

MEDFORD WINS FROM GRANTS PASS BY SCORE OF 13-0

Medford defeated Grants Pass 13-0 at Grants Pass Saturday, the scores being piled up in the third quarter by a series of straight marbles down the field by the local boys.

During the first half the Grants Pass team, which was probably ten pounds heavier to the man than the Medford aggregation, held the locals scoreless, using a number of formations, delayed passes and criss-crosses. Throughout the game Medford depended solely on straight football with her hope pinned on hard plunging and tackling and fast get-away. On this latter point the boys showed up much better in the game than at practice.

The ball was put over in the third quarter by a series of straight bucks, Gentry and Calhoun carrying the ball.

In the fourth quarter Grants Pass came close to scoring when she received the ball in the center of the field and walked down to within six inches of the Medford goal, when time was called.

Calhoun and Gentry shone as the particular stars of the game. Carter Brandon played the best game of his life, calling signals like a veteran, although it was his first experience at running the team.

Bob Besley, who did the punting for Grants Pass; Bestel, Harmon and Spaulding played the best game for the Granite City.

Medford will be put through a hard week of training in preparation for the game next Saturday with Klamath Falls. The Klamath Falls team has been showing up well in practice games played with their alumni and local town teams. A hard battle is expected, as the dope shows Klamath Falls to have a heavy, hard-fighting team.

One hundred Medford rooters journeyed to Grants Pass, including the high school band. Two hundred Grants Pass rooters were on hand. The field has been wired off and the officials had no difficulty in keeping the crowd off the field, as has been the case in the past.

The officials were: Dr. Lauree Briscoe, referee; Clam Hall, umpire; Paul Blanchard, head linesman.

them go so far as to say that we should actually be in the war.

This ashamed-of-my-country attitude is wearing to the patience of thoughtful Americans. In the first place, it is utterly astonishing that, with the whole world involved in a death struggle, the United States (trying to steer an impartial course, which is naturally objectionable to every belligerent) should not have been far more seriously affronted by the war-maddened nations than she actually has been. Nothing but a very skillful and patriotic handling of the situation by Mr. Wilson could have kept us out of most serious complications.

As a matter of fact, the United States, except in the eyes of a few rather aggressive Americans and a good many foreigners who have been blinded by the fear and suffering of the war, is looked upon throughout the world as having played a very sane and honorable part.

War U Party in United States

The war party in the United States is also essentially a moneyed or leisure class party. Instinctively the privileged class edges a country toward war, for proverbially war makes good places to root for traffics. As far as I have seen, rich people are practically alone in wanting the United States to go around with a clasp on its shoulder.

If Mr. Roosevelt and his stand-patters thought of the average American at all, they would see that he is a poor man. They would know that he is too busy supporting his wife and children on a very small income to realize that it is his moral (i. e., republican) duty to leave his farm or his workshop, put on a uniform and take part in a row that is going on 3000 miles or so away.

NINE SHIPS ARE TORPEDOED OFF AMERICAN COAST

Before Commander Miller could completely she had loaded all her passengers in her own boats from which they were taken on board the destroyer within five minutes.

Rescued Landed

Eighteen of the rescued women were landed at the government pier by permission of the health officers and were taken in automobiles to the homes of Governor R. Livingston Beekman, Mrs. French Vanderbilt and Arthur Curtis James, former commander of the New York Yacht club.

Dr. Andrews of the Grenfell mission was one of the four Stephano passengers taken to the home of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. He declared that the Germans gave the boat proper warning and then stood by until all of the passengers had been taken off.

"Officers of the Eriesson visited the Stephano," he said, "to make sure that all of the passengers and crew were safe. The members of the German crew boarded her and opened her water cocks. No torpedo was discharged."

While the Germans were disposing of the Stephano, a Dutch vessel, probably the Bloonsersdijk, was standing a short distance away. "Like a steer waiting to be slaughtered," in the words of Dr. Andrews, she had been warned to hold up.

Story of Captures

Mrs. Henry B. Wilton of Williams-town, Mass., said that the passengers were going to dinner when someone reported that destroyers surrounded the steamer and a submarine was nearby.

They thought all of those were American boats until the German flag was seen on the indolent ship. Three shots were fired across the bow of the Stephano, Mrs. Wilton said. The steamer was stopped and all were ordered to take to the boats immediately. The sea was calm and all were transferred to the destroyer Eriesson without difficulty.

