel here last Monday, was identified today as Matty McIntyre, under which name he was a noted jockey. Not long ago he was ruled from the track at Hot Springs, Ark., and since has been living in Chicago.

Chicago Wheat

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Renewal of efforts to bring about a postponement of the railway strike had only a transient bullish effect today on wheat. The opening, which ranged from 1/2 decline to 1/2 advance, with September at $1.58 3/4 to $1.39 1/4, and December at $1.42 to $1.43, was followed by a material general upturn and then a sharp decline.

EIGHT-HOUR STRIKE BILL BALM

then under special rule, making it effective November 1.

The measure contemplated would establish eight hours as the standard work day for railroad employees engaged in inter-state commerce; it would authorize appointment by the president of a commission to study general conditions under the eight-hour day and report its recommendations to congress, the president and through the president to the inter-state commerce commission pending the report daily wages should not be reduced below the present pay for longer hours.

Other measures were under contemplation, but the eight hour day and investigation proposals were regarded as the most effective pieces of emergency legislation.

The attitude of congress today, that of determination to prevent the strike, was exemplified by the resolution, pending in the senate calling on brotherhood officials to suspend the strike order for one week; and the statement of Senator Thomas, that if the government failed to protect the public in such a crisis, it had no right to call itself a government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Congress put all other affairs aside today and devoted itself to enacting President Wilson's legislative program to avert the railroad strike.

Wilson Continues Efforts.

But the president, overlooking no possible means to prevent the threatening public calamity, did not depend on congress alone and continued unceasingly his efforts to get the brotherhood heads to postpone their strike order.

Just before noon the president went to the capitol, and conferring with the leaders, urged on them the need of speed to get the bills through the legislative machinery of house and senate before Saturday night. Then, returning to the white house, he called the four brotherhood heads before him for another appeal to delay their strike while congress, by law, provides what the railroads have refused.

Although the brotherhood leaders reiterated that only a "favorable settlement" could delay the strike and that they were powerless to postpone it, one of them admitted he believed the rank and file of the men, in view of the efforts being made in congress, would vote to delay it if there was time for them to express their wishes.

May Appeal to Workers.

Back of it all, President Wilson was holding another card—a direct appeal to the rank and file of the railroad men to realize that congress is about to give them what they ask and to stay to their posts.

The president was still determined today to do this if necessary, but was hopeful it would not be.

After the conference between the president and the brotherhood leaders it was said at the white house that the employees "had given no assurances of any kind."

While the senate inter-state commerce committee was hearing the railroad heads and the brotherhood leaders, the house managers got into action and agreed on a bill, introduced by Representative Adamson and approved by President Wilson, providing the eight hour day, pro rata pay for overtime and a commission to investigate the new conditions. They planned to rush it through while the senate was working. It did not include the compulsory investigation features of the president's program, but there were indications that he would be satisfied with enough to prevent the men from striking and take up the remainder later.

Meanwhile, employers and men had a public hearing on the president's legislative program before the senate inter-state commerce commission. The men opposed the compulsory investigation feature and the employers opposed the eight-hour day.
