RED LETTER DAY COMES NEXT MONDAY

Z. P. C. Stuten, a publicity man for Barnum & Bailey's circus, was in Medford Monday and says there will probably be no parade, owing to the early hour of the circus next Monday at 10 a. m. Only one performance will be given here, because the circus makes a big jump to Chico, Cal. The Peeping at a Circus Mystery.

Circus only shows three places in Oregon; at Portland, Salem and Medford.

Monday, September 11, will be the red letter day on the calendar for the little boy and his big brother. It is a circus day and that means the grand climax to the plans and meditations of the past several weeks.

The Barnum & Bailey show is, from the standpoint of magnitude, one of the two great circuses now on the American continent and that means that it must be a veritable moving metropolis in the amusement line.

From the past reputation of the circus, it is only reasonable to expect that it still carries with it, some of the finest horses to be seen in the country and these will all be seen to advantage while the train is being unloaded. And the manner in which the work of unloading and setting up camp is said to be with clock-like precision.

All of the above attractions and many more, will be closely watched by the little boy and his big brother, and it is safe to conjecture that many of "paternalism" will also be found taking advantage of the opportunity "just to show the children the circus."

One performance only is announced for Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The doors will be opened one hour earlier, allowing a full hour for visiting the zoological collection in the menagerie.

With Medford trade is Medford made.

Star Theatre LAST TIME

Daniel Frohman Presents

The Innocent Lie

By Lois Zellner A Stirring Drama of Adventure, with

VALENTINE GRANT

A Paramount Picture. Also L. K. O. COMEDY.

COMING GERALDINE FARRAR

FETCHING HEROINE IN STAR FEATURE

"The Innocent Lie," by Lois Zellner, the latest of the Famous Players-Paramount productions, was directed by Sidney Olcott on the picturesque island of Bermuda. The exterior scenes are unsurpassably beautiful and with the spacious interior settings make an elaborate background for this appealing drama, which opens at the Star for the last time tonight.

Miss Valentine Grant, who has won distinction in several previous photo dramas, appears as Nora O'Brien, a poor Irish lass. Her troubles commence upon her arrival in America when she is struck by a thief. Fortunately, however, she is picked up and cared for by the Winters family, who find a note, addressed to them, on her person. Believing she is their cousin, the Winters discredited her truthful story that she was intrusted with the note by the genuine cousin.

In a short time Nora becomes accustomed to her luxurious surroundings and is happy to think that her rightful identity remains unknown. Always bearing in mind the fate that might befall her should the discovery of her usurped position occur, Nora won distinction in several previous accomplishes with but little effort. All her joyfulness disappears when her thieving, drunken brother puts in his appearance in a chauffeur's guise. He urges her to help him plunder the Winters residence, which Nora strongly refuses to do. Threatened with disclosure, Nora accedes to his demand and takes refuge in her brother's quarters.

Miss Grant plays the role of Nora with remarkable skill and is supported by a notable cast, including Jack J. Clark, Morris Foster, Hunter Arden and Robert Cain. Her debut upon the Famous Players-Paramount screen will undoubtedly be considered an auspicious one.

An Eke comedy, entitled "Avenged by a Fish," completes the bill.

In NOT MY SISTER

SHOULD A WOMAN TELL?

Occasionally there is found a man who, when he loves and is beloved, looks only at the present and future, never into the past. If there has been a dark chapter in the woman's life, it makes no difference to him.

But more there are who must believe that there has been no one else—whose jealousy reaches back into every year that has gone before. Because of such men, women tell lies. They conceal a misstep, rather than risk the loss of the man's love.