Mrs. Mary Griffin of Phoenix, New England, said: "The submarine fired three shots from one of her deck guns. She appeared not to be trying to hit the Stephano but the third shot was so close we felt the jar. There was a little confusion as the boats were lowered, but officers and crew quieted the excited ones and we all got into boats O. K. There were five boat loads; about thirty women and children were aboard the ships. We were in the small boats about fifteen minutes before being picked up. We didn't hear or see a torpedo fired. But as we steamed away the Stephano seemed sinking. We did not see any other submarine or any of the other ships which were attacked, though we heard that several had been sunk. An English cruiser appeared off shore while we were aboard the Eriesson."

For further information call up Elks' club, 1168.

All persons having spare room in autos please report to club.

The committee desires to thank Mr. Sumner for the ground privilege for this occasion.

New York, who was on board the Stephano, said that the submarine moved about in no apparent haste within easy sight of the destroyer Eriesson while the latter was picking up the Stephano's passengers and crew who were adrift in four boats.

A Tough, of Ontario, another passenger, said that the submarine slipped in between the Eriesson and the Stephano at one time and was only 25 or 30 yards from the destroyer.

"It was 9 o'clock Sunday night when the submarine fired two shots across our bows," Captain Riley said. "One was a blank, I believe, the other a shell. Captain Smith of the Stephano ordered decks cleared and life boats lowered. We were given ample warning for safety."

Passengers Calm

"The passengers were unusually calm. The men assisted the children and women down the rope ladders to the boats, and the transfer was made without accident. We had drifted about for a while when the Eriesson came up, with the submarine in sight, circling about. I saw only one submarine."

The steamer Frederick VIII of the Scandinavian-American line, which is bringing home James W. Gerard, the American ambassador to Germany, and Mrs. Gerard, was about 600 miles east of New York at noon yesterday.

All the vessels destroyed by the submarine have been identified except possibly the Kingston. She is believed to be a British paddle steamer built for the Great Lakes trade in Canada and diverted between American and Canadian ports. She was of 2925 tons, 285 feet long and owned by the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd. of Toronto, Ont. She was built in 1901.

MRS. REBECCA MOORE PIONEER OF VALLEY CROSSES DIVIDE

GOLD HILL, Or., Oct. 9.—Mrs. Rebecca Moore, pioneer of the valley, aged 80, died at the home of her son, Robert H. Moore, Friday morning, October 6.

A little after 4 Friday morning Grandma Moore called her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Merritt, to tell her that she was feeling better and that the pain had left her and she guessed she would go to sleep. So Mrs. Merritt tucked her in and returned to her room. Later in the morning Mrs. Merritt and Mrs. Moore, Jr., had occasion to visit grandma's room in search of an article, and together found she had gone to sleep in that peaceful sleep from which they awake to the life eternal.

She had remarked Thursday afternoon and evening of a strange feeling in her chest, but nothing serious was thought of it, although she had her daughter, Mrs. Merritt, stay within calling distance for the night, and when she called to her it was to tell her how much better she felt and that they could both go to sleep now.

On her way down stairs in the morning Mrs. Moore, Jr., glanced in and saw grandma calmly asleep, not knowing that she was probably at that time asleep in Jesus. From the appearance of the bed covers when found by the daughters she had not again awakened till she reached the other shore.

Rebecca McFarland Moore was born at Pittsburg, Pa., September 7, 1836. She married the late William Moore in Pennsylvania, September 30, 1856. On December 18, 1875, she arrived in Jackson county, and had since made this her home. She leaves three children—Robert H. Moore of Central Point, William T. Moore of Los Angeles, and Mrs. J. W. Merritt of Central Point; also a granddaughter and a great grandson.

She was a charter member of the First Presbyterian church of Central Point and also of the Missionary society of that church, besides being a member of the Central Point Rebekah lodge. Everyone who had ever known Grandma Moore will remember her smile and most lovable nature and will assuredly miss them. The bereaved relatives have the sincere sympathy of all her many friends. Funeral services were held at the residence Sunday afternoon at 2:30, Revs. Doran of Ashland and Paul S. Bandy of Central Point officiating. Flowers in great numbers were brought and sent, for which the relatives desire to return thanks, as well as for the sympathy and assistance bestowed.

Admiral Fletcher Talks

So much for the testimony of Admiral Mayo. Now for the story of Admiral Fletcher. I found him in Washington in the office of the general board, a man of few words, steady of eye and fairly oozing a sense of competency.

SUGGESTIONS TO SICK WOMEN

How Many Are Restored To Health.

First.—Almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine most successful in relieving female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates and strengthens the organism; it overcomes disease.

For forty years it has been making women strong and well, relieving backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pains. It has also proved invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Third.—The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of female ills.

Fourth.—Every ailing woman in the United States is cordially invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

"No. My order was to seize the custom house at Vera Cruz. A bombardment at that time was out of the question, because there were treaties and non-combatants to be considered."
